Nixon Orders Spy Flights To Continue Off N. Korea

Maj. Gen. James Knapp of the United States walks out of the Military Armistice Commission meeting at Panmunjom, Korea, today after denouncing North Korea's shooting down of an unarmed American reconnaissance plane. Knapp left the meeting when the North Korean representative, Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, left, repeatedly demanded to know what unit the plane belonged to. (AP Wirephoto)

All Planes 'Will be Protected'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon ordered today protection against armed attack of U.S. intelligence plane flights near the coast of North Korea which he said were being resumed after a brief suspension.

Nixon told a news conference the unarmed plane which North Korean jets shot down Tuesday with an evident loss of 31 American airmen was 90 miles from the North Korean coast at the time. He said it was flying away from North Korean territory because its mission had been aborted.

He said he had ordered the flights continued and "they will be protected," and declared at a later point: "When planes of the United States and ships of the United States are in international airspace or in international waters, they are not fair game. They will not be in the future."

After Nixon reported the flights had been discontinued, he added: "I have today ordered that these flights be continued. They will be protected. That is not a threat. It is merely a statement of fact."

In his far-ranging news conference, the President also:

—Said the prospects for peace in Vietnam "have significantly improved since he took office. In answer to a question, he said, "I am not" considering a unilateral withdrawal of U.S. forces from the war zone.

—Promised that the 10 per cent income tax surcharge will be "reduced and removed as soon as we are able to do so." He gave no indication how soon a reduction might be forthcoming.

—Said the administration's tax reform package would be submitted to Congress Monday or Tuesday and "will be of interest to all of you."

—Indicated he would "enthusiastically support" the direct

Revenge

TAIYEBEH, Occupied Jordan (AP)—The father of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, convicted killer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, today swore "revenge on American politicians" if his son is executed.

"The revenge won't be in words," Bishara Sirhan declared. He did not elaborate.

"I accept the fact that my son killed Sen. Kennedy," he said "But Sen. Kennedy was to blame. He provoked my son by threatening to supply arms to the Middle East which would have caused the death of thousands, and the displacement of many more."

"My son did well," said the 55-year-old Arab.

"Many Americans have come to my house and told me they were happy to get rid of Kennedy," he added.

Sirhan vituperatively attacked deputy prosecutor David Fitts, cursing him in Arab expletives and charging "he would not let my son defend himself."

My son, as a true Christian like myself, is ready to work for peace, not only in words but from all his heart," said Sirhan. He said executing the youth would achieve nothing "because peace lovers will never surrender."

Sirhan Faces Jurors Again

Convicted Murderer Will Either Get Life Term or be Executed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan is guilty of first-degree murder for assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Now, the same jury that convicted him must decide whether he lives or dies.

The penalty phase of Sirhan's trial begins Monday and is expected to last no more than a day or two. The jury will choose one of two sentences: life in prison or death in the gas chamber. A life sentence precludes parole for at least seven years.

Unknown until he murdered the 42-year-old presidential candidate last June, Sirhan tried—even after the first-degree verdict Thursday—to put testimony about the Arab-Israeli conflict into the court record.

Sirhan, passionately partisan to the Arab cause, said his love for Kennedy turned to hate when he decided the New York senator was pro-Israel.

Defense counsel Grant B. Cooper asked to bring witnesses representing Arab countries to the penalty phase "to show the surrounding circumstances" of Sirhan's youth in war-torn Palestine "so the jury can understand the situation and understand his frame of mind more fully."

The defense is allowed to bring out background and other mitigating circumstances during the penalty phase.

But the state argued that such witnesses as Cooper mentioned —none knows Sirhan—would have no more relevance to the trial than experts on World War II or the Korean conflict. Judge Herbert V. Walker denied Cooper's motion.

"Beautiful"

Cooper, who said "it is not my view" that the testimony should be heard, asked his 25-year-old client if he had expressed his wishes.

"Beautiful," said Sirhan.

It was his only audible comment in the courtroom after the verdict.

John E. Howard, a deputy district attorney who has spoken in favor of death penalties, will present the state's argument on a sentence to the jury which rejected the defense contention and a month's worth of psychiatric testimony that Sirhan was too mentally ill to be guilty of first degree murder.

"We will cite facts: his lack of remorse and the effect of political assassination on the democratic process," Howard said. "It will be explained to the jury that it (life or death) will be in their absolute discretion. They now have to evaluate in their conscience a proper penalty."

Sirhan strode into the courtroom with firm step, coatless and tieless, putting out a last minute cigarette—just as he had on 62 previous court days stretching back to Jan. 7.

He glanced around for his mother Mary, who had been in a second row seat most of those

U.S. Delegate Walks Out

Panmunjom Talks Last 42 Minutes

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — A U.S. representative met a North Korean today, protested the shooting down of the American reconnaissance plane by North Korea and walked out after 42 minutes. It was one of the shortest meetings ever of the Korean Military Armistice Commission.

Air Force Maj. Gen. James B. Knapp accused the North Koreans of a "calculated act of aggression" in bringing down the plane and its 31 crewmen Tuesday in the Sea of Japan.

Two bodies were recovered Thursday, but there was little hope of finding the other 29. American destroyers and planes were searching over a wide area.

After Knapp finished reading his protest, the North Korean representative, Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, said the United States sent out the plane to spy in an act of piracy. Then he declared: "You tell me which unit the aircraft belongs to, then I will give you an answer."

"I have nothing further to discuss," Knapp replied. "Do you have anything to say?"

Lee repeated his demand and Knapp repeated his statement. When Lee asked again what unit the plane belonged to, Knapp and his aides rose from the table and walked out of the conference room. Lee and his aide sat for two minutes, then also left.

Routine Charges

North Korea had requested the armistice commission meeting, and the Communist delegate opened it with a routine statement in which he charged the U.N. Command in Korea with 39 armed truce violations April 10-17. He did not mention the plane.

Knapp ignored Lee's charges and read his statement about the downed plane.

"At no time did our aircraft penetrate or even closely approach North Korean air space," he declared. "Since it was at all times clearly within international air space you had no right to threaten or interfere with it, let alone shoot it down."

He said the debris from the plane was found approximately 90 miles from North Korea and added: "There appeared to have been no survivors from the 31 men on board the aircraft."

"The peace of this area is constantly being disturbed by your actions," the protest told North Korea. "The proper course for you to take in this instance is to acknowledge the true facts of the case: That you shot down our aircraft over international waters at a point approximately 90 miles from your coast, and that this plane at no time entered your air space."

The North Koreans have maintained that the plane intruded deep into their air space. They claim their territorial limits extend 12 miles out to sea.

Rodong Shinmoon, the official North Korean newspaper, said today in a statement published before the meeting of the armistice commission: "The U.S. imperialists had already conducted reconnaissance many times in the environs of our country through their spy planes, and went the length that day of insolently sending one of them into the inviolable territorial air of our country to conduct espionage."

The U.S. protest also denounced an attempt in 1968 to assassinate President Chung Hee Park of South Korea as well as the seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and the "brutal mistreatment of her crew." It accused the North Koreans also of "innumerable infiltrations into the Republic of South Korea and violations of the demilitarized zone."

Knapp's walkout was the second by a representative of the U.N. and U.S. commands in the 290 meetings of the armistice commission since the Korean War ended in 1953. The first occurred April 27, 1959, when U.S. officials charged the North Koreans with using abusive language. The North Koreans also have walked out twice.

Knapp made no comments after leaving the conference room and took a helicopter back to Seoul.

The U.N. Command said in a statement that Knapp's walkout was prompted by North Korean attempts to interject delaying tactics into the meeting. However, some observers believed that the American officer had been instructed by Washington not to elaborate on the prepared statement in advance of President Nixon's news conference today.

Hard-Liner Named

Reds Oust Dubcek

PRAGUE (AP) — Police reinforcements and soldiers guarded strategic points in Czechoslovakia today, but there were no reports of disturbances protesting the replacement of Alexander Dubcek as Communist Party chief.

The 190-member Central Committee at a crisis meeting Thursday named Gustav Husak, the dour pro-Moscow head of the Slovak party, to replace Dubcek.

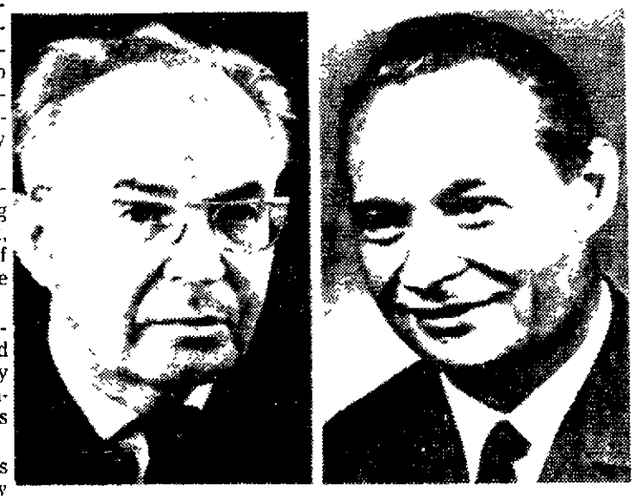

Truckloads of police reinforcements and army armored cars were outside university buildings at the national assembly, near student dormitories and at factories.

No plans for demonstrations were reported so far. Moscow was reported to have warned that Soviet occupation troops would step in if local forces could not keep order.

CTK, the Czechoslovak news agency, said the Central Committee had finished its plenary session and further details of the leadership reshuffle would be announced later.

Prague airport reopened to normal traffic today after closing to commercial planes Thursday night. Airport employes said Russian officers had appeared at the control tower.

Students and young workers were reported planning meetings to determine how they would react to the leadership change. Although Dubcek, 47, lost much of his wildly enthusiastic following as he was forced to make concession after concession in the wake of the Soviet invasion last August, Husak is generally disliked and mistrusted by freedom-minded trade unionists and students.

Gustav Husak Alexander Dubcek

After the announcement of his appointment, Husak spoke on the radio and television and called on the people "to keep calm and support the new leadership."

"We are not giving up any of the great ideas which entered our public life last year," he said, "but it is necessary to see what, where and in what order they can be put into practice."

The first main task is "to lead our society out of this state of crisis," he continued. "To make some progress it is indispensable at this time to introduce more discipline both in party and social life .... Some people imagine freedom is boundless, unlimited ... but in every ordered state there must be certain rules of the game, primarily adherence to laws, adherence to social, party and civil discipline and primarily emphasis on honest work."

The new party first secretary announced that as soon as the current crisis is mastered, top priority will be given to solving Czechoslovakia's urgent economic problems. He also promised democratic election of the Parliament and party congress "as soon as permitted by the situation." The elections have been postponed due to Soviet pressure.

Dubcek himself presented the new party organization plan to the Central Committee's 21-member ruling Presidium, thus removing himself from the top post. It was generally believed, however, that the resignation was a collective decision and possibly forced on him

An official party statement said he would remain a member of the Presidium and "will go to a leading state function." Unofficial reports circulated that he would become chairman of the two-house parliament.

Bolstering Strength

Russia a 'Problem' In Mediterranean

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — The commander of NATO forces in Southern Europe said today that an increase in Soviet naval strength in the Mediterranean in the past week, including the addition of more submarines, has created "a real problem" for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

U.S. Adm. Horacio Rivero told a news conference that the Soviet Union "may be preparing to conduct a major exercise" in the Mediterranean. He said the Soviet ships undoubtedly will observe the big NATO sea and air maneuvers that get under way Sunday.

Rivero said Soviet naval combat strength in the area is "at an all time high." He noted that 50 or more Soviet ships are now operating in the Mediterranean, and that there were more than 60 last September. But he said the number of combat vessels in the present lineup is higher than ever before.

He said the submarines—both conventionally powered and nuclear—"pose an important threat" because of the difficulty in keeping track of them.

"Events in Czechoslovakia give an indication of the Soviet mood, and of their readiness and willingness to employ naked military strength without warning when it suits their policy and when they can foresee success."

Committee Gives Its Blessings to Tarr in New Job

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, president of Lawrence University in Appleton, was approved Thursday by the Senate Armed Services Committee as assistant secretary of the Air Force for manpower and Reserve affairs.

Confirmation by the Senate is expected early next week, according to committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss.

Stennis said, however, that even though Tarr is confirmed, he will not officially assume his post until after the end of the current school year at Lawrence.

The handful of senators present at the hearing accorded Tarr gracious treatment with only a few references to the educator's qualifications for a top Pentagon post.

Only one warning was sounded and that came from Stennis, who stressed that the committee is exceptionally interested in the Reserve program.

"You'll get some trouble out of us if you don't make Reserve affairs a major part of your job," the Mississippi senator cautioned

Tenure in Office

Stennis also pinned Tarr down on the length of time he intended to stay in his Pentagon post.

"I hope to be able to stay as long as the President and secretary of state want me," Tarr answered.

This seemed to satisfy Stennis. Later, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, commented that he was impressed by Tarr's appearance and his intent to stay in the Department of Defense rather than leave it after a year or so for other work

Stennis told the committee members Tarr had volunteered to get rid of all his stock in companies dealing with defense contracts. The senator also said Tarr had informed the committee by letter that he would either sell interests held by his family's company, the Sierra Tractor and Equipment Co. of Chico, Calif., which were in companies dealing with defense contracts, or transfer the stock to other types of investments held by the Sierra fiirm.

Judging by the number of questions asked by senators about academic behavior at Lawrence, it appeared that committee members were almost as interested in student rebellion as in military matters.

The first question Stennis asked Tarr was, "Have you had any trouble at Lawrence?"

"I guess that a certain amount of turbulance goes with the day," Tarr responded, smiling.

Later, Young asked, "Have you had any real disorders at Lawrence?"

Almost as if it had been planned, several hippie-type, long-haired, dirty, male teenagers straggled into the hearing room at that moment The atmosphere became tense, the senators no doubt recalling the violence-scarred hippie-yippie march on the Pentagon last year.

Stennis glared at the hippies and they promptly sat down and remained quiet the rest of the hearing.

After Tarr responded to Young's question about disorders at Lawrence by saying, "Up until Wednesday afternoon there had been no real disorders," Young launched into a discussion of student unrest.

He said he was sympathetic with the "youngsters" but added he didn't believe they

Students Clash With Police At Columbia

Demonstration Called Against ROTC Program

NEW YORK (AP) — About 200 militants held a seven-hour sit-in at Columbia University, marked by scuffling with opposition students and a violent clash with security guards who tried to serve them with a court order.

The protesters left Philosophy Hall late Thursday night after they were notified by university spokesmen that the order barring disruptive protests was legally in effect.

Two university officials who tried to serve the order fled from the students by throwing a chair through a first-floor window and jumping out. One of them suffered a cut wrist. Three students were injured in the clash with security guards.

"We were serving the papers when they attacked us," said Willard McCoy, one of the officials. "They threw bottles, turned a fire extinguisher on us. It was wild."

Many students then broke up furniture to arm themselves with clubs, in expectation of a clash with police.

But Columbia's acting president, Andrew W. Cordier, said he would not call police to the 25,000-student campus. A university vice president, Ted Van Dyk, told the students through a bullhorn that the injunction, which bars disruptive protests, had been served.

After a heated debate, the students emerged, chanting, "This is just the start. We will win." They paraded around campus and held a rally that drew about 1,500 persons.

The protest was organized by Students for a Democratic Society to demand "open enrollment" for all New York high school students who want to attend the 215-year-old school. They also seek an end to the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps program on campus and a halt "in racist expansion" into the surrounding community.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., father of the slain civil rights leader, raises his umbrella as he talks with newsmen Thursday at the Atlanta University Center, where rebellious Negro students held trustees while demanding a change in the name of the college complex to Martin Luther King Jr. University. The elder King met with rebel student leaders and later was asked if he approved of their method of protest. "I don't," King said. (AP Wirephoto)

'Instant Replay' Aids Science

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television instant replay, the delight of millions of sports fans, is establishing itself as a potentially lifesaving aid in some of the nation's major hospitals.

The same type of device that lets you see how the swivel-hipped halfback scored is especially valuable in diagnosing ailments of the heart, where action happens faster than in any other organ.

By watching as the fleeting action shown by fluoroscopic X-rays is rerun over and over on a nearby television screen, the doctor can confirm within seconds what he thought he saw or may have missed the first time, then decide if immediate surgery or further examination is necessary.

In contrast, standard X-ray pictures and movie film must be developed, so a diagnosis based on them alone can't be made for at least an hour.

Heart Defects

Col. Robert J. Hall, chief of cardiology services at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital, says the technique is a major help in diagnosing the trouble in infants born with heart defects.

"In the tiny heart of an infant," he said, "the diagnostic dye displaying the anatomy of the heart's interior can race through the heart in about one second. But you can lok at the instant replay 10 or 12 times and make a decision as to what step to take next before getting the movie films and X-ray stills."

Doctors say the new method has existing or potential use in helping diagnose ailments of the intestinal tract, the brain and the spinal cord.

In one method of diagnosing heart trouble, a small amount of dye is injected through tubes threaded through blood vessels. Physicians watch the dye's movement on a closed-circuit TV screen a few feet away.

In a recent diagnosis, surgeons at Walter Reed injected 2½ tablespoonfuls of the thick dye into the heart of a 59-year-old man and confirmed immediately that the valve controlling the blood flow from his heart into the aorta, the body's main pipeline, was constricted.

But by replaying the almost-instantaneous disappearance of the dye as the blood swept it away, they found a tiny puff of white on the wrong side of the valve—bad news.

It meant that the gateway valve of the aorta not only was obstructed and therefore could not open properly, but also couldn't close properly, resulting in some leakage of blood back into the heart.

"If his trouble had only been obstruction," Maj. Stephen Glasser of Miami, Fla., said, "we might have elected to overcome it by surgically loosening the calcified valve leaflets."

"But now," he said, "indications call for removal of the diseased valve and replacement with an artificial valve."

Crest at La Crosse to be Higher Than Expected

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The surging Mississippi aimed at La Crosse's defense today while further north, the St. Croix River is dropping. Down river at Prairie du Chien, where the crest isn't expected until next week, final preparations to protect abandoned buildings were being made.

La Crosse was warned Thursday to expect a higher than forecast crest of 16.7 feet Saturday, well above flood stage, but 1.3 feet below the rims of the big dikes.

Smaller dikes are being reinforced and two temporary dikes are being built along the Black and La Crosse Rivers.

Lange Drive, one of two main arteries connecting the north and south parts of the city was closed Thursday because of the threat of water damage to the road.

Volunteers worked in the light rain Thursday to fill 14,000 sandbags needed to fill weak spots and existing openings—for roads and railroads—when the waters rise.

Full-time patrols of the dikes, with 18 game wardens and highway patrolmen, started Thursday. An airplane is to join the patrols today.

At Prairie du Chien, the low fourth ward was under about four feet of water.

"Everybody's out who needs to be out," a police officer said. "We're just taking it as it comes."

About 80 families have left their homes in the city—which is too low to be protected by dikes. Some workers were sandbagging around buildings to protect the foundations from the river current.

The Mississippi, now at 19.2 feet, is expected to crest at 22.5 feet Wednesday—4.5 feet above flood stage.

Up to 40 more families may evacuate because of the higher than expected crest.

To the north, the St. Croix River reached its crest at Stillwater, Minn., and Hudson, Wis. Wednesday night, and began to fall back.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles planned to fly over the area, today, according to the office of emergency government.

Chaplain Recalls War More Vividly

FT. RUCKER, Ala. (AP) — An Army chaplain who won the Medal of Honor says the war in Vietnam possibly has made him more sensitive to the value of life than his training for the priesthood.

Capt. Angelo J. Liteky told soldiers at Ft. Rucker recently, "Any person who goes through something like that has the memories of it intact in his mind, as many of you here know.

"I suppose it has made me more sensitive than I would be even by virtue of my profession to the value of human life."

Chaplain Liteky, credited with saving the lives of 20 wounded men during an ambush in a rice paddy two years ago, said he would return to Vietnam this summer.

Agents Seize Huge Illinois Arms Cache

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Ten U.S. Treasury agents seized nearly 1,000 submachine guns and large quantities of other arms and ammunition Thursday in a raid on the home of Richard A. Lauchli Jr., 42, identified a a former leader of the Illinois Minutemen.

U.S. Atty. Richard Eagleton said Lauchli was taken into custody under the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1968. He was to appear today before U.S. Commissioner William Giffin in Springfield, Ill.

The agents said they had counted more than 800 submachine guns at the beginning of their inventory and more were expected to be added.

Some machine guns were found in and around Lauchli's home and 130 turned up in an abandoned garage about two miles away.

Grenades, Rockets

Eagleton said the agents also found in the house about 50 hand grenades, seven rockets and a rocket launcher, 25 rifles and shotguns and several thousand rounds of ammunition of various types.

The federal official said Lauchli bought most of the Thompson submachine guns as scrap metal from a Utah military installation in 1964. Some had holes drilled in them to make them unusable.

"This stuff was junk in a way, but in the hands of Lauchli it was being turned into very effective weapons," Eagleton said.

Implied Consent Bill Gets Okay

MADISON (AP) — The "implied consent" bill—requiring a driver suspected of drunken driving to submit to chemical tests for blood alcohol content—was recommended for passage, 3-2, Thursday by the Senate Highways Committee.

Taking up a package of Knowles' safety proposals in executive session, the committee voted 4-1 to support a bill increasing the size of the state patrol from 300 to 500. Also approved was a bill to require uniform traffic control signs.

A bill to make mandatory the wearing of seat belts failed to get committee support.

Sex Education Program Provokes Controversy at Highlands PTA

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Members of Highlands School PTA might not agree on what type of sex education is best for their children, but it was an obvious majority that ruled a small but vocal segment out of order at Thursday evening's presentation of a program entitled "Sex Education and the Elementary School Child."

Controversy centered on the showing of a 40-minute filmstrip prepared by SIECUS (Sex Information and Education Council of the United States). One of a package purchased by the Outagamie County Medical Auxiliary, "Human Sexuality: Modern Approach" is narrated by NBC newsman, Chet Huntley. His renowned low-keyed but crisp delivery sets the tone for a series of interviews with school administrators mothers, teenagers, doctors, a Catholic priest, a rabbi and a Presbyterian minister all concerned with today's youth and their introduction to sex

Faces Reveal Concern

As adults air opinions about the kinds of programs and educational philosophies they support in community institutions including the school, and as youngsters discuss moral attitudes and the subject of sexual identity, the camera focuses for the most part on faces in a series of photographic studies that reveal the inner agitation of parents, the love between mother and child, the concern of the clergy, the vigor of youth and the wonder and curiosity of children watching eggs hatch or raising their hands to ask questions

The complaint that teenagers as well as parents suffer from ignorance, fears, misinformation and a poor understanding of sexuality, not only in the narrow sense of the reproductive process, but in the broader context of functioning as an intelligent, well adjusted male or female, is expressed time and again by all age groups and professions represented in the filmstrip.

Echoing their sentiments were Mrs James Veum; Mrs. Arnold Wochos, school nurse; Dr. Thomas Loescher, general practitioner, and Robert Gellert, director of the Family Service Association, all of whom served as panelists, each presenting their own view of current sex education and general suggestions for future programs to members of Highlands School PTA.

No Sex Education Class

Mrs. Wochos explained at the outset that Appleton public schools do not include sex education courses per se in their curricula, but that a film telling the story of menstruation is shown to girls at the intermediate two level. Further elaboration on the topics of physical growth and development and attitudes toward the process of maturation comes when girls on the verge of graduating from the elementary grades preview "It's Wonderful Being a Girl." She added that mothers are invited to attend the film with their daughters in the hope of encouraging them to read and discuss together the materials available at the showing.

Admittedly unfamiliar with the specifics of the corresponding program for boys on the elementary school level, Mrs. Wochos stated, however, that it, too, is based on the assumption that the greater part of sex education is the responsibility of the parent.

Negative Conclusion Backed

"Any amount of information children get in school is rather limited. And the number of illegitimate births and teenage pregnancies would lead me to believe that not all youngsters are well informed . . . I'm sure most of the problem is ignorance on the part of not only the girl, but the boy, too," she concluded.

Speaking from experience in dealing with students at Xavier High School and Wilson Junior High School, Gellert declared emphatically, "Sex education as taught in the home is general a colossal myth. I've found little honest confrontation between children and parents on the topic."

He added that few mothers and almost no fathers with whom he has come in contact professionally have been able to discuss sex education with their children. The very real dilemma is one of the major reasons why the Family Service Association is in the process of developing a family life education program directed toward community, explained the organization's director.

Home All-Important

From Dr. Loescher came the observation that the atmosphere of the home plays a major role in determining a youngster's concept of sex.

"The biggest amount of sex education children receive from parents is through experiencing whatever atmosphere and attitudes prevail in the family. If the home is a happy one, the child will probably have a more positive attitude toward sex," he remarked.

According to Dr. Loescher, failure to provide the proper type of environment for sex education results in three types of problems with which he is repeatedly confronted: the young, ill at ease, single girl ranging in age from 17 to 19 who finds herself pregnant "usually because of ignorance"; the expectant young married who requires a lecture on the process of reproduction and the development of the infant, and the mother who requests him to assume the responsibility of explaining the facts of life to her daughter.

Suggested Program

"It's a communications gap," said Mrs. Veum, commenting on the foregoing opinions and observations. "I would like to see sex education offered from kindergarten through 12th grade . . . perhaps the integrated approach — teaching the subject along with other curricula — would be the most effective. Certainly as we begin to have more discussion, we can develop a better understanding of ourselves and our relationship to others."

As ensuing questions from the floor were to reveal, communication between the representatives of two opposing points of view meant bridging a gap that occasionally widened to an unbreachable point.

Mother Applaunded

Objections voiced by several persons who admitted they were not members of Highlands School PTA or, in one case, the community at large were immediately raised against the SIECUS film. And when an ardent anti-SIECUS campaigner from Green Bay protested PTA president-elect Ronald Veara's refusal to grant his on-the-spot request to show a film reflecting a different point of view, there were repercussions from both sides.

But it became apparent where the majority stood when one mother took the floor to chide the dissenters for "lacking the courtesy to notify the PTA beforehand of their wishes to present a film," whatever point of view it might represent.

Few failed to join the enthusiastic applause on her bahalf.

Sex Education Bill Unveiled Thursday

MADISON (AP) — Legislation to prohibit mandatory sex education in Wisconsin schools was introduced in the State Assembly Thursday.

Assemblyman Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield, said he offered the proposal because of "increasing parental alarm over tendencies by some of our educators to liberalize sex education."

Coauthoring the bill with Merkel were Republican Assemblymen George Klick of Wauwatosa and Byron Wacett of Watertown.

Color the Fox Cities Spring

Did you notice as you drove around the Fox Cities this week or as you looked out a window of your home, the exquisite color of the first green grass and the buds on the trees suggesting that leaves soon will be waving in the gentle summer breezes?

It was a good feeling, known that in spite of some of the conditions that exist in our world today — the wars, the poverty, the hunger — that the physical world continues to fulfill its promises of changing seasons — each with their own special kind of beauty.

It was disheartening to read of another incident in Korea. Each of us in our own way hopes and believes that peace is possible and that man — the same man who can figure out a way to fly to the moon — surely will be able to solve the problems of strife in the world.

Doing their part are Republican women from all over the nation who have gathered this week in Washington for their annual conference. Although occupied with meetings most of the time, the delegates have had time for social functions, too. Mrs. Richard Nixon greeted them at the White House and was special guest at a banquet Wednesday evennig.

One of the Fairest of Britain's crop of spring flowers, actress Jackie Gentle, 21, above, displays hand painted blooms on her legs to match those on her tunic as she models see-through look tights in London recently. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., leans over to chat with Mrs. Richard Nixon Wednesday evening when at the Republican Women's Conference dinner in Washington.

Bride-Elect Anna Mae Lehman, at left, walks away from a store with another wedding gown so she was able to be married in style Saturday. Her wedding gown and most of her trousseau were stolen from her car after she worked overtime as a hospital nurse to pay the expenses of a wedding and gown. A sympathetic merchant read of her plight and provided a replacement gown.

Actress Meredith MacRae, 24, daughter of singers, Gordon and Shelia MacRae, applies for a marriage license Wednesday in Los Angeles with actor Greg Mullavey, 28. His father, Greg, is a former Los Angeles Dodgers coach. The pair met in an actors' workshop in Hollywood 18 months ago. They will be married Saturday.

Communications — A Key to Happy Marriage

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Keeping the door to communication open is a basic problem for most married couples and one they will have to learn to solve, Mr. and Mrs Whitehead told a group of high school students gathered at the Shangra-La Wednesday evening for the second in a series of four informal talks on marriage being sponsored by the Appleton Catholic Education Council. The discussions are designed to help the student understand some of the problems they will someday face in their own marriages.

In any relationship it is important not to judge or evaluate everything someone else tells us, Mrs Whitehead pointed out. We have to learn not to be on the defensive, not to be fearful of what the other person thinks of us. When we set up a facade, she said, we try to make others believe we are something we are not

Who is "Real Me"

"But how do we get to know the real me' — the one behind this false front?" she asked

First, each of us must admit to ourselves that we really don't know ourselves then, we must ask ourselves about our insecurities and take a good look at ourselves.

Finally, she said, as we begin to see this "real me," to se things in ourselves that we didn't know existed, we will begin to recognize what we are like and what our problems are. We'll have to look back — perhaps into our childhood — to find out what made us the way we are, what influenced us and what caused us to have certain insecurities

As we watch ourselves from the outside to find out who we really are — what our wants and needs are — we'll find we really like ourselves much better without the facade, she said.

Successful Communication

Mr. Whitehead discussed some of the basic ways to develop successful communications stressing that it is essential to listen in a non-critical way to what the other person is trying to say

If a wife begins to talk about her weakness, Mrs Whitehead said, and her husband begins to unfold his weaknesses, it will become a strength between them — a bridge — to their sharing

"Of course, you may return to the old position and find you have to rebuild the bridge"

Baring our true selves is a frightening thought, the couple agreed, because we are self-conscious about exposing our inner fears. It takes real courage to admit weaknesses — especially to the one we love

Sexual Adjustment

Mr. Whitehead discussed sexual adjustment in marriage, pointing out that it is often an adjustment that is difficult, and can cause a communication breakdown. "It is almost impossible to discuss this subject in a completely true way," he said

The couple reminded the teen-agers that when they marry they must remember that they have broken their relationship with their parents — often a problem for a young husband or wife. They must recognize that their mates come first in all things.

A disagreement about a mother-in-law can really result in a communications breakdown.

As they brought their informal discussion to a close, the Whiteheads suggested that each one of the students take time to learn how to ask questions that can't be answered with a simple yes or no; that they try, rather, to pose questions in such a way that the other person has some place to go with his answer.

"Learn to communicate — to express your need for love and attention to the one you love."

At Annual GOP Conference

Valley Women Represent State at Opening

BY EDITH BOCK

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew; Sen. Rogers C. B. Morton, Republican national chairman designate, and Up With People headlined the gala supper opening the annual Republican Women's Conference Monday.

Although tired from a day or more of traveling, the 4,500 delegates found the evening to be an exhilarating experience that heightened the excitement of being tuned in at the nation's capital during a Republican adminstration.

The women watched with growing anticipation as they caught a glimpse of Mrs. Elly Peterson, incoming assistant national GOP chairman and national committeewoman from Michigan. Mrs. Peterson was joined at the speakers' table by Mrs. Mary Brooks, new director of the Mint, who wore a flower lei to match her pale pink gown.

Dressed in an elegant oyster colored satin shirtwaist, Mrs. Agnew numbered among the distinguished guests taking their places in the spotlight as they were introduced. Upon entering to make his address, the Vice President kissed her lightly in passing to the satisfaction of feminine audience.

"If our purpose is to prevent war, if our goal is to pave the road to meaningful disarmament talks and to maintain all options, the Safeguard System at this time is our best approach," Vice President Agnew told the delegates.

He praised the work of Republican women as a positive force within the party as he spoke of plans for the Safeguard System. It will be constructed and deployed in careful phases and accompanied by an extensive and continuing effort in research and development, he explained.

Long Day's Climax

Earlier, the audience of 3,000 in the banquet hall of the Sheraton Park Hotel and some 1,500 in the Exhibit Hall stood to greet the party chairman designate and Ray C. Bliss, current chairman.

For the Wisconsin delegation, the gala supper climaxed a long day. Fox Valley Republican women drove to Milwaukee to board the plane which took them into National Airport in Washington about mid-afternoon. Daffodils, tulips and cherry blossoms brightened the way to the hotel.

Checking in was a madhouse of delegates anxious to find rooms and get to the Wisconsin Suite for badges and conference credentials. There was hasty grooming before the state's delegations represented by Mrs. Byron Ising, Oshkosh, national committeewoman; Mrs. Gordon Gill, Neenah, state conference chairman, and Mrs Robert Uehling, Madison state conference public relations chairman, attended a reception for retiring assistant national chairman, Mrs. Brooks.

Tribute to Eisenhower

Then it was on to the supper gala.

There, along with speeches and song, the women heard a touching tribute to the late General Eisenhower delivered by Congresswoman Charlotte T Reid, Illinois.

"In death as in life, Gen. Eisenhower touched the hearts of the people," she said. "He reminded millions not only of the achievements of one American, but of the achievements of America. He left with each of us a little of his price in America, his awareness of its people, his love and feeling responsibility for mankind."

Spotlight on Personalities

WASHINGTON — There are stimulating women to be met at the annual Republican Women's Conference and one can make their acquaintance as easily as sitting down at a table.

At my left at Monday's opening supper gala was Miss Enid Slack, public relations director for Up With People, the choral group which entertained the women that evening and headed the Inaugural parade.

"For these people, this program is a new philosophy, a whole way of life," remarked Miss Slack, who went on to explain that so far Up With People has toured four continents, crossed America nine times, and created 190 regional sing-outs involving about 50,000 young people in its work of developing tomorrow's leadership around the world.

Personnel Donate Talent

None of the performers in Up With People, the staff or the directors receives a salary, said Miss Slack. They give their time and their services in the interest of showing the country and the world what the youth of today is like, according to the director who is from Gainsville, Ga.

"Many of us have been with the group almost since the beginning when Ralph, Steve and Paul Colwell founded the group," Miss Slack added.

The 30 members at the conference included the three brothers whose ideas, talents and need to serve inspired the origin of Up With People in 1965. While they were performing at the conference, three casts of the show were making their debut in Europe, revealed Miss Slack.

Next to Miss Slack was Mrs. R. William Leonhart, Washington, D.C. resident and mother of the designated ambassador to Yugoslavia, William Leonhart, a career diplomat with professional experience in such places as, Tanganyika and Tanzania.

Busy Day For All

Like any mother, the tiny, fragile Mrs. Leonhart had news clippings to share with her tablemates with whom she chatted between speeches.

"New Hampshire values its Republican women," were the words that floated from across the table. "Our state chairman thinks nothing of leaving the job to me when he is called away.

The speaker was Mrs. Victoria Zachos, New Hampshire vice chairwoman, who was busy with a camera recording the entrance of guests bound for the speaker's table.

Mrs. Zachos said she was going back to her state Monday to be on hand to greet the vice president, but would return to the conference. It was going to make a busy day, she admitted.

Attending the Dinner and installation ceremonies of Valley Shrine No. 10. Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, at the Masonic Temple were LeRoy Jury, Mrs. Thomas Cahoe, Mrs. James Desens and Felix Penny. A reception to honor new officers was held after the ceremonies. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Students to View Careers In Medicine

Wisconsin high school juniors will get a look at careers in the health field during a medical careers day Saturday in Madison.

Sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary to the State Medical Society of Wisconsin, the day will begin with a program at Society Headquarters. Highlight of the morning session will be a talk entitled "Medical Horizons — Unlimited," by Dr. Robert J. Samp, noted physician and educator. Doctor Samp, a native of Madison and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, is assistant professor at the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine.

After lunch the students will be transported by buses to Madison General and University Hospitals.

At Madison General they will tour the nurses dormitory and the School of Nursing. At University Hospitals each student will have an opportunity to visit two of the 14 featured departments.

Tricky Play Found by Alertness

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A certain type of false card is invented every day by some desperate bridge player when he judges that nothing else will lure declarer away from the winning line of play. You may be the next to invent this play if you are desperate and alert enough-but your task may be easier if you've seen the play in operation.

West led the eight of spades, and East topped dummy's king with the ace. East removed dummy's single trump with the ace and then took the ace of clubs. West signaled encouragement with the ten, and East continued with the three of clubs to declarer's king.

South led the queen of hearts to drive out the king, and East led another club to the queen. Now West saw that a club continuation would allow South to ruff and draw trumps. South would then obviously make the rest of the tricks

The only chance was to put declarer in the dummy and hope that he'd find the wrong way to get to his hand. West therefore switched back to spades.

Cashes Diamonds

Declarer took the queen of spades and the top diamonds, intending to ruff a third diamond in his hand. It was at this stage that a desperate West reinvented a play familiar to experienced bridge players. When declarer cashed dummy's second top diamond, West dropped the queen.

Of course, South should have paid more attention to East's ten of diamonds than to West's queen. Of course, West's opening lead indicated shortness in spades. The fact remains that only the fall of the queen of diamonds could make any impression on South.

Declarer actually did fall for the antique swindle. He led a spade from dummy instead of a diamond. Now if South ruffed low, West would get the setting trick by overruffing; and if South ruffed high, West's ten would become the master trump.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S- A J 7 2, H- A K 2, D- 10 3, C- A 6 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club. If partner responds in a red suit, you can bid one spade. If partner bids one notrump, you can raise to two or three notrump. You avoid an opening bid of 1-NT with a very weak doubleton, and it's easy to steer clear of this danger when you have a comfortable rebid of one spade.

Paper Posies for All Seasons

More and More, camellias are being arranged in vases rather than floated in shallow dishes. For contrast, you may wish to mix red, pink, and white flowers. For example, you might make the three above at the lower left (the focal point) in one color. At right is a diagram showing the shape of individual petals.

It's not unusual to find paper as well as fresh-cut flowers in the same home — usually at different times. Real flowers brighten rooms during the few weeks they're in season, while paper blossoms do the job during the long months when the garden is dormant.

Camellias are an exception. Though among the most beautiful of flowers, camellias are so difficult to grow — by greenhouse up North, with loving care down South — that most homes rarely have them.

Materials For Camellia

Fortunately, paper camellias are among the easiest flowers of red, cut in a large and small size. The other items required to make. The basic ingredient is a petal, in white or shades ed are available in Fox Valley dime and stationery stores, if you don't already have them.

All you need for a big bouquet is one-fold duplex crepe paper (in red, pink, or white), together with green cotton-covered spool wire, a bunch of stamens, rose leaves, stem winding, and all-purpose glue.

Step by Step Guide

Here's how to make a flower:

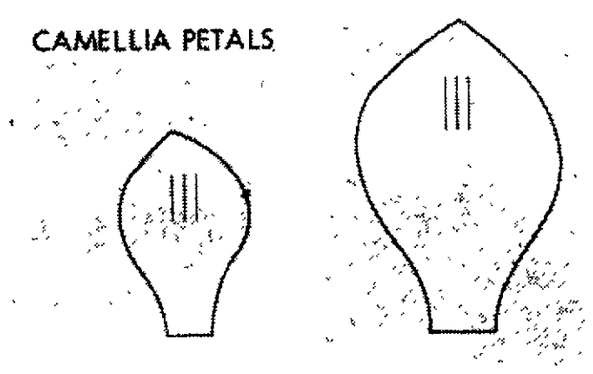

Step 1: Cut six small petals and eight large petals from the duplex crepe. Cup the petals slightly near the top, holding back side toward you. Flute the top edge of each petal.

Step 2: Snip the heads from one end of about 20 stamens. Wrap the stamens with cotton-covered spool wire, leaving the ends about two inches long for the stem. Paste the six small petals around the stamens, overlapping each other. Paste four of the large petals around the small ones. Fill in the spaces with the four remaining petals. Wrap with spool wire to hold.

Step 3: Trim serrated edge from rose leaves and attach to flower with glue and reinforce with stem winding.

Wall Paste Won't Stick Over Grease

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Last October we papered our family room with grasscloth, using a good adhesive paste. It had been painted with semi-gloss paint. It is now beginning to loosen in several places. What could be the reason? — Canal Winchester, O.

A: The most likely reason is that the paint was not properly cleaned, especially where grease is concerned. This will cause paste to loosen after a while. I suggest recementing where it loosens, unless the paper really loosens in large areas. In that case, it's best to pull it all off and start over. Let's hope it's not necessary.

Q: The floor in the front hall of our 20-year-old house is creaking. We consulted a contractor who told us the floor would have to be taken up and relaid; a very expensive job. Necessary? — Sillery, Quebec, Can.

A: The contractor sounds hungry for business and not loaded with ethics Squeaks can be silenced. If the floor is over an unfinished basement, go down there and watch for each floor movement when someone walks over the squeaks. At each place, drive thin wood wedges between beams and flooring to stop the motion.

If necessary, to attack from above, drive amply long finishing nails down through each squeaky location. Drive them in pairs, at opposing angles. Use a nailset to sink nailheads slightly below floor level Fill dents with wood putty or plastic wood. When dry, sand smooth and stain to match floor finish. Can be a big job if squeaking is extensive, but nothing compared to what the contractor wanted to do

Q Our very old and solidly built house has such thick plaster on the walls and ceilings that a magnetic stud finder useless for locating the exact position of studs and floor joists, especially the latter. I must have the precise location for a random plank panling job on the ceiling. I would like to avoid probing with a drill if possible. Any ideas? — Waterbury.

A: To the best of my knowledge, the 16-inches between studs and joists is a very old building tradition. I suggest enough drill probing to establish whether this was the case, then proceed on this assumption Any kind friends care to help out?

Avoiding Mascara Smudges

A Lovely asks How can I keep mascara from running? No matter what kind I use, it spills over on my skin. Sometimes I look as though I had bumped into a door. I do need mascara, even when I wear false eyelashes, as my own are practically white. Help me, please

The answer: Since most mascaras are waterproof, applications should stay put. Even when you go swmiming! There must be an error in your application method. Otherwise, I doubt the color would smudge. The nuisance could be eliminated by following as many of these suggestions as you find necessary:

Always blot the lids with cleansing tissue before starting an eye makeup

Avoid heavy coats of creamy eyeshadows. Oils in creams can unsettle mascara. It does not claim to be oil-proof In fact, effective removers are among the oil - based preparations. Powdered shadows could be the answer here.

Never use powder base between upper lashes and eyebrows. Too oily.

Prepare lashes for mascara by grooming them with a clean, dry brush.

Two sparing coats of mascara are better than a heavy one Let the first dry well before attempting the second Should the lashes stick together, separate them with a dry brush If you have trouble with brush-applied mascara, try the wand type.

Never add false eyelashes until your own are in perfect array And never mascara false eyelashes.

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions Methods are detailed in my leaflet, The Eyes of Youth. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Vietnamese Women Lead Contrasting Lives in War

SAIGON (AP) — For the women at war in Vietnam, the fighting can be quite different.

For teen - agers, Jham thi Nhung and Ngoc Anh, 17-year old members of a civilian self-defense unit in Saigon, it means a Sunday outing to a firing range at Trung Lap military training center northwest of the capital. Wearing brightly colored polka dot head kerchiefs and broad-brimmed straw sunbonnets, the two giggling girls learned how to handle a M-1 Rifle.

Captured V-C Girls

For Tran thi Anh, 17, and Tran thi Canh, 19, members of an enemy guerrilla unit, it means capture by South Vietnamese troops. The government soldiers captured the two girls, dressed in the traditional loose black pajamas, while on a sweep in Binh Long Province, due north of Saigon and close to the Cambodian border.

Miss Canh was wounded. She sat sullenly on the ground, her feet bare, a white bandage across her chest, accepting a drink of water from a soldier's canteen.

Both women were armed with Chinese-made rifles.

Women's Role in War

The Communists, and earlier the Viet Minh, have used women since they began fighting, first against the French and then against the Saigon government. Women serve as nurses, messengers, spies, in rear logistical units and, in some cases, as fighters.

Captured enemy documents and prisoner interrogations indicate that the Viet Cong has stepped up its recruitment of women, probably because of the manpower losses they suffered in their general offensives.

The government's use of women is more recent. Women serve in regular army units, but in the past several months they have begun to serve in local self-defense units, mostly around the big cities.

War Not as Harsh

In Da Nang, an all-women defense unit is headed by a schoolteacher.

But for most of the women fighting on the government side, the war is not as harsh. A day at the rifle range, weekly drills, but they continue their normal lives.

In the jungles, the normal life of the black-garbed Viet Cong women is the war itself.

Your Problems

17-Year-Old Embarrassed in Gym Class

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 17-year-old boy with a problem. I don't seem to like girls. I date them but I have no interest in going steady or getting to know a girl really well.

In gym class I get nervous when I have to undress in front of other guys. And when I see them in the showers I feel uncomfortable, sort of a mixture of excitement and embarrassment.

Is there something wrong with me?

I realize my chances of getting a letter in your column are a million to one, but I do need help and I don't know where else to go. Please come to my rescue. — J. of Newark

Dear J: Although the thoughts and feelings you express are by no means uncommon among adolescents, the fact that you are so concerned indicates you need to discuss this problem with a professional. Most schools have competent counselors. I hope your school is among them. If not, go to a mental health clinic. Newark has some excellent services.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has been in prison for three years. I fell in love with another man after being alone for nearly 18 months. I let the other man move into my home and now we have a baby six months old. I'm sure my friends and family think we are married.

Who is the legal father of this child? If my husband wants to get off the support hook, can he do so on the grounds that he is sterile? (I am almost sure he is.) This is quite a mess and I need your help because my husband will be out of prison in a couple of months, and I'm all mixed up about what's what. Thank you. — Absence Creates Problems

Dear Ab: A man who has been in prison for three years could not have fathered a nine-month-old child even if he weren't sterile. Legally, however, your husband is the baby's father until he takes steps to prove otherwise. You need to see a lawyer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Educate the dumb public, please. Tell people that simply because you live next door to a family does not mean you are bosom buddies.

A woman leaned on my doorbell today for 15 minutes. I had to get out of the bathtub to answer. She had a kettle of sweet and sour meatballs for the next door neighbor. Would I mind taking it over later? Nobody answers their bell.

Delivery boys leave plants, packages and dry cleaning with me. I've been asked to put the neighbor's fish in my refrigerator. I've been stuck with C.O.D. packages and 100 pounds of fertilizer. At Christmastime someone left a pan of potato kugel here for the neighbor and our dog got into it. I never heard the end of it.

If you print my letter you will be performing a national service. There must be others who feel as I do. — Not Palsy Walsy

Dear Not: I'm sure there are, but I'll wager a great many folks don't mind doing small favors for their neighbors. Since your dog ate that potato kugel, perhaps your neighbors would prefer that you not do them any more "favors". So why don't you just say "Sorry — no."

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with — but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Divorce Hinges on Sex?

The most important factor in divorce is sexual incompatibility, says Louis Nizer in the current issue of Family Circle Magazine. In a debate with Dr. Mary Calderone, director of the Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S., Inc. (SIECUS), the famous trial and divorce lawyer says he believes that sexual incompatibility is caused by women's freedom. This brings on a resultant imbalance in the sexual relationship, psychologically, wherin a man begins to feel inadequate. And that imbalance is also a cause for divorce.

Arguing the point further, Nizer writes that when a woman's husband is leaving her, he advises her to appeal to him with affection and love. "If you want him back, use some of the fiminine wisdom, the enticing you used when you wooed him. And in so many instances I have found that a woman who is smart enough to do this can actually capture her husband again," advises Nizer.

Dr. Calderone questions this as a hypocritical fake play. But Nizer believes it is not an unjust hypocrisy for a woman to choose to become feminine and 18th century in her marital relationship while being 20th century in her business relationship.

Double-Checking the Checkbook

BY ERMA BOMBECK

There is absolutely no way to reason with a man who is bent on saving money. He is illogical, dictatorial, sarcastic and given to headaches.

Take the other night. "What are you doing?" demanded my husband.

"I'm throwing all the March bills into the air," I said. "The ones that land in the cracks of the floor get paid."

"I don't believe it," he said "Oh you'd be surprised how those little devils fall Sometimes they stand right up there like little soldiers."

"This is ridiculous Let me see the checkbook. (Pause) It's like discovering the Dead Sea Scrolls I can't make any of it out. What does HMY mean beside this check to the phone company?"

"It means 'Haven't mailed yet' . . . then I know to add onto the balance instead of subtracting."

Tiny, Tiny, Check

"Just out of curiosity, what did you buy at Ernie's service station for 15 cents?"

"I didn't buy anything They cashed a check for me, but before they would do it they wanted 15 cents for cashing it I told them if I had 15 cents I wouldn't need the check but they insisted, so I wrote them a check for the charges."

"And the 35-cent check to our son?"

"It's his allowance. You'd be surprised how ugly children can get when you don't pay on time."

"Here's a check that's missing What happened to 452?"

"What was the date on that one?"

"The 18th of January."

"The 18th . . . .let's see. That was the day before your birthday, wasn't it? I went into town. It was a warm day. I cracked the windows of the car . . . ah, now I remember. I used it to squash a bee that got caught in the sun visor"

Hubby Takes Over

He didn't say anything for a long time. Then gently he put me into a chair and said softly. "It's all right. I'm going to take care of you. You don't have to worry about a thing. Everything is going to be all right. First, we are going to stop the milk. I can get it on my way way home from work. I will pay all the utility bills at the drugstore with one check. We will deposit all of the money except that which you will need to run the house. Now, I want you to give me all of your HMY's and charge plates"

"My charge plates! I'd feel naked!"

"I know, but we're going to have to be strong, aren't we?"

Last week I couldn't bear it any longer. "I can't go on living like this," I said to my husband. "Always having cash in my purse . . . meeting our obligations on time . . . always knowing where the next meal is coming from. I'm not strong. I've got to have a checkbook!"

"If I let you write just one check, will that satisfy you for a while?"

"Oh yes," I said, my eyes glistening with tears.

"Very well. Write the paperboy a check for 67 cents."

I wrote the check and returned the checkbook. "I needed that. Thank you for letting me feel like a woman again."

5 Committees Organized by Appleton C of C

New Directors Announced at 48th Annual Meeting

The Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce Thursday night created five new committees in its continuing effort to provide greater and better community service to the people.

Also featured during the chamber's 48th annual meeting in the Conway Motor Inn were the announcement of five new members of the board of directors and presentation of plaques.

John J. Dixon, president-elect, announced the board appointments of F. John Barlow, president, Azco, Inc.; Dr. Joseph N. Bonner; Howard J Crabb, Howard J. Crabb Insurance; Homer Frazier, general manager, H. C. Prange Co., and C. A. Pertain, vice president-treasurer, Appleton Wire Works.

Two Vacancies

Two vacancies occurred on the board when the terms of directors Ted Gilleland, manager, Leath Furniture, and Dr. Curtis Tarr, president, Lawrence University, expired.

The new committees include agriculture, chairman to be named later; education, headed by Lloyd Taylor, with Gerhard K. Willecke to remain in charge of the subcommittee on higher education; municipal and county affairs; public affairs and pub-

Attitudes Must Change

Chamber Speaker Issues Challenge To New Morality

BY RICHARD JACOBSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A South Carolina Baptist minister Thursday night declared the U.S. Civil War was "backyard touch football" compared to the division "we have in this country today."

Entitling his address, "Forward Together," after the campaign theme of President Nixon, Dr. Thomas Haggai, of High Point, N.C., inferred that the very existence of this country is endangered, "not only from the outside but also from within," if Americans don't change their attitudes toward one another.

Haggai, who is of Lebanese descent, intermixed the seriousness of his talk with light Arab-Israeli sundries as featured speaker at the 48th annual meeting of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce at the Conway Motor Inn.

National Speaker

Haggai, who travels over 30,000 miles a year speaking to various groups, graduated from North Greenville Junior College and Furman University with majors in political science and history.

In 1963, a group of 120 buisness and professional leaders from a broad spectrum of American commerce, formed Tom Haggai and Associates Foundation, a non-profit organization. The foundation provides scholarships for young men planning careers in Scouting, YMCA, boys clubs and city recreation.

Conflicts Sidelights

His sidelights on the 1967 Middle East conflict: "The Lebanese soldiers are distinguished; we surrendered faster than Italy in World War II; and, "We secured our rifles from the U.S., thus they were dropped only once However Nasser got his rifles from the Italians, and they were dropped twice."

The speaker, howver, was as effective in his humor as he was in driving across his message to the large audience on "our superficial concern' with the issues in this country.

"We have been too dependent upon our economic Messiahs in solving the American problem," he said.

"We think we can just buy our way out of the troubles that confront us, but that is wishful thinking. He also felt Americans are misguided in thinking "once the Vietnam war is over that we're on our way to Utopia."

Can't But Morale

"We must realize that the morale and moral constitution of this country can't be bought with the inflationary American dollar," he said.

Bureaucracy Hurts Buyers, Nader Claims

Education Association Convention Told of Need for Buyer Protection

Post-Crescent News Service

TWO RIVERS — "One of the biggest structural problems in this country today is bureaucracy," nationally-famous Ralph Nader, a consumer rights campaigner, said today at the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association Convention being held here and at Manitowoc.

"We can't individually affect the bureaucrats," Nader said.

"We need public interest firms to involve business and government in the consumers' interest."

In 1965, Nader published a best-selling book "Unsafe at Any Speed," an account of the dangers designed into American automobiles.

Lethal Designs

"Our homes and cars are filled with lethal designs that have no reason for being there, said the Princeton University and Harvard Law School graduate.

Nader claimed through his study of automobile safety he found that $10 billion a year in property damage could be avoided if cars were equipped with bumper guards that were effective under 10 miles per hour.

He said that while the automobile is the main form of transportation, it was the last to come under government safety standards.

"Professionals are supposed to prevent what they are skilled to treat. But this has not been the case with the auto industry," he said.

Nader also spoke briefly about what he termed some of the nation's most serious problems, air and water pollution.

"You can abuse nature to a point where it will turn on the abuser," he said.

Political Issue

"I think this is the last time that we will see a presidential candidate who didn't have to take a definite stand on pollution. Air and water pollution will be a prime issue in the 1972 election."

Nader singled out pollution in this area by saying, "the Great Lakes belong to all of us, but they are currently being polluted by just a few major corporations."

More than 8,000 teachers attended the one-day convention. It was the first time that a NEWEA convention had been held in two neighboring cities.

Also a speaker at the morning session was Donald Bourgeois, a member of the Illinois Department of Human Resources.

He was the creator of a unique program entitled "Black Partnership," which is designed to stimulate interracial communication while simultaneously advancing self-help projects.

The program is underway in several Illinois cities.

Federal Grants Approved for COG Studies

Two-Thirds of Cost Of Plan Programs To be Paid by HUD

Federal support toward several regional studies has been approved for the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), it was learned this week.

The $54,992 Department of Housing and Urban Development grant represents two thirds of the cost of planning programs. The $27,497 local share was approved last fall.

Eugene E. Franchett, COG executive director, said the money will be used for a metropolitan transportation study, a regional housing study, a regional fire and rescue service study and continuation of other existing programs.

Planning Work

It also will be used to help pay for planning work, such as preparation of base maps, analysis of land use, population and economic conditions, preparations of a comprehensive development plan, and measures to implement this plan.

The planning grant is for a 12-month period for COG, which has 14 community members in three counties.

The announcement was made by Reps. John Byrnes, R-Green Bay, and William Steiger, R-Oshkosh.

Spring Dance Planned At Little Chute School

LITTLE CHUTE — An annual spring dance, sponsored by the St. John Athletic Association, has been scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Saturday at St. John Grade School.

Music will be ny Gompie and the Floyd Elmer Trio. Admission is $1.

A Speech Therapy Kit which will be used by children attending Plamann School, was donated by the Little Chute Jaycees, whose service projects have involved mentally retarded children for the past five years. FHA Official Speaks to Realtors

Low Income Housing Can Be Good Without Luxuries

Builders who think only in terms of homes with one and one-half baths and other middle class amenities are "not tuned to building for low income people," members of the Appleton Board of Realtors were told Thursday night.

Lawrence Katz, state director of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) for Wisconsin, said housing for moderate and low income families can be good housing without containing the luxury extras associated with middle class living.

The federal official, speaking at the Left Guard, outlined the operation of the four FHA programs involving private housing. The FHA does not get involved in public housing.

The major programs involve guaranteed mortgages for eligible low income families and for privately constructed apartment units for rent to low income groups, and rent supplements.

The major new program (Sec. 235) involves the possibility of a low income home purchaser obtaining a one per cent mortgage interest rate. FHA will pay the lender the difference between the one per cent and the 7½ per cent called for on the FHA-insured mortgage. Eligibility for this program is determined by the amount of the purchaser's earnings and size of family.

Katz said the program involving mortgages for single family dwellings has "worked well" in this area with a considerable number of homes having been built with FHA-guaranteed mortgages. No apartments have yet been built in the Fox Cities but there are several applications pending.

Counseling Plan

A new program has been started, he said, involving "marginal" families who, because of questionable financial status, would not be eligible for FHA financing, but will be approved for mortgages under a counseling program.

Katz said the program requires a local non-profit organization to undertake management counseling with the individual for a period of up to two years.

Several realtors wanted to know if the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the parent agency of FHA, would pay for needed repairs to a home under an FHA mortgage.

Katz reminded them the

Auto Workers Establishing Action Council

The United Auto Workers Union (UAW), which represents production workers in some Fox Valley plants, is establishing area community action councils.

In Appleton, the UAW has its largest membership at the Fox River Tractor Co., a division of the Koehring Corp., Milwaukee.

Regional 10 director, Harvey Kitzman, Milwaukee, announced the councils will be formed at meetings to be held in six Wisconsin cities, including Oshkosh, April 29.

A state council will be formed at Madison, May 17.

Kitzman said the councils, which will include one for the Fox Cities area, will take part in community affairs, politics, social action "and whatever other community projects they might want to interest themselves in."

The councils would appear to be the counterpart of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), which has statewide membership.

Watered-Down Version

Anti-Smut Law In Effect Saturday

Appleton's new anti-smut ordinance officially becomes law Saturday, banning the sale of obscene materials to minors under 18 years of age.

The ordinance is a watered down version of a New York State law which last year was upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Originally requested by Police Chief Earl O. Wolff several months ago, it excludes movies and applies only to obscene publications and their sellers.

Its biggest loophole enables anyone to distribute obscene materials as long as no financial payment is involved

Ordinance Diluted

Wolff and other law enforcement officials, along with City Atty. David Geenen, have expressed disappointment over how the ordinance was finally diluted by the city council's welfare-ordinance committee.

By coincidence, the city's weak anti-smut law takes effect at a time when the Outagamie County Board has called for a crackdown on the traffic of obscene literature in Outagamie County.

The new Appleton law is aimed at preventing the sale of obscene materials harmful to minors. A first conviction calls for a $100 fine or 30 days in jail, or both

Described in Ordinance

No person shall knowingly sell or loan for monetary consideration obscene materials described in the ordinance as:

"Any picture, photograph, drawing, sculpture, or similar visual presentation or image of a person or portion of the human body which depicts nudity, sexual conduct or sado-masochistic abuse and which is harmful to minors.

"Any book, pamphlet, magazine, printed matter however reproduced, or sound recording which contains any matter as previously mentioned; or explicit and detailed verbal description or narrative account of sexual excitement, sexual conduct or sado-masochistic abuse harmful to minors."

Legal Definition

The ordinance goes into detail on the legal definition of nudity, sexual conduct, sexual excitement and sado-masochistic abuse.

The various acts and materials alluded to in the ordinance is to be considered harmful to minors when:

—Predominantly appealing to the prurient, shameful or morbid interest of minors.

—Potentially offensive to prevailing standards in the adult community as a whole.

—Utterly without redeeming social importance.

Rather than ban specific books or materials as being unlawful for sale — a form of censorship — the ordinance goes after the seller of obscene materials.

A Nest-Building Robin that got itself tangled in a tree branch with some string it was using for construction materials created considerable excitement and some heroic rescue efforts in the vicinity of Hoover and S. Jackson Streets Wednesday First some neighborhood youngsters made an unsuccessful attempt to reach the bird Then Mrs. Mila Lang, 2609 S. Jackson St., climbed as high as she could and with the aid of a knife attached to a pole attempted to cut the string and free Mr. Robin Frank Schiltz, 1022 E. North St., drove by in his car and sized up the situation. He helped Mrs Lang from the tree and shinnied up the trunk himself and rescued the bird. NM Pay Still Highest in State

NEENAH-MENASHA — Twin Cith industrial workers have maintained their lead as the highest paid manuacturing employes in the state.

According to Wisconsin Work Force, a publication of the Department of Industrial, Labor and Human Relations, the average Neenah-Menasha industrial worker during March made $151.83 per week. This is more than $10 over a year ago, but is about 30 cents less than February.

Although the Twin City workers made more money than any of their cohorts in the state, they also worked longer hours. The average employe put in 44.7 hours during the week which is about 20 minutes less than a year ago.

The $3.40 per hour paid to the Neenah-Menasha manufacturing workers ranks fifth in the state. Janesville, whose automobile workers see-saw back and forth with the Twin Cities for the top weekly wage in the state, top the hourly wage group at $3.70.

Employment throughout the state is down by 3,500 workers, but is still 8,100 over that of a year ago. Locally empolyment is up by 100 over that of a year ago. Locally, employment is up by 100 over February and 300 over March of 1968. There are 12,500 persons employed in industry in Neenah-Menasha.

In March, the Twin Cities just barely edged out Milwaukee for the top paying area in the state. Milwaukee workers earned an average of $151.28 for a 41.6 hour week.

Appleton was $14 per week below Neenah Menasha at $135.25 for a 43.1 hour week while Green Bay workers earned $139.81 for a 42.5 hour week.

Compared with the state, Twin City workers put in more time on the job, but the checks here are larger than anywhere else. Compared to the Fox River Valley, Neenah-Menasha is tops, not only in weekly earnings, but in hourly pay as well.

Personnel Changed by Fire Chief

Three personnel changes, including a resignation and a hiring, were announced today by Appleton Fire Chief Roland Kuehnl.

He said that Leslie J. Paul, 40, 312 E. Coolidge Ave., has resigned, apparently to take other employment. Paul, a driver in the department, started as a fire fighter Feb. 1, 1961. He was a mill worker prior to that.

Hired to replace Paul was Gerald C. Smits, 22, 2821 N. Ballard Road, who now works at Foremost Foods Co. He will start on the department April 28, Kuehnl said.

Smits, a 1964 graduate of Xavier High School was in the Marines from November, 1965, to November, 1967, and saw duty in Vietnam.

Kuehnl also announced the promotion of Robert Brautigam, 28, 921 N Owaissa St., to driver-pump operator, effective May 12. Brautigam was appointed a fire fighter June 16, 1964.

With the hiring of Smits, the Appleton Fire Department will be back up to its full 104-man strength, Kuehnl said.

Bridge to Close for Repairs in Neenah

NEENAH — The Oak Street Bridge, one of the Islands two traffic links with Neenah, will be closed for repairs during the entire month of June.

The bridge, which carries about 15,000 north and south bound vehicles every day between the Twin Cities, is slated for a complete resurfacing job by the State Highway Commission.

LeRoy Empey, Green Bay, district highway engineer, said the bridge surface has deteriorated and must be chipped away and completely replaced Bids will be opened Tuesday and he said construction would start in a little over a month.

Closing the bridge will involve funneling all north-south traffic onto Commercial Street.

Detour Routes

The police department is working on specific detour routes to handle the increase in traffic on Commercial.

Lawrence Malouf, police chief, said the closing of the Oak Street Bridge would require removing all parking from Commercial so it could handle four lanes of traffic from Winneconne Avenue on the south to Nicolet Boulevard on the north.

"It is going to cause traffic problems," Malouf explained, "but since the bridge repair is scheduled, we have to do it."

36,000 Vehicles

With the detoured traffic from Oak Street, the only other major thoroughfare, Commercial Street, will be carrying an estimated 36,000 vehicles per day. It now carries about 21,000 per day

To handle the increased volumes, Malouf said, he would probably have to station a policeman at Commercial and Nicolet most of the time. "Northbound traffic will not have any trouble getting onto Nicolet," he said, "but southbound Nicolet traffic will have difficulty gaining access to Commercial."

Menasha Bottleneck

"We also have to make sure when the traffic gets to Menasha, where the street narrows down to two-lane," Malouf explained. He said to cut down on this possibility, much of the northbound traffic will be drained off at Nicolet

"We don't really anticipate any big problems," Malouf continued. "Especially since we will be nearly doubling the Commercial Street capacity by eliminating parking on it."

Sign Vandalism Causes Concern

KAUKAUNA — A rash of vandalism to street and traffic signs in the city is costing taxpayers' money, Mayor Gilbert Anderson declared as he urged citizens to report any incidents observed to the police

Anderson noted that street marking, speed and stop signs have been damaged during recent weeks, and pointed out that the destruction of stop signs could cause accidents

It cost the city $35 to replace some of the signs, the mayor said, in addition to taking street crews from their regular duties

Local police have been instructed to watch for this type of vandalism. Parents will be held liable for payment of damages if young people are apprehended for the offense

Bergstrom Paper Plans to Acquire 2 New York Business Form Companies

NEENAH — Bergstrom Paper Co announced today preliminary agreement to merge with two New York firms, one manufacturing and the other distributing business forms.

Directors of Bergstrom meet next Monday and boards of the other two firms are expected to meet about the same time, to approve the merger

Wholly-Owned

Bergstrom would operate the two firms, Tab Imprints Corp. and Integrated Business Systems Corp., as wholly-owned subsidiaries. An exchange of shares of stock of the two New York firms simultaneously for shares of Bergstrom common stock will be the basis for the merger if approved as expected.

Integrated Business Systems distributes business forms in the Northeast, primarily New York City, and Tab Imprints manufactures continuous business forms which it markets among businesses and industries in the same area.

The Neenah firm manufactures printing papers, office printing papers, safety papers for checks and other valuable documents and specialty papers. Its products are distributed nationally.

H. R. Moore, Bergstrom president, said the move recognizes a need to integrate services in the growing business information systems market. The proposed merger, he said, "will signify the implementation of new directions for our respective companies."

Data processing, he continued, has meant that "exotic information systems now available to industrial giants can be made available to smaller enterprises."

"Since Bergstrom Paper Co. is in the business of manufacturing and providing informational goods and services, we believe this move to be a sound one for all concerned," Moore said.

Sales Reports

Sales of the two firms is expected to total $1,750,000 for the current fiscal year. Bergstrom did $24 million in business in 1968.

The announcement was contained in the Bergstrom first-quarter report to stockholders, which states that in the three months ending March 31 net sales totalled $6,586,000 and net earnings $356,000, or 60 cents per share of stock.

This compares with net sales of $5,957,000 and net earnings of $383,000, or 65 cents per share, a year ago.

Kaukauna Gets New Litter Receptacles

Action was taken due to an increase in littering which has necessitated extra street sweeping in the business districts and has prevented the sweeper from following a normal street cleaning routine.

Two Proceedings

Key Talks Scheduled In Contract Disputes

Two key labor-management mediation sessions — one aimed at settling a ready mix concrete strike in the Fox Cities and the other to ward off a possible Valley-wide walkout against general contractors — are scheduled.

Representatives of the strike-bound Valley Construction Material Suppliers Association and Teamsters Local 563 are slated to meet at the Conway Motor Inn here next Tuesday.

And a meeting between Local 563 negotiators and the Fox Valley General Contractors Association, comprised of an estimated 150 construction firms from Fond du Lac to Green Bay, is scheduled for April 30 to discuss terms of a new contract.

WERC Meetings

Both meetings were arranged by the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission. (WERC).

The old contract between the Teamsters and seven-member suppliers association expired May 1, 1968, and the union, along with Operating Engineers Local 139, has been on strike since July 29, 1968.

While the ready mix and sand-gravel firms have been operating, and unions picketing their plants and jobsites, the dispute has turned into the longest strike in the history of the Fox Cities.

At stake is a new three-year contract with wages the main issue.

The last time the Teamsters and suppliers association bargainers met was in December.

June of 1965

The contract between teamsters Locals in Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay and Manitowoc and the Fox Valley General Contractors Association expired June 1, 1968 but was extended by mutual agreement.

However, the union and association has held five previous mediation sessions and negotiations on a new contract appear to be heading into the home stretch, with the possibility of a strike should agreement not be reached soon.

Union and association officials appear to share optimism at this time that a new three-year pact will be worked out, thus avoiding a strike.

NLRB Unfair Labor Practice Trial Is Ended

Decision on Charges By Oshkosh Firm May Take 2 Months

The unfair labor practice trial against three Appleton unions — an outgrowth of charges filed by Oshkosh Ready Mix Co. — ended Thursday, a day ahead of schedule.

Eugene F. Frey, Washington, D.C., conducted the National Labor Relations Board proceedings at the Outagamie County Courthouse.

The unions' defense was that Oshkosh Ready Mix had a relationship with several other firms throughout the area, and was alleged to be a common employer under the Labor Act.

Federal attorneys prosecuted the unfair labor complaint against Teamster, Operating Engineers and Plumbers and Steamfitters locals here, claiming the unions committed violations, along with intimidating and coercing employes at a jobsite in the Town of Menasha last winter.

Written Briefs

After testimony by David Courtney Jr, and Charles Plummer Jr., Neenah, and Wesley Mielahn, Oshkosh, on the multi-operations of their family interests, attorneys were given 30 days to file written briefs

The charging parties — Oshkosh Ready Mix and Mielahn and Inland Trucking as co-partners in the firm — were represented by Russ Mueller, a Milwaukee attorney, who had a contempt of court citation against him withdrawn by Frey.

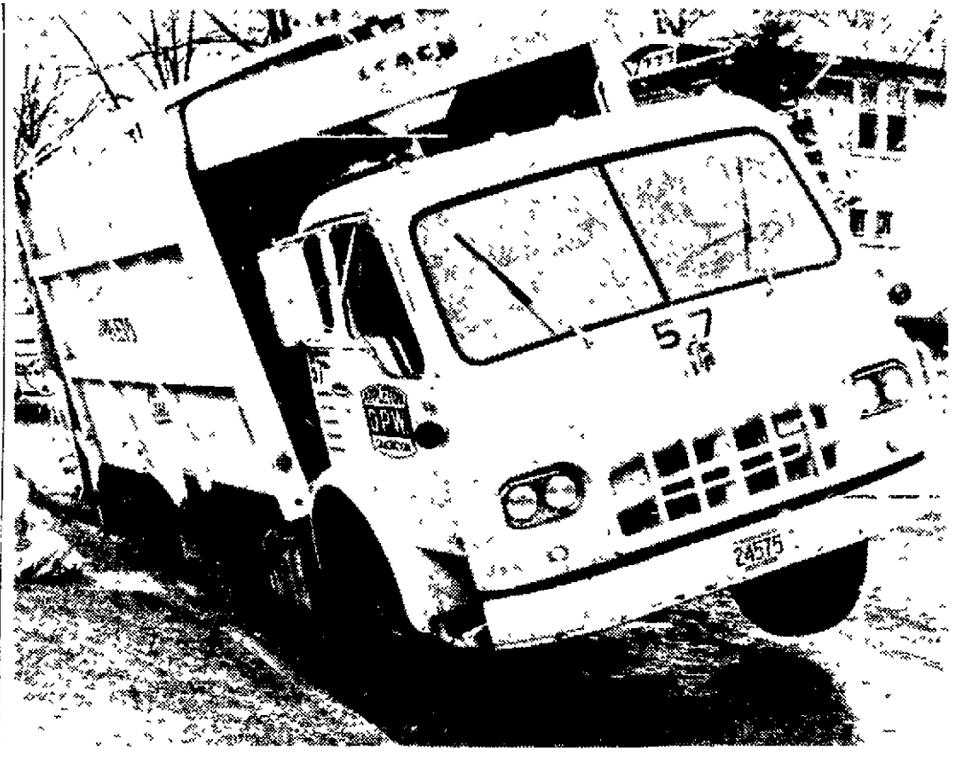

The contempt citation arose from incidents during the outset of the NLRB trial, which began at Oshkosh and was later shifted to Appleton.

Several Cases

The case was one of several over a period of months having a direct or indirect connection with the drawnout strike of the Teamsters against the Valley Contractor Material Suppliers Association.

Frey's decision is not expected for at least two months.

Government and company attorneys claimed the more than a dozen ready mix firms in several county area owned or controlled by Courtney and Plummer families were not allied and operated separately.

A City Sanitation Truck with about 15 tons of refuse broke through the pavement in the 600 block of N. Rankin Street Thursday afternoon. Officials said the truck sank into a six-foot deep storm sewer excavation in which back fill had shifted or settled. No one was on the back of the truck when it dropped. There was slight damage to the truck, which was lifted out with a big wrecker. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Advocate of Popular Vote Plan

Senator Bayh Sees Electoral Shortcomings as 'Great Danger'

Shortcomings of the electoral college are "a great danger" to the American system of government, according to a proponent of direct popular elections, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind

Bayh, who is chairman of the Senate constitutional amendments subcommittee, told a Lawrence University audience Thursday that reform in presidential selection "is one of the most critical areas . . . we face" in trying to perfect the American political system.

Bayh reviewed the 1968 presidential election which he said "helped make the public aware of the dangers in the electoral system." Noting that the outcome could have put third party candidate George C. Wallace in a position to bargain over the presidency. Bayh observed: "This is no way to run the world's geratest democracy."

He said that three major criteria must be applied to any plan for choosing the President, including (1) involvement by the people, not merely by electors, (2) equal weight for every vote, and (3) a guarantee that the man who receives most votes wins the election.

Guarantees All Points

Of all systems proposed, only the direct popular vote guarantees all three points, he said.

Bayh said there is "rather concrete evidence" that the popular vote movement can succeed. He noted that organizations such as the American Bar Association, the association of Chambers of Commerce, the AFL-CIO, and others have supported the idea, and that a recent Gallup poll indicated 81 per cent of the persons polled favored it.

"If Americans are willing to express themselves to their elected representatives, we can get this constitutional reform passed. I think we will get it passed," he said.

In a question and answer period following his talk, Bayh said there also is "great need" to reform the national nominating process. He noted that choosing delegates by democratic process seems to have more support than a system of national primary elections, which is potentially too costly and detrimental to the two-party system.

Party Determination

He added, "In any case, the Democratic Party is determined that as of 1962 we're not about to let a Lester Maddox or anyone like him sit down in a smoke-filled room and determine who's going to be the elector from his state."

Bayh also commented on the apparent North Korean attack on a United States Reconnaissance plane, saying that a quick decision by the administration and military would be advisable "until we know all the facts."

He said our greatest concern must be that belligerent nations may come to feel that such acts of piracy are "the thing to do" to embarrass the United States.

Chamber Speaker Stresses Need for National Morality

World War II are today uncooperative and unsympathic with American policies" the speaker said. Why? Haggai noted "we are so powerful. . .we helped them at their expense"

As an example he pointed out the U.S. provided food to Turkey during the country's famine but "that country's attitude was that Americans felt guilty, it was our responsibility and we should have helped all along."

What's wrong with supplying aid to needy countries? Haggai implied it's not how much we give, but our attitude in giving.

Where Do You Go?

"Today we're the product of our post World War II philosophy which is in effect to use people and love things rather than love people and use things," he declared.

"This is the attitude we have today If you have a problem where do you go?" he asked his audience. After a pause, he answered "Who gives a damn?"

"And this attitude goes right back to the family and what I believe is a lack of the father image in our homes," Haggai said

"The kids feel this today and they have something to say. "Not the 2 per cent who are troublemakers but the vast majority," he stated.

The minister explained that in his long and varied travels throughout the country, university students have told him that their parents didn't regulate them enough.

In discussing the "disadvantaged in America," Haggai said, "It has been said that poor people won't work, but don't you believe it."

Solid Recruiting

What's needed is a solid recruiting program, he told the Chamber members and guests. "I'm from the old school, I think we should build our factories on low income properties, station these plants where the people are," he declared.

"We must reach these people and the Chamber plays an important role in this program We must evangelistically recruit people and change our attitudes and thinking to the fact that these people can contribute," he said.

"Perhaps our high rate of crime can be traced back to the ratio of church attendance," he noted. "Let's not blame the breakdown of law and order on the Supreme Court, but rather on the breakdown of our own moral concern," the minister said.

"We need each other a one by one relationship of all Americans to benefit our society.

"And I've gone back 1,900 years to find the answer to the American problem. Love one another," Haggai emphasized

Low Income Housing Need Is Outlined

homes were privately not publicly, owned. "We only underwrite the loan," he said, adding, "There is no problem if there is proper management"

Another realtor demanded to know how a family of six could "live in a box that is built substandard."

Not Substanard

Katz replied that FHA housing was not small and the homes were not substandard "You are falling into the trap of those who are building homes for people who can afford the amenities," he said.

Katz told the realtors, "Blight does not come from building small and age does not automatically make blight."

He added, "Blight comes from people and care is the key."

Plastic Bottle Caps Serve as Flower Pots for Midget Plants

BY CAPPY DICK

Miniature potted plants are fun to plant and tend You place them in little metal or plastic bottle tops and set them on a plate in a sunny window (Figure 1)

The plants may be any very small ones you find growing in your own lawn Carefully dig up several, including their roots Leave plenty of soil around the roots to be used in transplanting the flowers

Punch a small drainage hole in the bottom of each bottle top Place some of the soil in the bottle top, insert the roots of the flower and press more of the soil around them until the pot has been filled

Wrap foil around the pot and tie a narrow ribbon around it Water the plant each day that it remains alive If you have a doll house place one or two of the plants on the miniature coffee table

A tiny garden of minature flowers can be made by planting the flowers in a tiny discarded shallow pan (figure 2) in the bottom of which gravel has first been spread for drainage Cover the gravel with a layer of sand, then with rich soil

Whittle some sticks to make a picket fence around this garden as in Figure 2

Stoffel's 882 Leads Way, as 4 New Leaders Take Charge in Bowl-O-Rama

Y RON WITT
ost-Crescent Staff Writer

Bowlers from Appleton, Weyauwega and Pine River led an ssault on the leading scores of ie Bowl-O-Rama Thursday ght, and after the final pins ere racked, a completely new uartet of divisional pace-setrs had emerged.

No less than 23 changes were ecorded in the standings follow- g the third night of the Postrescent-sponsored meet at 41 owl. The tourney will resume aturday night.

The Men's Class A Division iw the biggest shakeup, as ven new names could be counted in the top 10. Taking over the No. 1 spot was Appleton's Don Stoffel, who fired an 882, 17 pins better than the previous high posted by Shawano's Fred Zander.

Everson Rolls 875

In the Men's Class B Division, six changes were noted, with four of them in the first four positions. Pine River's Jim Everson is atop the list with an 875 score, 20 pins higher than runnerup Stanley Behm of Weyauwega. Wednesday's lead, Oshkosh's William Donker, slipped to fifth.

Appleton's Marlene Hassell seized the lead in the Women's Class A section, coming in with an 836 for a 7-pin edge over Ann L. Mares of Bear Creek — another newcomer. Menasha's Mary Jane Springer, the former leader, is third with 826. There were five changes, in all, in the division.

Mrs. Kent

Mrs. Hassell

Weyauwega's Judy Kent is the remaining new pace-maker in Women's Class B. She rolled an 867 to far out-distance the previous leader, Appleton's Dorothy Lausman, who is now second at 782.

Squad prize winners for highest games were taken by Joe Coonen and Barbara Krause, both of Appleton, for the first shift, and by Chilton's Al Woelfel and Judy Kent on the second Coonen's 266 scratch game was the best singleton of the tournament so far. He finished with a 276 with 10 pins handicap. The other top lines were rolled by Barbara Krause, 248 (214 scratch plus 34 handicap); Woelfel 262 (248 plus 14); and Judy Kent, 240 (180 plus 60).

Everson

Coonen

Stoffel, a 47-year-old fireman and father of six, had his finest moment in his last line when he socked 249 scratch. Before that, he powered singletons of 200, 177 and 200. A handicap of 14 pins per game lifted his final total to 882.

The 23-year bowling veteran, known to his friends as "Butch," entered the tourney with 175 and 177 averages scored in the Tavern League at Hahn's and the City Employees League at Sabre Lanes, respectively.

'Lots of Action'

"The ball was working well on that good alley," Stoffel said later, referring to the 30th lane "I was carrying the crossovers and getting lots of action. Then, too, the guys bowling with me were all pushing"

Everson averaged only 156 pins in the Eight Star League at Poy Sippi but last night crashed lines of 194, 189, 183, and 193 for a 759 scratch mark A 116-pin total for handicap boosted his final total to 875

"I just started practicing a little more," Everson declared in trying to form an explanation for his high series "But I've never hit anything here before, and I'd been having an off year."

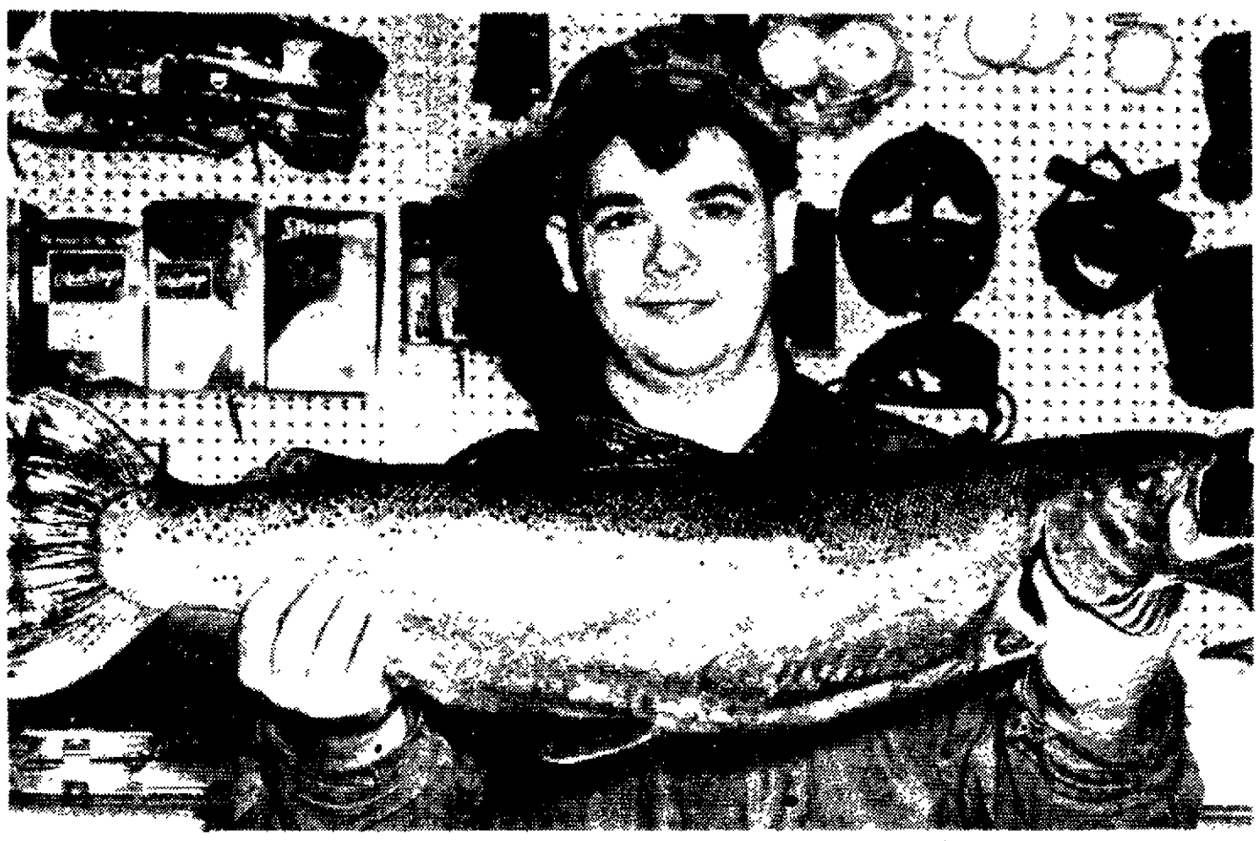

Everson is married and the father of three children He is a partner at the Brushville Cheese Factory.

Mrs. Hassell, who had slammed a 3-game set of 569 recently for a personal high, retained her momentum on the lanes as she rolled three lines higher than her league average

"I think my bowling has been pretty good the last month or so," she related "I think I'm concentrating more"

Expos' Stoneman Pitches Season's First No-Hitter

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a pretty good reason why Bill Stoneman wasn't nervous. The situation was completely unfamiliar.

"I never even came close to a no-hitter before," said the Montreal Expas' chunky little hurler after baffling Philadelphia with a 7-0 masterpiece Thursday night.

The main reason for this is simple: Stoneman was consigned to an apparent life of oblivion in the bullpen until rescued by the Expos in the expansion draft.

Thursday's brilliant effort was his first complete game in the majors, and only the second in his entire pro career. The first was with a minor league team two years ago.

'Nerves Weren't There'

That, explained the 25-year-old right-hander, was probably why he didn't "think there was any pressure. The nerves weren't there. I wasn't as nervous as I should have been. I had good stuff and I was getting the ball where I wanted it."

Before the Expos drafted him from the Chicago Cubs, Stoneman generally was a reliever because, "I'm so short (5-foot-10) that my managers and coaches always said, 'You're a reliever.' I was successful at it so I stayed there."

But Gene Mauch, Montreal manager, said he was impressed with Stoneman's appearances against Philadelphia, a team he managed for nine years until he was fired last summer, and decided to give him a shot at being a starter

He lost his first two tries this season, but was untouchable against the Phils Thursday night.

Smashes Liner

Stoneman, who said he threw a fastball and curves with a few change-ups, walked five and struck out eight for the nine-game old Expos, marking the first time an expansion team hurler has pitched a no-hitter in the team's debut year.

The closest Philadelphia came to a hit came in the first when Deron Johnson smashed a liner down third that was foul only by inches, when center fielder Don Bosch made a shoestring catch on Don Money in the second, and when Rusty Staub made a long running catch of a line drive to right field by Tony Taylor in the third.

Stoneman didn't have to face the Phils' top slugger, Richie Allen, who sat out the game with a bruised right shoulder

Meanwhile, Staub backed Stoneman with a homer, three doubles and three RBIs.

In other National League games, the sizzling Chicago Cubs boosted their record to 9-1 by blanking St Louis for the second straight night 3-0. Pittsburgh stopped the New York Mets 4-0, Atlanta ripped Houston 9-3, and San Francisco

Montreal's Bill Stoneman (right) is congratulated by Expos' manager Gene Mauch, who signals "no runs, no hits" in the locker room Thursday night after Stoneman hurled a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies. The former Cub right-hander fanned eight and walked five in a 7-0 Expos ivctory.

Paced by four double winners, the Lawrence University track team rolled to a convincing victory over Beloit and Milton Colleges in a triangular meet held at Beloit Thursday.

The Vikings piled up 98½ points to 46½ for Beloit and 30 for Milton. It was the second straight dual victory of the season for Lawrence.

UW Gridders To Hold First Scrimmage

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin Football Coach John Coatta is looking forward to a hard-hitting session when his Badgers go through their first scrimmage Saturday.

The squad is in excellent physical shape because of the Badgers' winter conditioning program.

"We'd like to sort out some of the fellows going both ways now," said Coatta, explaining why he wanted a scrimmage after only three or four days of practice.

They include Larry Mialik, Dan Jankowski, Scott Lindsey, Tom Shinnik, John Greichunos, Terry Whittaker, Veovia Greyer, Elbert Walker and Al Lettow All are freshmen except Lindsey and Lettow.

Along with getting a look at prospects for the offensive line and defensive backfield, the scrimmage will give Coatta a first chance to test his hopeful quarterbacks.

The brandy that's most often turned down

The fact is, a third of all American brandy poured comes from this bottle A rather imposing figure, perhaps — but not at all surprising Because to make the taste so in demand, The Christian Brothers created their own masterful methods. Like combining no fewer than seven of their fine brandies into one And they insist on mellowing every drop in their own small hand-coopered barrels. Little wonder that the result is clearly America s favorite

Associated Press Writer

A drive to lower the voting age from 21 is gaining momentum in several of the 40 states where it is a live issue but campus violence is causing a backlash that could halt it

Legislation on the subject is pending in 38 states and constitutional amendments are before the voters in two others to be decided by referendum in 1970 an Associated Press survey showed

'National leaders have come out in recent months in favor of lowering the voting age ' says state Rep Jim Beatty of North Carolina 'The public is more conscious of the issue and there is increasing sentiment for it "

But legislators in some states say student violence and disorders reflect an irresponsibility and immaturity that will work against passage of such legislation

Crop of Beards

And the crop of beards and long hair among the nation s youth also is having an effect on the debate

"If we're going to give these youngsters voting privileges, they should look like citizens," said Wyoming state Sen J W Myers.

Four states have a voting age lower than 21 Georgia and Kentucky both 18 Hawaii 20 and Alaska, 19

The political implications of any widespread change are obvious There are roughly 11 million Americans between the ages of 18 and 21 There were 72 million voters in the last presidential election In some states the number of potential new voters is substantial In New York, a change to 18 would mean approximately 800,000 more eligible voters In California the figure is close to a million

On Thursday the Minnesota House Elections Committee approved a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the state's voting age from 21 to 19 A proposal to lower it to 18 is pending in the a Senate committee

The state's governor, Harold LeVander, a Republican, who has said he will sign either bill, told the legislature "It is time to quit preaching at the young to become interested while blocking them from becoming involved Let us let them in "

Passes Ohio Senate

A resolution to lower the voting age to 19 was passed recently by the Ohio Senate, 30-3, and has a good chance to clear the house The resolution is supported by Gov James A Rhodes and both political parties

Beatty says there is an even chance his measure to drop the voting age to 18 will clear the North Carolina General Assembly this year A similar bill failed in 1967

In Colorado, Gov John A. Love, a Republican, teamed up with his lieutenant governor, Mark A. Hogan, a Democrat, to serve as honorary co-chairmen of an organization to push for a lower voting age.

The New Jersey Senate this week unanimously approved a November referendum on lowering the age to 18 Vote on the measure, which now goes to the Assembly, was 30-0

In Pennsylvania, the Senate has approved a constitutional amendment that would lower the age to 18 The House set the age at 19 Gov Raymond P Shafer, a Republican, supports the House proposal And this is expected to prevail The referendum cannot get on the ballot until 1971

In Montana state Sen Joseph B Reber opposes a constitutional amendment to lower the age to 19 If persons 19 and 20 are allowed to vote, "they should get a shave and a haircut and be like the rest of us," he says

Before the Voters

Wyoming is the other state where a proposed constitutional amendment is before the voters Myers wanted to add a clause to the amendment requiring that those who vote must wear their hair at a length and grooming to meet standards prescribed by the military service ' But, the legislature turned him down

In Indiana a bill to lower the voting age is bottled up in committee because, according to the committee chairman, Sen Marlin K McDaniel, legislators are furious over campus violence

Supporters of lower voting age bills contend that giving college-age youths the right to vote will lessen student turmoil

"Giving them the right to vote is one of the most singularly important things we can do," says George R Moscone, a young California Senate Democrat from San Francisco "It would be a clear admission on our part, on the part of the Establishment, that we realize times have changed "

Moscone's bill—submitted for the third straight year—to lower the voting age ran into trouble from some lawmakers angry over student disorders at San Francisco State College and the University of California at Berkeley. The state Senate rejected his bill on April 9

Wisconsin Legislature

Sen. Martin J. Schreiber of Milwaukee, sponsor of one of three lower voting age bills in the Wisconsin Legislature, argues "If we continue to deny the right of young people to vote, it's possible they'll be even more inclined to join militant minority groups "

But the legislature ,which recently saw National Guard troops put down students at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, the state capital, is not expected to act favorably on any of the bills

A special constitutional revision session of the Virginia General Assembly, which is currently in session, killed a proposal that would have allowed voters to decide whether to lower the voting age from 21 to 18

Voters in four states—Maryland, North Dakota, Nebraska and Tennessee—voted down proposals last year to lower the age

2 States Reject

In New York, voters rejected a new state constitution containing a lowered age in 1967 but Gov Nelson A Rockefeller says he will seek a constitutional amendment to put the age at 18 In 1966, Michigan rejected an amendment that would have dropped the age to 18

In Florida last year, a plan to lower the voting age was omitted from a proposed new state constitution after long debate The constitution was approved

In Hawaii and Alaska, bills are pending to lower the age to 18 from 19 and 20 respectively.

In Delaware, state Sen Margaret Manning tried unsuccessfully the past eight years to win approval for a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 She said she thinks it can win this year should take over the functions of the university

Sen Peter H Dominick, R-Colo , asked about Tarr's former service connections and the university president told him he had served during World War II in the European theatre, including the Battle of the Bulge

When Stennis asked Tarr why he had consented to take the position with the Air Force, the educator replied he had always enjoyed service in government

"Life in public service is more satisfying than either in business or academics," Tarr explained

"I want to contribute something significant to our present time," he added

Stennis assured Tarr there would be no opposition to his confirmation and the other senators joined in complimenting the Appleton man on his appearance and responses

Proposal to Change State Assembly Name Fails in Senate Vote

MADISON (AP)— A proposal to change the name of the Wisconsin Assembly to the house of representatives failed to pass the state senate Wednesday

"The lower house of the Wisconsin legislature is known nationwide as the assembly and I think we ought to retain that name " Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, told senate colleagues

In other action, the senate passed a bill to permit the attorney general to initiate action to compel open meetings by government agencies.

An amendment would enable private citizens to file complaints with the attorney general's office

The appointment of former assemblyman Bernard Gehrmann of Ashland to the State Highway Commission was approved on a 29-0 vote His term will expire March 1, 1975

days On this day, she stayed home with two other sons awaiting word on a television set.

The jurors, seven men and five women, took their seats without a look at the defendant whose fate they had weighed for nearly 17 hours over a span of four days. Their faces were expressionless

"Ladies and gentlemen, have you got a verdict?" asked Judge Walker, the 69-year-old dean of the Criminal Court bench who is ending his career with this case.

"We have, your honor," said Bruce D. Elliott, the jury foreman

He handed six sheets of paper to the bailiff who handed them to the judge He leafed through, then gave them to clerk Alice Nishikawa to read.

"We the jury in the above entitled action find the defendant Sirhan Bishara Sirhan guilty of murder, in violation of Section 187, Penal Code, a felony, as charged in count one of the indictment. We further find it to be murder in the first degree," said Mrs. Nishikawa.

"Is this your verdict, ladies and gentlemen?" she asked. "So say ye one, so say ye all?"

"Yes," said the jurors in unison.

Motion Rejected

Cooper routinely asked that a new jury be impaneled for the penalty trial and was turned down. The jurors were told they could have their wives and husbands as visitors in their hotel until Sunday night

Sirhan also was convicted of five counts of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in the shooting of five people near Kennedy when Sirhan opened fire.

Only newsmen were in the spectator seats as the buzzer sounded three times indicating the jury had reached a verdict There also was the same heavy guard in the fortress-like courtroom as on other days.

A strange aspect to the trial was the complete absence of Kennedy intimates. Many of the 70 people who were in the pantry of the Ambassador Hotel when the senator was shot June 5 testified for the state in February, but none returned later

Mekong Delta Area Battles

51 Dead in Viet Cong Hit, Run Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong killed at least 51 South Vietnamese and wounded 93 Thursday in two battles a few hours and 12 miles apart in the Mekong Delta, reports from the area said today.

In the first battle, Viet Cong troops before dawn attacked an infantry post manned by about 100 militiamen and a team of civilian pacification workers, 12 miles northwest of Bac Lieu and 125 miles south of Saigon

Field reports said the Viet Cong overran the post, killing 19 militiamen and six pacification workers and wounding 19. In addition, seven militiamen and three pacification workers were missing, and AP photographer Henri Huet reported from Bac Lieu that there was no word of the families of the soldiers, who customarily live in or near such posts.

Enemy Pulled Out

Reinforcements from the South Vietnamese 21st Division reached the post about dawn but the Viet Cong had pulled out, leaving the bodies of 11 of their men, South Vietnamese officials said

About 12 miles to the northwest, another militia company ran into Viet Cong troops during the afternoon while searching for 75mm howitzers that had shelled the nearby town of Vi Thanh Helicopters rushed in two battalions from the South Vietnamese 21st Division, and the battle raged until about 3 a m today.

About midnight one government battalion tried to assault the Viet Cong's command post on a river bank, but eight men were killed when the enemy set off pellet-spewing Claymor mines sowed in three rows around the command bunker.

U S F100 Super Sabre jets attacked the Viet Cong positions with bombs and napalm. Tracers from the enemy's .50-caliber machine guns arched into the sky as the planes attacked.

A sweep of the area after dawn produced 21 enemy bodies, but 26 government troops were killed and 71 were wounded.

The nightly Viet Cong shelling of bases and towns continued, and U S. B52 bombers rained down more than 1,250 tons of bombs on Viet Cong jungle base camps northwest of Saigon during the night. The U S Command said it was the second heaviest bombardment since the enemy's spring offensive began Feb. 23.

Roaring over in wings of six, 42 of the big bombers blasted the jungle in a north-to-south arc just east of the big Michelin rubber plantation about 35 miles from Saigon. A communique said the bombers hit "enemy activity, base camps, bunker complexes, staging areas and weapons positions "

Among more than 15 targets shelled by enemy gunners were two allied airfields and the big U S base at Long Binh, 12 miles north of Saigon Casualties and damage were reported light in all the attacks, but more than 10 Americans were wounded in an attack on the Vinh Long airfield, 65 miles southwest of Saigon The other airfield hit was at Soc Trang, 95 miles southwest of Saigon.

Another Copter Downed

The U S Command also reported that ground fire brought down an American OH6 observation helicopter, but this touched off a fight in which troops of the U S. Americal Division killed 21 North Vietnamese

The helicopter went down about 100 miles south of Da Nang Later, cruising helicopter gunship crews spotted nine enemy soldiers near the wreckage and killed seven.

Nixon Orders Flights To Continue Off Korea

popular election of the president if Congress approves such a constitutional amendment

—Condemned the Communist shakeup in Czechoslovakia, in which party leader Alexander Dubcek was removed from office He said Americans and people all over the free world see this as perhaps "the great tragedy of the Czech people," who sought to liberalize their government. The President added that future such actions could impair U.S -Soviet relations

Nixon told his fifth news conference as President, in response to the first question, that the North Korean attack on the EC121 had been "unprovoked, deliberate, without warning."

He reported the plane was flying away from North Korea at the time of attack because its mission had been "aborted", that is it had been ordered canceled.

Pressumably the cancellation was ordered because U S radar had picked up the take-off of two MIG fighter planes from a North Korean field

The plane Nixon said, had never gone closer than 40 miles to the Korean coast and at the time of the attack was 90 miles from North Korea over the international sea.

The reason for the reconnaissance flights, Nixon said, is the threats and hostile actions against South Korea by North Korea.

He noted the United states has 56,000 troops in South Korea and said the threats against South Korea are also threats against those troops It is the responsibility of commanders to do everything necessary to protect them, he added

Nixon pictured the reconnaissance flights as part of the defense strategy for those forces. He said "we have had a policy of reconnaissance flights for 20 years" and reported there had been 190 such flights this year in the North Korean area.

The shooting down of the plane Tuesday apparently cost 31 American lives. Nixon apparently ruled out earlier this week any military retaliation—such an air strike against the North Korean base from the fighter planes took off

He decided instead on a protest directly to North Korea

As the incident receded further into the depths of diplomacy, the search for the missing crewmen continued, but with hope for their survival all but gone

The Pentagon said today the search for survivors has been unsuccessful

Wins Petticoat Race

Irish Girl Becomes Youngest Commoner

OMAGH Northern Ireland (AP) — A blue-eyed colleen, 21-year-old Bernadette Devlin, is the youngest member of Britain s House of Commons in nearly 200 years after winning a petticoat race in Northern Ireland Thursday

Miss Devlin, a campaigner for Roman Catholic civil rights and a "unified Socialist Ireland," won a special election in the Mid-Ulster District She defeated Anna Forrest, widow of a veteran Unionist who represented the district until he died

The vote was 33,648 29,437

Bernadette is the youngest member of the House of Commons since William Pitt was elected in 1781 also at 21 He became prime minister at 24

Miss Devlin is not the youngest member of Parliament That distinction belongs to a member of the House of Lords — 20-year old Prince Charles who is a member of the upper house because he is Duke of Cornwall But the heir to the throne has never taken his seat and probably never will

Campaigned from Truck

Bernadette Devlin

Mrs Forrest a 43 year-old Protestant and the mother of three children, waged a quiet campaign She said she would carry on her husband's Unionist policy, meaning mostly support for Northern Ireland's continuing as a member of the United Kingdom

The daughter of a carpenter, Miss Devlin was orphaned at 19 and lives with her five brothers and sisters. She was a psychology student at Belfast University until she dropped out to run for the $7,800-a-year seat in Parliament The salary, she says, is more money than she has ever seen

"If I get to Westminster," she said jokingly during the campaign, ' it will mean that an Irish peasant has at last entered the halls of the mighty '

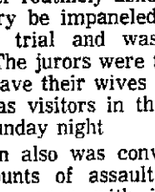

She will be one of 28 women in Commons

Bernadette first came to public attention last October as a member of a left-wing student group that launched street demonstrations to protest discrimination against Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic minority. The campaign rocked the governing Unionist party and set off months of bitter turmoil between Catholics and Protestant extremists.

In her victory statement, she pledged "to work faithfully for all sections of the community irrespective of religion.

Often called a 20th century Joan of Arc, Miss Devlin says 'If I find the fellow who gave me that tag, I'll strangle him I am no saint just an ordinary Catholic girl "

Assist for Goalie Plante

Bruins Halt Canadiens' 'Cup' Win Streak at 11

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jacques Plante's Stanley Cup goaltending magic has begun to rub off on Boston's Gerry Cheevers—while Plante concentrates on setting up scoring plays for the soaring St Louis Blues.

Cheevers brushed aside 34 Montreal shots Thursday night and Phil Esposito triggered the Bruins' attack with two goals and three assists in a 5-0 shutout victory over the Montreal Canadiens.

The victory vaulted the Bruins back into contention in their National Hockey League East Division final playoff series after a pair of sudden-death setbacks at Montreal.

Plante, who tied Turk Broda's playoff record of 13 shutouts by blanking Los Angeles 4-0 Tuesday night in the opener of the West Division finals, became the second goalie ever to record an assist in Cup play as the Blues edged the Kings 3-2.

Third Game Set

The Bruins, down 2-1 in their best-of-7 set, entertain Montreal again Sunday afternoon. St. Louis takes its 2-0 advantage over the Kings to Los Angeles for Saturday night's third game

"That was really Stanley Cup goaltending," Boston Coach Harry Sinden exclaimed after Cheevers' acrobatics helped end the Canadiens' skein of successive playoff victories at 11 "He had a great glove tonight. He really hit it moving."

Montreal captured the Cup last year by sweeping its last five games—four of them against St. Louis in the finals. The Canadiens also ousted New York in four straight to move into this year's showdown with Boston.

Esposito, who didn't pick up a point in the two playoff games at Montreal after setting an all-time regular season record of 126, broke loose on home ice. The rangy center scored a first-period goal, set up Ed Westfall's marker in the middle period and hit for a power play goal early in the finale before assisting on wrap-up tallies by Ron Murphy and Ken Hodge.

Gary Sabourin's second goal of the game, with less than six minutes to play, snapped a 2-2 tie at St. Louis. Plante earned an assist on Sabourin's second period tally with a long pass from the crease to Larry Keenan, who relayed to Sabourin in front of the Los Angeles cage.

Toronto's Johnny Bower, who picked up an assist in the 1963 playoffs, was the only other goaltender to make the postseason scoresheet.

May Affect State's Planting Program

DDT Scare Puts Gloom on Coho Fishery

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State Department of Natural Resources officials are gloomily speculating about the consequences for the Lake Michigan sport and commercial fishery of the fedral government claim that coho salmon taken from the lake contain quantities of the pesticide DDT that is beyond federal tolerance levels.

Lester P. Voight, secretary of the natural resources department, Thursday told the board governing the agency that the federal Food and Drug Administration's condemnation of some catches of the Lake Michigan fish may affect the state's own extensive plans for a coho propagation and planting program for the encouragement of sports fishing in the lake.

Simultaneously, the board adopted a resolution drafted by D. K. Tyler of Phillips that the impact of the FDA action "on the Lake Michigan commercial fishery potentially could almost destroy it."

Sport Fishery

"The associated impact on sport fishery can also have very serious consequences," the statement added.

The board also instructed Voigt to attend a Sunday conference in Chicago of the Lake Michigan boundary state governors, including Gov. Knowles of Wisconsin, to review means that may be used to meet the Lake Michigan pesticide pollution problem.

The resolution said that one of the results of the conference may be a resolve to intensify an earlier four-state agreement for a cooperative program of controlling the pollutant dangers, and that the state agency is prepared to put into effect on behalf of Wisconsin any action that the four governors may recommend.

Intense Interest

The board listened with intense interest to a telephoned report from Michigan authorities describing the decision of that state to prohibit the use of DDT by commercial pesticide applicators.

(The board is mid-way in a hearing on a petition that it issue a similar prohibition in Wisconsin, under its pollution control powers. Advocates of such an order testified at hearings last month. Opponents, including agricultural interests, will present their arguments, certain to be in disagreement, when the proceedings are resumed on April 29.)

Voigt after remarking about the potential adjustments in the state's salmon production plans said that his agency would be in a better position to resolve the question after the gubernatorial conference Sunday.

But two members of the board appeared to doubt that scuttling of the salmon hatchery program will be necessary.

Sportsmen want to fish the newly introduced species, said Arthur MacArthur of Jansville, and Herbert Behnke of Shawano nodded agreement.

"Let's go ahead and not be deterred by the DDT scare," said MacArthur, apparently suggesting that anglers will want to seek out the fish, even if it is ultimately shown that they are not safe for human consumption.

Mrs. Kent, who is expecting her second child in September, became the Cinderella of the tournament with her performance. This is her first year of bowling.

A Personal Record

Only a 115-average kegler in a mixed couples league at Poy Sippi which meets every other week, Mrs. Kent turned in games high above her previous marks — 156, 180, 144, and 147. The 180 was a personal record.

Her relatively low average entitled Mrs. Kent to a high handicap of 240 pins (60 pins per game), and combined with her 627 scratch total, she wound up with 867.

"I was pretty much relaxed," she sighed afterwards smiling, "I got tired.'

Hands Not Satisfied Despite Winning Effort

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bill Hands did quite a job on the St. Louis Cardinals with his right arm, then turned around and gave them a lefthanded slap in the face.

The Chicago Cubs righthander yielded three hits to wrap up the Cards 3-0 before Phil Regan came in to give up the last hit and get the last outs.

You think Hands is happy about that? No Sir.

"I wasn't a pitcher tonight," the 2-0 Hands said. "I was a thrower. It was very upsetting to me."

Not half so upsetting as it was to the Cardinals. Manager Red Schoendienst had shuffled the Cards for the lack of hitting. Then the proud National League champions go out and can't handle a pitcher who admits he had a bad night.

Ron Santo, the Cubs' third baseman, questioned the Schoendienst shuffle.

"How," asked Santo, "can you keep guys like (Lou) Brock, (Tim) McCarver and (Julian) Javier, who got you into the pennant, out of the lineup?"

Schoendienst knew how, but he was in no mood to hang around and explain the procedure, not with the Cardinals having lost their first five home games. And not with the Cardinals blushing about their 4-6 record.

No Support

Dave Giusti, 1-1, was upset, too. He's gotten only one run to work with in 18 innings, but that's not what bugged him. And he wasn't bugged that Don Young's single and Al Spangler's run-producing single had him down 1-0 in the third.

It was a pitch to Billy Williams in the eighth inning that bothered him.

"The play that beat me was a palm ball I got too high to Williams when he hit the two-run double," Giusti moaned. "When I walked (Don) Kessinger in the eighth I got mad and disgusted. Then I hung the ball to Williams.

"I've had good success with him with a palm ball," Giusti added, But I got this one too high. I figure if Williams is going to beat me, he's going to have to beat me with my best pitch and that's what he did."

Cub second baseman Glenn Beckert was not in uniform in St. Louis Thursday night. Doctors told him to rest for 48 hours after Mike Shannon banged into him Wednesday night and sent him to a hospital for treatment and observation.

Beckert Returns Saturday

Manager Leo Durocher said Beckert probably would play Saturday when the Cubs send Ken Holtzman to the mound against the Expos at Montreal.

The Cubs were idle today before opening the three-game set at Montreal. Jim Qualls, rookie replacement for Beckert, left Friday for weekend military drills in Stockton, Calif. That leaves only Charlie Smith to play second base if Beckert remains sidelined.

Meanwhile, the White Sox, off Thursday, begin a four-game home stand tonight with the Seattle Pilots. Gary Peters (0-1) will face Marty Pattin (1-1) whom the Sox routed Sunday in Seattle.

Best Hitting Club

Sox Manager Al Lopez said he will use Tommy John Saturday and then Joe Horlen and Sammy Ellis in Sunday's doubleheader.

Lopez said that this year's team could be his best-hitting club since he has been in Chicago.

"At least it looks that way the way these fellows are going right now," he added.

"It could be the best offensive club I've had since the 1954 Cleveland pennant winner. I've got Carlos May, Bill Melton, Buddy Bradford and Gail Hopkins. They haven't made it big yet, but they have the potential to match the power of Al Rosen, Larry Doby and Bobby Avila of that 1954 Cleveland team.

"I'm sure May, Melton, Hopkins and Bradford will hit so I see us with tremendous possibilities offensively. I look for improvement from Pete Ward and Duane Josephson."

Bob Miller Slams 256 Singleton in Marathon League

Bill Swanson smacked a 626 series and Don Marshall had a 232 game and 622 series to share honors in the KCA General Office League at the 41 Bowl Thursday night.

Bob Sharriff had a 602 series, Hem Kuehl socked a league-leading 241 game and finished with 590, and Pete Hietpas rolled a 59 series. Purchasing won the league title.

In the Marathon League at the Twin City Bowl, Bob Miller rolled a 256 singleton and Bob Hogan had a 583 series. Other high scores included Matt Minten 556, Maury Theisen 552, Bob Miller 572, Jim McCormick 557 and Mike Simonis 560.

In a roll-off for the Twi-Lite League championship at Sabre Lanes, Schmidt Oil won out over Mr. Roberts. Tom Huhn led Schmidt's with 590. Bob Huebner had 576 and Denny Huhn rolled 544. For Mr. Roberts, Mike DeBroux was high with 568.

Orioles Reluctant to Leave Fenway After Blasting Bosox Again

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ah, Friendly Fenway. If only the Baltimore Orioles could spend the whole season playing in Boston's cozy ballpark

But a whole season in Fenway isn't Boog Powell's idea of paradise. "Heck no," says slugger Powell, "then we wouldn't be able to look forward to coming back."

Powell and the rest of the Orioles can't wait for the next trip to Fenway after winning three straight from the Red Sox climaxed by a 9-5 victory Thursday.

Baltimore scored 30 runs and had 48 hits in the three games and gave the Red Sox' outfielders quite a workout.

The Orioles had 17 safeties Thursday including home runs by the Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks. Rookie Billy Conigliaro had his third homer in two days for the Red Sox and Boston's Rico Petrocelli also connected.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit outlasted Cleveland 7-6 and New York split a doubleheader with Washington, taking the 10-inning opener 7-3 on Joe Pepitone's grand slam home run and dropping the nightcap 5-2. The other teams were not scheduled.

Four Hits For Johnson

Dave Johnson led the Orioles' attack against Boston with his second straight four-hit day. Johnson had two doubles and two singles.

The Red Sox knew they were in trouble right away when the Orioles loaded the bases on starter Lee Stange's first three pitches, Don Buford opened with a first-pitch double, Paul Blair singled on the next one and then Frank Robinson was hit by the third

Two runs scored when Ken Harrelson threw wild on Powell's grounder and then Baltimore tacked on three more in the second when Frank Robinson tagged his fifth homer of the year and 423rd of his career.

Mel Stottlemyre won his third straight and Stan Bahnsen lost his third straight for the Yankees, who split with the Senators

Washington tied the opener in the ninth inning on a two-run homer by Mike Epstein But the Yankees loaded the bases with two out in the bottom of the 10th and then Pepitone tagged his grand slam

Murcer Hits Fifth

Pinch hitter Gary Holman's double broke an eighth inning tie and pushed the Senators to their second game victory and the split Bobby Murcer homered in each game for New York, running his season's total to five

Detroit scored three runs in the ninth inning and then held off a Cleveland rally to beat the Indians

Hits by Gates Brown and Norm Cash combined with an error by pitcher Vicente Romo and Al Kaline's sacrifice fly gave the Tigers their three runs in the ninth Then Tony Horton's two-run homer pulled Cleveland within one but the Indians fell short.

Mickey Lolich got credit for the victory, his second of the season over Cleveland but the Tigers needed three relievers to retire the side in the ninth.

Dick Lotz Fires 67 to Lead 'Champions'

5 Tie for the Runnerup Spot at Rancho La Costa

By BOB GREEN

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Young Dick Lotz, who tamed tough La Costa with a fantastic start, held a two-stroke lead going into today's second round of golf's Tournament of Champions, but there was an ominous group of five charging at his heels.

Lotz, a dark-haired 26-year-old native Californian, tore five strokes off par in his first four holes Thursday, coasted in and announced that it was nice to be back to his own territory.

"I didn't play well in Florida," the stocky, good looking guy said. "I'm not used to that kind of grass. And there was still a different kind of grass in North Carolina.

"It's always nice to get back around your home area. You're more adapted to the conditions and you play with more confidence. I know the course here. I can't complain about anything."

Others Moan

His opening 67, five under par for the 7,114-yard La Costa Country Club layout, helped. But there were plenty of other moans from the select 28-man field—about the deep, damaging rough.

"It's like an alfalfa field," said Dave Stockton, one of a group of five challenging at 69.

"A 69 here is like a 65 any place else in the world," said globetrotting Gary Player, the British Open champion and another member of the quintet two shots back. "A 67 is a fantastic, phenomenal round."

Also in the group are Arnold Palmer, 49-year-old PGA king Julius Boros and long-hitting Tom Weiskopf.

Defending champion Don January, Masters champ George Archer and Billy Casper, one of the pre-tourney favorites, all had 71s. U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino went to a 74 and Gene Littler, the season's leading money winner, had a 75.

Boros holed a 30-foot chip shot for an eagle that spiced his round. Palmer played the front nine in three-under then scrambled. The steady Player had three birdies without a single bogey. Weiskopf reeled off seven birds and four bogeys and Stockton steered in birdie putts of 25, 20, 20, 20 and 15 feet.

Greg Smith Just Misses Berth on All-Rookie '5'

NEW YORK (AP) — Forward Greg Smith of the Milwaukee Bucks missed by one vote of being named to the National Basketball Association's All-Rookie squad, accounced today

Smith, from Western Kentucky, received five votes in the coaches poll, one less than Gary Gregor of Phoenix. The 6-foot-5 Smith was Milwaukee's leading rebounder and is co-holder of the club's single game rebounding record of 23.

Named to the All-Rookie team were Wes Unseld of Baltimore; Elvin Hayes, San Diego; Bill Hewitt, Los Angeles; Art Harris, Seattle, and Gregor.

The Six-Mile Run in the Kansas Relays at Lawrence, Kansas, was won by Colorado's Craig Runyan on a flooded track Thursday. Runyan won by a 100 yards over his closest competitor in the time of 29 minutes, 44.3 seconds—considered good for the conditions. (AP Wirephoto)

Pacers, Bucs Gain Finals

Indiana Comeback Upends Kentucky; Chaps Lose, 101-95

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The formulas were different but the results were the same Thursday night as the Indiana Pacers and New Orleans Buccaneers won their way into the division finals of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

The Pacers, regular season pennant-winners, came from behind in the third period and beat Kentucky 120-111 to take their Eastern semifinal series four games to three. New Orleans won the finale of its Western seven-game set by snuffing out a late Dallas rally and downing the Chaparrals 101-95.

Indiana faces the winner of Saturday night's Minnesota at Miami clash while New Orleans opens its best-of-7 final that night at Oakland.

Hortonville's Trackmen Win

Quinn, Bergman Pace Victory in Season Opener

HORTONVILLE — The Hortonville High School track team opened its season with a 79-39 victory over Manawa here Tuesday.

The Polar Bears won eight individual first places and Manawa took four firsts. The teams spilt the relay events with the Wolves being the victor in the 880 and the Polar Bears taking the mile.

Hortonville "slammed" the high hurdles, 880-yard run, and the shot put.

Hortonville's Pat Quinn was the meet's top scorer, with 13 points. He won the long jump and high jump and took second in the pole vault.

Manawa was led by Joe Griffin, with 12¼ points, on a first in the 220 and seconds in the 100 and long jump. He also ran a leg on the winning 880 relay team.

Chuck Bergman added 11¼ points to Hortonville's total by winning the 100 and the 440 and running a leg on the winning mile relay team. The Polar Bears' Chuck Lapp won both the shot and discuss events.

Knicks, Celts Clash

Lakers in Command 3-1, After Whipping Hawks on Road, 100-85

By RON SPEER

ATLANTA (AP) — The New York Knicks' battle with the Boston Celtics will be followed closely tonight by the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Atlanta Hawks aren't very interested.

The Lakers virtually nailed down the National Basketball Association's Western Division crown Thursday night by whipping the Hawks 100-85.

The victory enabled the Lakers to take a 3-1 lead in their best-of-7 series and they can wrap it up by winning the fifth game in Los Angeles Sunday.

So the Lakers naturally want to know what team they probably will face in the playoffs for the NBA championship.

Los Angeles Coach Bill van Breda Kolff refused to claim the division title but he did admit the triumph in Atlanta was "a very big one for us.

"I don't think we're over the hump yet. You never think that," he said, "until the last game is won.

Important Road Win

"But it was a big victory for us, coming on the road. Anytime you win on the road it's great. Now we've got to work to win one at home."

Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin said, "We're in a difficult spot, trailing 3-1 and going to Los Angeles.

The Celtics also are counting on the home-court edge tonight when they try to clinch the Eastern Division title by beating the Knicks.

The Celtics lead in the series 3-2, although the Knicks won their last battle in New York.

Van Breda Kolff points out, however, that neither the Western or the Eastern crowns have been decided yet.

"Nobody is going to claim the title until its won," he said.

However, the Lakers' coach was elated about beating Atlanta after an erratic start.

"Both teams played like college teams in their first tournament he said. "I don't know how many times we lost the ball without getting a shot, and so did Atlanta."

38-Point Spree

The low-scoring battle finally was broken open in the last seven minutes, when the Lakers scored 38 points.

Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West led the outburst, including a surge in which the Lakers scored 12 straight points and turned a 73-70 deficit into an 82-73 lead.

"Wilt blocked a few shots, West made a few steals, and we finally got rolling," Van Breda Kolff said.

Chamberlain wound up with 25 points and 19 rebounds and West scored 22 points.

Lou Hudson scored 22 for the Hawks, and Zelmo Beaty got 18. But Joe Caldwell was held scoreless, Walt Hazzard scored only five and Bill Bridges was limited to seven.

Good Catches of Walleyes Features Report on Fishing

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin fishing is dominated by good Walleye catches, the Department of Natural Resources' weekly outdoor report said Thursday.

"Despite floods," the summary said, "walleyes up to 11 pounds are being taken below the Dresbach, Trempealeau, Whitman and Alma dams in the west central area."

Walleyes have turned up in the Rock River at Newville and below Jefferson in the southern section, the report added.

There were these other observations by areas:

Southern—Crappies are beginning to bite in lakes in Kenosha and Racine counties; smelt fishing has been slow off Kenosha, but some coho are coming in from three miles offshore and a few are being caught off piers.

East central—White bass and walleyes are biting in the Fox River, and northerns were hitting at Green Lake. Walleyes were being caught off the bridge Oshkosh and on reefs in Lake Winnebago.

In the northwest area streams flowing into Lake Superior are still high and dirty, spoiling trout fishing.

Northeast—A few lakes still have ice but it is dangerous. The Wisconsin River in Lincoln County has been furnishing good walleye and northern fishing.

Bill Stoneman Hurls Season's First No-Hitter

edged San Diego 5-4. Los Angeles and Cincinnati were idle.

St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst, in an effort to revitalize his defending NL champs' miserable hitting, shook up his lineup by benching three of last year's stars—Lou Brock, Julian Javier and Tim McCarver.

But, it didn't help a bit. The Cubs' Bill Hands and Phil Regan teamed to stop the Cards on four hits, handing them their fifth home loss in five games.

Hands, 2-0, didn't permit a runner past second and yielded three hits during his eight-inning stint.

Al Spangler singled in the Cubs' first run in the third, and Billy Williams doubled in two more in the eighth.

Aged Jim Bunning struck out nine and permitted just three hits in a strong six-inning showing against the Mets.

The 36-year-old Bunning, only 4-14 last season, picked up his 2,500th career strikeout in the fifth, as he atoned for a shelling in his first start this season. Ron Kline finished up and didn't yield a hit.

Al Oliver cracked a three-run homer—his first in the majors—for the Pirates in the eighth.

Sonny Jackson knocked in three runs, including two with and inside the park homer, to help Atlanta past Houston. Winner Pat Jarvis helped out wit two-run single.

San Francisco used a two-run double by Jim Davenport to break a tie in the sixth inning and went on to hand expansionist San Diego its sixth straight loss.

Winner Juan Marichal, 2-0, fanned eight before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The next best thing to a new car: a used car with a 100% guarantee.

The 100% guarantee means we'll repair or replace—free—every major working part* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first.

How can we do it? Easy.

We give our trade-ins the 16-point Inspection. And fix whatever needed fixing before we put them out on the lot.

Which is where these are right now.

Our out-of-the ORDINARY salesmen enjoy the most extra-ordinary fringe benefit yet. Oldsmobile!

Every good job pays a good base wage. We give our salesmen that—a draw against good commissions.
The better jobs have an added incentive. Some call it a bonus. We call it unlimited earnings. We give our salesmen that, too.
The best jobs give you all these things plus the well-known fringe benefits. We give our salesmen that, too. Life insurance. Hospitalization. Paid vacations, retirement.
Plus Oldsmobile—the best fringe benefit a car salesman ever had—the car everybody seems to want this year.
If you can sell, need money, and want all that's coming to you, come in and let us show you why selling Oldsmobile deserves your serious consideration.

Your Money's Worth

Suggestions on How To Borrow—and Save

BY SYLVIA PORTER

How can you, an attractive credit risk, hold down your cost of borrowing when a first mortgage can cost you as much as 11½ per cent, a small loan from a reputable loan company can cost you as much as 36 per cent a year, a new car loan from a finance company can cost as much as 14 per cent and a used car loan as much as 42 per cent? What rules will guide you in this brutally tight money market?

Porter

This is certainly an important enough story on its own and it could be of even more vital bread-and-butter significance to you if interest rates are now in their peak range for this era.

If this is so — and I suspect it is — you must make sure you do not commit yourself to pay today's historically steep rates for a prolonged period. You must keep yourself flexible so you can renegotiate your loan when rates start to move down again.

For the anti-inflation restraints now being slapped on — via fat budget surpluses and credit curbs — will work, and when they do, interest rate pressures will ease. The Vietnam war will end at some point, and when it does, the impact at least on the psychology of inflation cannot help but be dramatic. So here are a half-dozen rules:

Large Down Payment

(1) On any type of loan — from auto to mortgage — make the largest down payment you can manage and repay in the shortest period that's feasible for you. Unless you buy the pessimistic argument that we're in for an indefinite period of runaway inflation (and I don't buy this), you cannot dispute this rule's dollar-and-cents logic.

To be specific, let's say you can get a $20,000 mortgage for as little as 7½ per cent. If you repay in 20 years, your total payments will come to $38,688. If you stretch out the mortgage to 25 years, your total payments will come to $48,360. For just five years, you are paying an extra $9,672.

Or let's say you get a $2,000 auto loan for 14 per cent. If you pay back in two years, your interest comes to $304.60. If you drag it out for three years, your interest rises to $460.80 . . . .

(2) Try to include a clause in any long-term loan contract giving you the privilege of prepayment of your loan at no penalty to you or at the lowest possible penalty. This will give you leeway to renegotiate your loan at more favorable rates later or to pay off entirely.

Invest Extra Cash

(3) On the other hand, don't pay off loans you have outstanding at dramatically lower rates than now prevail. Just keep up your regular required payments and invest your extra cash as it earns for you far more money than you're paying out on your old loans.

(4) As always, shop the many sources of loans for the best rates and zero in directly on your insurance company if you can. You can generally borrow against the cash value of your life insurance at 5 per cent simple interest — a spectacular rate in today's marketplace.

You also have the privilege of repaying the principal on your insurance loan at your own discretion.

(5) Shop not only for rates but also for other terms which can translate into hundreds of dollars.

As an illustration, closing costs on a mortgage can vary drastically from lender to lender. While there's no room for negotiating on such closing costs as property taxes and title insurance, there can be plenty of difference in charges for processing your mortgage application and for service of the lender's lawyer.

(6) Watch your monthly balances and keep them down. On an unpaid department store account, you may find you're paying 18 per cent a year.

April 21 Through 25 To be Clean-Up Week For Kimberly Residents

KIMBERLY — Clean-up week will be held in the village from April 21 through 25 with crews to tour the community daily picking up rubbish set at the curbs, according to Eugene Hietpas, street commissioner.

Residents are urged to use the week to clean out basements, attics and garages of debris which may have accumulated over the winter Hietpas said. Persons should also take this time for raking lawns, pruning shrubs or trees or doing other yard chores requiring disposal of materials, he added.

Lawn rakings are not to be put in the streets where they could be carried to catch basins causing flooding and should not be burned in streets where heat damages the road surface, said Hietpas. Material left on terraces adjacent to alleyways will be hauled away by village workers.

Volkswagen brings you an exciting old idea.

We don't expect a standing ovation.

But we do think our belated automatic transmission* deserves at least a smattering of applause.

After all, it does let you drive without shifting and still get up to 25 miles per gal. (You know what ravenous appetites other automatics have.)

It does have the fewest moving parts of any 3-speed automatic. (You know how depressing transmission repair bills can be.)

It does offer you the lightest, most compact 3-speed automatic transmission you can buy. (You know how an automatic can take the oomph out of a car.)

And where can you find our latest triumph?

In the Volkswagen Squareback Sedan and the Volkswagen Fastback Sedan.

Now do you feel like applauding?

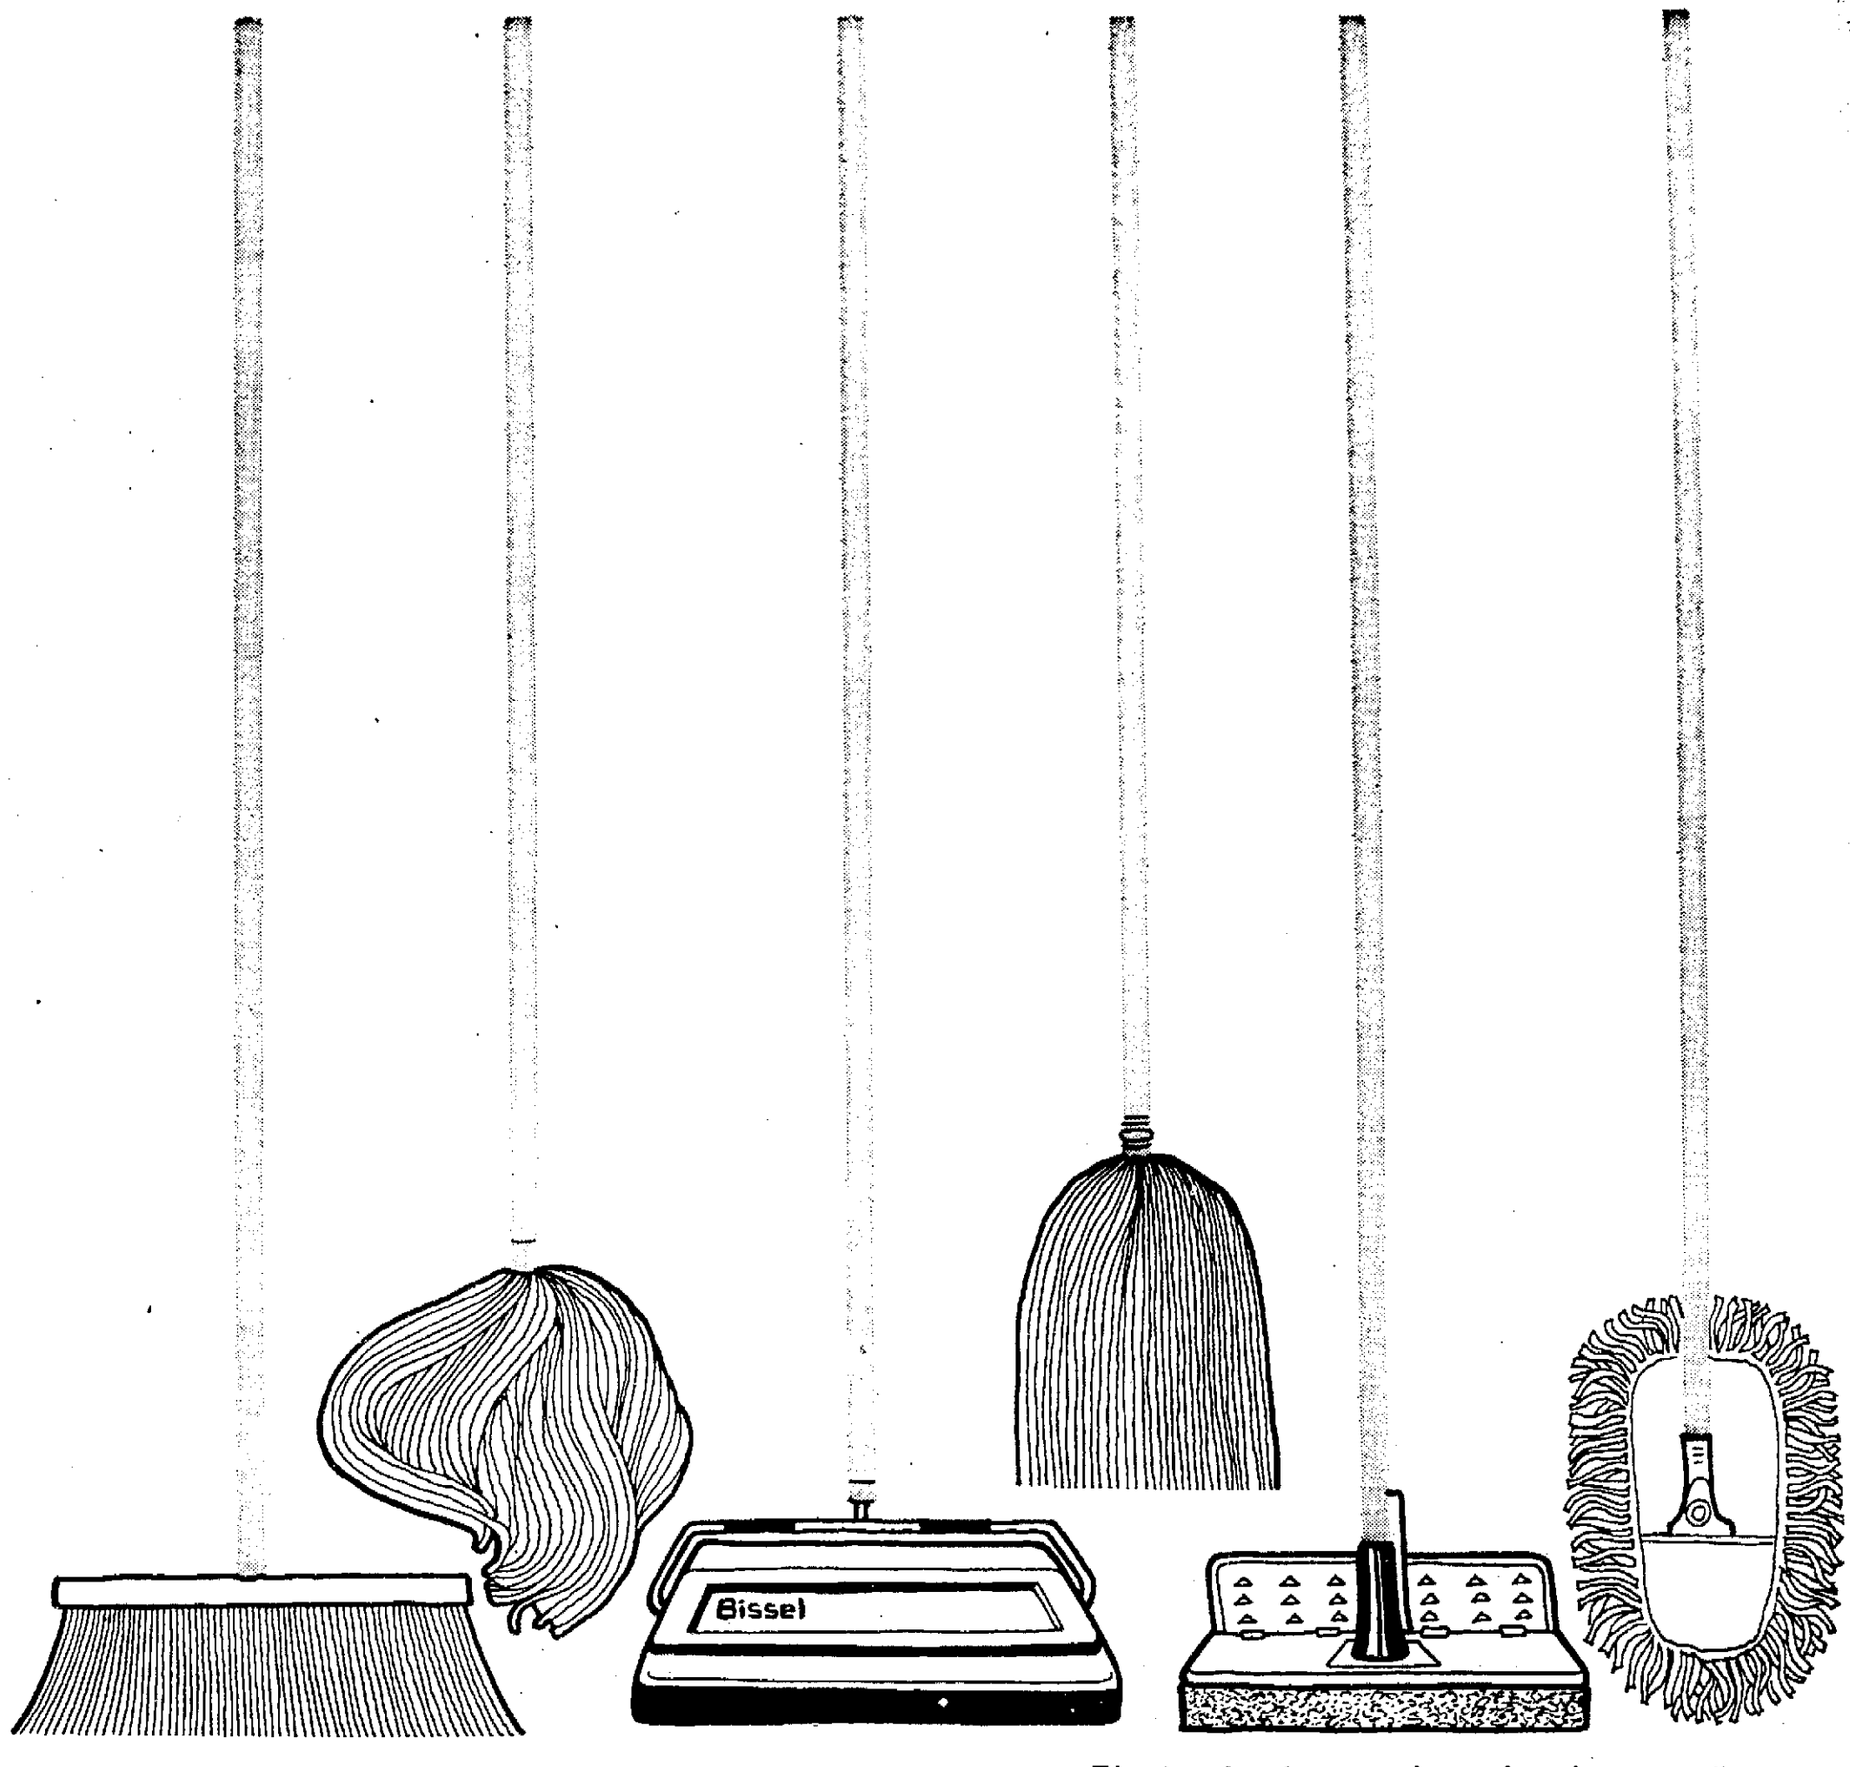

Thank you, thank you very much.

All Planes 'Will be Protected'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon ordered today continuance of reconnaissance plane flights near North Korea and declared "they will be protected."

Nixon reported the flights had been discontinued after the shooting down of one of the unarmed planes Tuesday by North Korean jets.

Then he said: "I have today ordered that these flights be continued. They will be protected. That is not a threat. It is merely a statement of fact."

Nixon told his fifth news conference as President, in response to the first question, that the North Korean attack on the EC121 had been "unprovoked, deliberate, without warning."

He reported the plane was flying away from North Korea at the time of attack because its mission had been "aborted", that is it had been ordered canceled.

Pressumably the cancellation was ordered because U.S. radar had picked up the take-off of two MIG fighter planes from a North Korean field.

International Sea

The plane, Nixon said, had never gone closer than 40 miles to the Korean coast and at the time of the attack was 90 miles from North Korea over the international sea.

The reason for the reconnaissance flights, Nixon said, is the threats and hostile actions against South Korea by North Korea.

He noted the United states has 56,000 troops in South Korea and said the threats against South Korea are also threats against those troops. It is the resposibility of commanders to do everything necessary to protect them, he added.

Nixon pictured the reconnaissance flights as part of the de-

Revenge

TAIYEBEH, Occupied Jordan (AP)—The father of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, convicted killer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, today swore "revenge on American politicians" if his son is executed.

"The revenge won't be in words," Bishara Sirhan declared. He did not elaborate.

"I accept the fact that my son killed Sen. Kennedy," he said. "But Sen. Kennedy was to blame. He provoked my son by threatening to supply arms to the Middle East which would have caused the death of thousands, and the displacement of many more."

"My son did well," said the 55-year-old Arab.

"Many Americans have come to my house and told me they were happy to get rid of Kennedy," he added.

Sirhan vituperatively attacked deputy prosecutor David Fitts, cursing him in Arab expletives and charging "he would not let my son defend himself."

My son, as a true Christian like myself, is ready to work for peace, not only in words but from all his heart," said Sirhan. He said executing the youth would achieve nothing "because peace lovers will

Sirhan Faces Jurors Again

Convicted Murderer Will Either Get Life Term or be Executed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan is guilty of first-degree murder for assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Now, the same jury that convicted him must decide whether he lives or dies.

The penalty phase of Sirhan's trial begins Monday and is expected to last no more than a day or two. The jury will choose one of two sentences: life in prison or death in the gas chamber. A life sentence precludes parole for at least seven years.

Unknown until he murdered the 42-year-old presidential candidate last June, Sirhan tried—even after the first-degree verdict Thursday—to put testimony about the Arab-Israeli conflict into the court record.

Sirhan, passionately partisan to the Arab cause, said his love for Kennedy turned to hate when he decided the New York senator was pro-Israel.

Defense counsel Grant B. Cooper asked to bring witnesses representing Arab countries to the penalty phase "to show the surrounding circumstances" of Sirhan's youth in war-torn Palestine "so the jury can understand the situation and understand his frame of mind more fully."

The defense is allowed to bring out background and other mitigating circumstances during the penalty phase.

But the state argued that such witnesses as Cooper mentioned —none knows Sirhan—would have no more relevance to the trial than experts on World War II or the Korean conflict. Judge Herbert V. Walker denied Cooper's motion.

"Beautiful"

Cooper, who said "it is not my view" that the testimony should be heard, asked his 25-year-old client if he had expressed his wishes.

"Beautiful," said Sirhan.

It was his only audible comment in the courtroom after the verdict.

John E. Howard, a deputy district attorney who has spoken in favor of death penalties, will present the state's argument on a sentence to the jury which rejected the defense contention and a month's worth of psychiatric testimony that Sirhan was too mentally ill to be guilty of first degree murder.

"We will cite facts: his lack of remorse and the effect of political assassination on the democratic process," Howard said. "It will be explained to the jury that it (life or death) will be in their absolute discretion. They now have to evaluate in their conscience a proper penalty."

Sirhan strode into the courtroom with firm step, coatless and tieless, putting out a last minute cigarette—just as he had on 62 previous court days stretching back to Jan. 7.

U.S. Delegate Walks Out

Panmunjom Talks Last 42 Minutes

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — A U.S. representative met a North Korean today, protested the shooting down of the American reconnaissance plane by North Korea and walked out after 42 minutes. It was one of the shortest meetings ever of the Korean Military Armistice Commission.

Air Force Maj. Gen. James B. Knapp accused the North Koreans of a "calculated act of aggression" in bringing down the plane and its 31 crewmen Tuesday in the Sea of Japan.

Two bodies were recovered Thursday, but there was little hope of finding the other 29. American destroyers and planes were searching over a wide area.

After Knapp finished reading his protest, the North Korean representative, Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, said the United States sent out the plane to spy in an act of piracy. Then he declared: "You tell me which unit the aircraft belongs to, then I will give you an answer."

"I have nothing further to discuss," Knapp replied. "Do you have anything to say?"

Lee repeated his demand and Knapp repeated his statement. When Lee asked again what unit the plane belonged to, Knapp and his aides rose from the table and walked out of the conference room. Lee and his aide sat for two minutes, then also left.

Routine Charges

North Korea had requested the armistice commission meeting, and the Communist delegate opened it with a routine statement in which he charged the U.N Command in Korea with 39 armed truce violations April 10-17. He did not mention the plane.

Knapp ignored Lee's charges and read his statement about the downed plane.

"At no time did our aircraft penetrate or even closely approach North Korean air space," he declared. "Since it was at all times clearly within international air space you had no right to threaten or interfere with it, let alone shoot it down."

He said the debris from the plane was found approximately 90 miles from North Korea and added: "There appeared to have been no survivors from the 31 men on board the aircraft."

"The peace of this area is constantly being disturbed by your actions," the protest told North Korea. "The proper course for you to take in this instance is to acknowledge the true facts of the case. That you shot down our aircraft over international waters at a point approximately 90 miles from your coast, and that this plane at no time entered your air space."

The North Koreans have maintained that the plane intruded deep into their air space. They claim their territorial limits extend 12 miles out to sea.

"Inviolable

Rodong Shinmoon, the official North Korean newspaper, said today in a statement published before the meeting of the armistice commission: "The U.S. imperialists had already conducted reconnaissance many times in the environs of our country through their spy planes, and went the length that day of insolently sending one of them into the inviolable territorial air of our country to conduct espionage."

The U.S. protest also denounced an attempt in 1968 to assassinate President Chung Hee Park of South Korea as well as the seizure of the U.S intelligence ship Pueblo and the "brutal mistreatment of her crew." It accused the North Koreans also of "innumerable infiltrations into the Republic of South Korea and violations of the demilitarized zone."

Knapp's walkout was the second by a representative of the U.N. and U S commands in the 290 meetings of the armistice commission since the Korean War ended in 1953. The first occurred April 27, 1959, when U S officials charged the North Koreans with using abusive language The North Koreans also have walked out twice.

Knapp made no comments after leaving the conference room and took a helicopter back to Seoul.

The U.N. Command said in a statement that Knapp's walkout was prompted by North Korean attempts to interject delaying tactics into the meeting. However, some observers believed that the American officer had been instructed by Washington not to elaborate on the prepared statement in advance of President Nixon's news conference today.

Hard-Liner Named

Reds Oust Dubcek

PRAGUE (AP) — Police reinforcements and soldiers guarded strategic points in Czechoslovakia today, but there were no reports of disturbances protesting the replacement of Alexander Dubcek as Communist Party chief.

The 190-member Central Committee at a crisis meeting Thursday named Gustav Husak, the dour pro-Moscow head of the Slovak party, to replace Dubcek

Truckloads of police reinforcements and army armored cars were outside university buildings at the national assembly, near student dormitories and at factories.

No plans for demonstrations were reported so far. Moscow was reported to have warned that Soviet occupation troops would step in if local forces could not keep order.

CTK, the Czechoslovak news agency, said the Central Committee had finished its plenary session and further details of the leadership reshuffle would be announced later.

Prague airport reopened to normal traffic today after closing to commercial planes Thursday night. Airport employes said Russian officers had appeared at the control tower.

Students and young workers were reported planning meetings to determine how they would react to the leadership change. Although Dubcek, 47, lost much of his wildly enthusiastic following as he was forced to make concession after concession in the wake of the Soviet invasion last August, Husak is generally disliked and mistrusted by freedom-minded trade unionists and students

After the announcement of his appointment, Husak spoke on the radio and television and called on the people "to keep calm and support the new leadership."

"We are not giving up any of the great ideas which entered our public life last year," he said, "but it is necessary to see what, where and in what order they can be put into practice."

The first main task is "to lead our society out of this state of crisis," he continued "To make some progress it is indispensable at this time to introduce more discipline both in party and social life .... Some people imagine freedom is boundless, unlimited ... but in every ordered state there must be certain rules of the game, primarily adherence to laws, adherence to social, party and civil discipline and primarily emphasis on honest work."

The new party first secretary announced that as soon as the current crisis is mastered, top priority will be given to solving Czechoslovakia's urgent economic problems. He also promised democratic election of the Parliament and party congress "as soon as permitted by the situation." The elections have been postponed due to Soviet pressure.

Dubcek himself presented the new party organization plan to the Central Committee's 21-member ruling Presidium thus removing himself from the top post. It was generally believed, however, that the resignation was a collective decision and possibly forced on him

An official party statement said he would remain a member of the Presidium and "will go to a leading state function." Unofficial reports circulated that he would become chairman of the two-house parliament

Bolstering Strength

Russia a 'Problem' In Mediterranean

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — The commander of NATO forces in Southern Europe said today that an increase in Soviet naval strength in the Mediterranean in the past week, including the addition of more submarines, has created "a real problem" for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

U.S. Adm. Horacio Rivero told a news conference that the Soviet Union "may be preparing to conduct a major exercise" in the Mediterranean. He said the Soviet ships undoubtedly will observe the big NATO sea and air maneuvers that get under way Sunday.

Rivero said Soviet naval combat strength in the area is "at an all time high." He noted that 50 or more Soviet ships are now operating in the Mediterranean, and that there were more than 60 last September. But he said the number of combat vessels in the present lineup is higher than ever before.

H said the submarines—both conventionally powered and nuclear—"pose an important threat" because of the difficulty in keeping track of them

"Events in Czechoslovakia give an indication of the Soviet mood, and of their readiness and willingness to employ naked military strength without warning when it suits their policy and when they can foresee success."

Committee Gives Its Blessings to Tarr in New Job

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Dr. Curtis W Tarr, president of Lawrence University in Appleton, was approved Thursday by the Senate Armed Services Committee as assistant secretary of the Air Force for manpower and Reserve affairs.

Confirmation by the Senate is expected early next week, according to committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss.

Stennis said, however, that even though Tarr is confirmed, he will not officially assume his post until after the end of the current school year at Lawrence.

The handful of senators present at the hearing accorded Tarr gracious treatment with only a few references to the educator's qualifications for a top Pentagon post

Only one warning was sounded and that came from Stennis, who stressed that the committee is exceptionally interested in the Reserve program.

"You'll get some trouble out of us if you don't make Reserve affairs a major part of your job," the Mississippi senator cautioned

Tenure in Office

Stennis also pinned Tarr down on the length of time he intended to stay in his Pentagon post

"I hope to be able to stay as long as the President and secretary of state want me," Tarr answered

This seemed to satisfy Stennis Later, Sen Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, commented that he was impressed by Tarr's appearance and his intent to stay in the Department of Defense rather than leave it after a year or so for other work

Stennis told the committee members Tarr had volunteered to get rid of all his stock in companies dealing with defense contracts. The senator also said Tarr had informed the committee by letter that he would either sell interests held by his family's company, the Sierra Tractor and Equipment Co. of Chico, Calif., which were in companies dealing with defense contracts, or transfer the stock to other types of investments held by the Sierra fiirm.

Judging by the number of questions asked by senators about academic behavior at Lawrence, it appeared that committee members were almost as interested in student rebellion as in military matters.

The first question Stennis asked Tarr was, "Have you had any trouble at Lawrence?"

"I guess that a certain amount of turbulance goes with the day," Tarr responded, smiling.

Later, Young asked, "Have you had any real disorders at Lawrence?"

Almost as if it had been planned, several hippie-type, long-haired, dirty, male teenagers straggled into the hearing room at that moment. The senators no doubt recalling the atmosphere became tense, the senators no doubt recalling the violence-scarred hippie-yippie march on the Pentagon last year.

Stennis glared at the hippies and they promptly sat down and remained quiet the rest of the hearing.

After Tarr responded to Young's question about disorders at Lawrence by saying, "Up until Wednesday afternoon there had been no real disorders," Young launched into a discussion of student unrest.

He said he was sympathetic with the "youngsters" but added he didn't believe they

Student Unrest Could Hurt Voting Age Issue

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer

A drive to lower the voting age from 21 is gaining momentum in several of the 40 states where it is a live issue but campus violence is causing a backlash that could halt it.

Legislation on the subject is pending in 38 states and constitutional amendments are before the voters in two others to be decided by referendum in 1970, an Associated Press survey showed.

"National leaders have come out in recent months in favor of lowering the voting age," says state Rep Jim Beatty of North Carolina "The public is more conscious of the issue and there is increasing sentiment for it "

But legislators in some states say student violence and disorders reflect an irresponsibility and immaturity that will work against passage of such legislation.

Crop of Beards

And the crop of beards and long hair among the nation's youth also is having an effect on the debate

"If we're going to give these youngsters voting privileges, they should look like citizens," said Wyoming state Sen. J. W. Myers.

Four states have a voting age lower than 21 Georgia and Kentucky, both 18, Hawaii, 20, and Alaska, 19

The political implications of any widespread change are obvious. There are roughly 11 million Americans between the ages of 18 and 21. There were 72 million voters in the last presidential election In some states the number of potential new voters is substantial In New York, a change to 18 would mean approximately 800 000 more eligible voters. In California, the figure is close to a million.

On Thursday the Minnesota House Elections Committee approved a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the state's voting age from 21 to 19. A proposal to lower it to 18 is pending in the a Senate committee.

The state's governor, Harold LeVander, a Republican, who has said he will sign either bill, told the legislature: "It is time to quit preaching at the young to become interested while blocking them from becoming involved. Let us let them in."

Passes Ohio Senate

A resolution to lower the voting age to 19 was passed recently by the Ohio Senate, 30-3, and has a good chance to clear the house The resolution is supported by Gov James A. Rhodes and both political parties.

Beatty says there is an even chance his measure to drop the voting age to 18 will clear the North Carolina General Assembly this year. A similar bill failed in 1967.

In Colorado, Gov John A. Love, a Republican, teamed up with his lieutenant governor, Mark A. Hogan, a Democrat, to serve as honorary co-chairmen of an organization to push for a lower voting age.

The New Jersey Senate this week unanimously approved a November referendum on lowering the age to 18 Vote on the measure, which now goes to the Assembly, was 30-0.

In Pennsylvania, the Senate has approved a constitutional amendment that would lower the age to 18 The House set the age at 19 Gov Raymond P. Shafer, a Republican, supports the House proposal. And this is expected to prevail The referendum cannot get on the ballot until 1971.

In Montana state Sen. Joseph B Reber opposes a constitutional amendment to lower the age to 19 If persons 19 and 20 are allowed to vote, "they should get a shave and a haircut and be like the rest of us," he says.

Before the Voters

Wyoming is the other state where a proposed constitutional amendment is before the voters Myers wanted to add a clause to the amendment requiring that those who vote must wear their hair "at a length and grooming to meet standards prescribed by the military service " But, the legislature turned him down.

In Indiana a bill to lower the voting age is bottled up in committee because, according to the committee chairman, Sen. Marlin K. McDaniel, legislators are furious over campus violence.

Supporters of lower voting age bills contend that giving college-age youths the right to vote will lessen student turmoil.

"Giving them the right to vote is one of the most singularly important things we can do," says George R. Moscone, a young California Senate Democrat from San Francisco "It would be a clear admission on our part, on the part of the Establishment, that we realize times have changed."

Moscone's bill—submitted for the third straight year—to lower the voting age ran into trouble from some lawmakers angry over student disorders at San Francisco State College and the University of California at Berkeley. The state Senate rejected his bill on April 9.

Wisconsin Legislature

Sen. Martin J Schreiber of Milwaukee, sponsor of one of three lower voting age bills in the Wisconsin Legislature, argues: "If we continue to deny the right of young people to vote, it's possible they'll be even more inclined to join militant minority groups."

But the legislature which recently saw National Guard troops put down students at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, the state capital, is not expected to act favorably on any of the bills

A special constitutional revision session of the Virginia General Assembly, which is currently in session, killed a proposal that would have allowed voters to decide whether to lower the voting age from 21 to 18.

Voters in four states—Maryland, North Dakota, Nebraska and Tennessee—voted down proposals last year to lower the age.

2 States Reject

In New York, voters rejected a new state constitution containing a lowered age in 1967 but Gov Nelson A Rockefeller says he will seek a constitutional amendment to put the age at 18 In 1966, Michigan rejected an amendment that would have dropped the age to 18.

In Florida last year, a plan to lower the voting age was omitted from a proposed new state constitution after long debate. The constitution was approved.

In Hawaii and Alaska, bills are pending to lower the age to 18 from 19 and 20 respectively.

In Delaware, state Sen. Margaret Manning tried unsuccessfully the past eight years to win approval for a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 She said she thinks it can win this year.

should take over the functions of the university

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., asked about Tarr's former service connections and the university president told him he had served during World War II in the European theatre, including the Battle of the Bulge

When Stennis asked Tarr why he had consented to take the position with the Air Force, the educator replied he had always enjoyed service in government.

"Life in public service is more satisfying than either in business or academics," Tarr explained.

"I want to contribute something significant to our present time," he added.

Stennis assured Tarr there would be no opposition to his confirmation and the other senators joined in complimenting the Appleton man on his appearance and responses.

Proposal to Change State Assembly Name Fails in Senate Vote

MADISON (AP)— A proposal to change the name of the Wisconsin Assembly to the house of representatives failed to pass the state senate Wednesday.

"The lower house of the Wisconsin legislature is known nationwide as the assembly and I think we ought to retain that name," Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, told senate colleagues.

In other action, the senate passed a bill to permit the attorney general to initiate action to compel open meetings by government agencies.

An amendment would enable private citizens to file complaints with the attorney general's office.

The appointment of former assemblyman Bernard Gehrmann of Ashland to the State Highway Commission was approved on a 29-0 vote. His term will expire March 1, 1975

days. On this day, she stayed home with two other sons awaiting word on a television set.

The jurors, seven men and five women, took their seats without a look at the defendant whose fate they had weighed for nearly 17 hours over a span of four days. Their faces were expressionless.

"Ladies and gentlemen, have you got a verdict?" asked Judge Walker, the 69-year-old dean of the Criminal Court bench who is ending his career with this case.

"We have, your honor," said Bruce D. Elliott, the jury foreman.

He handed six sheets of paper to the bailiff who handed them to the judge. He leafed through, then gave them to clerk Alice Nishikawa to read.

"We the jury in the above entitled action find the defendant Sirhan Bishara Sirhan guilty of murder, in violation of Section 187, Penal Code, a felony, as charged in count one of the indictment. We further find it to be murder in the first degree," said Mrs Nishikawa.

"Is this your verdict, ladies and gentlemen?" she asked. "So say ye one, so say ye all?"

"Yes," said the jurors in unison.

Motion Rejected

Cooper routinely asked that a new jury be impaneled for the penalty trial and was turned down. The jurors were told they could have their wives and husbands as visitors in their hotel until Sunday night.

Sirhan also was convicted of five counts of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in the shooting of five people near Kennedy when Sirhan opened fire.

Only newsmen were in the spectator seats as the buzzer sounded three times indicating the jury had reached a verdict. There also was the same heavy guard in the fortress-like courtroom as on other days

A strange aspect to the trial was the complete absence of Kennedy intimates. Many of the 70 people who were in the pantry of the Ambassador Hotel when the senator was shot June 5 testified for the state in February, but none returned later

Mekong Delta Area Battles

51 Dead in Viet Cong Hit, Run Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong killed at least 51 South Vietnamese and wounded 93 Thursday in two battles a few hours and 12 miles apart in the Mekong Delta, reports from the area said today

In the first battle, Viet Cong troops before dawn attacked an infantry post manned by about 100 militiamen and a team of civilian pacification workers, 12 miles northwest of Bac Lieu and 125 miles south of Saigon.

Field reports said the Viet Cong overran the post, killing 19 militiamen and six pacification workers and wounding 19. In addition, seven militiamen and three pacification workers were missing, and AP photographer Henri Huet reported from Bac Lieu that there was no word of the families of the soldiers, who customarily live in or near such posts.

Enemy Pulled Out

Reinforcements from the South Vietnamese 21st Division reached the post about dawn but the Viet Cong had pulled out, leaving the bodies of 11 of their men, South Vietnamese officials said.

About 12 miles to the northwest, another militia company ran into Viet Cong troops during the afternoon while searching for 75mm howitzers that had shelled the nearby town of Vi Thanh Helicopters rushed in two battalions from the South Vietnamese 21st Division, and the battle raged until about 3 a.m. today.

About midnight one government battalion tried to assault the Viet Cong's command post on a river bank, but eight men were killed when the enemy set off pellet-spewing Claymor mines sowed in three rows around the command bunker.

U S F100 Super Sabre jets attacked the Viet Cong positions with bombs and napalm Tracers from the enemy's .50-caliber machine guns arched into the sky as the planes attacked.

A sweep of the area after dawn produced 21 enemy bodies, but 26 government troops were killed and 71 were wounded.

The nightly Viet Cong shelling of bases and towns continued, and U S B52 bombers rained down more than 1,250 tons of bombs on Viet Cong jungle base camps northwest of Saigon during the night. The U.S. Command said it was the second heaviest bombardment since the enemy's spring offensive began Feb 23.

Nixon Orders Flights To Continue Off Korea

fense strategy for those forces. He said "we have had a policy of reconnaissance flights for 20 years" and reported there had been 190 such flights this year in the North Korean area

The shooting down of the plane Tuesday apparently cost 31 American lives. Nixon apparently ruled out earlier this week any military retaliation—such an air strike against the North Korean base from the fighter planes took off.

He decided instead on a protest directly to North Korea

Prior to his 11:30 a.m. EST news conference today, the President ordered a protest issued against the "calculated act of aggression" by North Korea in shooting down the unarmed EC121 reconnaissance plane over the Sea of Japan last Tuesday.

The protest, delivered at a 42-minute meeting at the Panmunjom truce site earlier today, was the first official U.S. reaction since the plane was downed and the 31 crewmen apparently lost.

The relatively mild-worded statement, which called on North Korea "to prevent similar incidents in the future," had left unanswered questions about what if any retaliation the United States might make and how future reconnaissance flights would be protected

As the incident receded further into the depths of diplomacy, the search for the missing crewmen continued, but with hope for their survival all but gone.

The Pentagon said today the search for survivors has been unsuccessful

Meanwhile the U S. destroyer Tucker received from the Soviet destroyer Vdoknovenny some debris of the plane the Soviet ship had recovered in the Sea of Japan

It included a 20-man rubber lifeboat, three leather jackets, a parachute, two exposure suits and some aircraft seats which the Tucker was taking to Sasebo, Japan.

Already aboard the Tucker were the bodies of two members of the 31-man crew, the only bodies recovered so far.

The Pentagon identified them as Lt. (j.g.) Joseph Richard Ribar, 28, and Aviation Electronics Technician 1.C. Richard Edson Sweeney.

Ribar was the husband of Emma Jean Ribar of Atsugi Naval Air Station, Japan. His mother, Anne Ribar, lives in Ambridge, Pa.

Sweeney's widow, Yoko Sweeney, lives in Mishima, Japan, while his parents reside in Chicago

Roaring over in wings of six, 42 of the big bombers blasted the jungle in a north-to-south arc just east of the big Michelin rubber plantation about 35 miles from Saigon. A communique said the bombers hit "enemy activity, base camps, bunker complexes, staging areas and weapons positions."

Among more than 15 targets shelled by enemy gunners were two allied airfields and the big U.S. base at Long Binh, 12 miles north of Saigon. Casualties and damage were reported light in all the attacks, but more than 10 Americans were wounded in an attack on the Vinh Long airfield, 65 miles southwest of Saigon The other airfield hit was at Soc Trang, 95 miles southwest of Saigon.

Another Copter Downed

The U.S. Command also reported that ground fire brought down an American OH6 observation helicopter, but this touched off a fight in which troops of the U S. Americal Division killed 21 North Vietnamese

The helicopter went down about 100 miles south of Da Nang. Later, cruising helicopter gunship crews spotted nine enemy soldiers near the wreckage and killed seven

Wins Petticoat Race

Irish Girl Becomes Youngest Commoner

OMAGH, Northern Ireland (AP) — A blue-eyed colleen, 21-year-old Bernadette Devlin, is the youngest member of Britain's House of Commons in nearly 200 years after winning a petticoat race in Northern Ireland Thursday

Miss Devlin, a campaigner for Roman Catholic civil rights and a "unified Socialist Ireland," won a special election in the Mid-Ulster District. She defeated Anna Forrest, widow of a veteran Unionist who represented the district until he died

The vote was 33 648-29 137

Bernadette is the youngest member of the House of Commons since William Pitt was elected in 1781, also at 21 He became prime minister at 24

Miss Devlin is not the youngest member of Parliament That distinction belongs to a member of the House of Lords — 20-year-old Prince Charles, who is a member of the upper house because he is Duke of Cornwall. But the heir to the throne has never taken his seat and probably never will

Campaigned from Truck

Bernadette Devlin

Mrs Forrest, a 43-year-old Protestant and the mother of three children, waged a quiet campaign. She said she would carry on her husband's Unionist policy, meaning mostly support for Northern Ireland's continuing as a member of the United Kingdom.

The daughter of a carpenter, Miss Devlin was orphaned at 19 and lives with her five brothers and sisters She was a psychology student at Belfast University until she dropped out to run for the $7,800-a-year seat in Parliament. The salary, she says, is more money than she has ever seen

"If I get to Westminster," she said jokingly during the campaign, "it will mean that an Irish peasant has at last entered the halls of the mighty "

She will be one of 28 women in Commons

Bernadette first came to public attention last October as a member of a left-wing student group that launched street demonstrations to protest discrimination against Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic minority. The campaign rocked the governing Unionist party and set off months of bitter turmoil between Catholics and Protestant extremists

In her victory statement, she pledged "to work faithfully for all sections of the community, irrespective of religion.

Often called a 20th century Joan of Arc, Miss Devlin says "If I find the fellow who gave me that tag, I'll strangle him I am no saint . just an ordinary Catholic girl "

Calumet Civic Group Names New Officers

State Legislators Offer Assistance to County Association

NEW HOLSTEIN — Officers for the Calumet County Civic Association (CCCA) were elected at the group's annual Wednesday at the Altona.

Elected president of the group at last month's meeting at Hilbert was Mayor Clarence Wolf, Brillion.

The remaining officers elected were Edward Casper, New Holstein, vice president; Win Kasper, Potter, treasurer; and Edward Sohrweide, executive secretary.

Sen. Mike Lotto, R-Green Bay, Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, G. J. Hipke, Calumet County Board chairman were guests, along with mayors and village presidents from the county and representatives of news media.

Both Lotto and Hephner offered their assistance to the group if needed.

Report on Bill

Hephner reported that a bill presently in the legislature which he and Lotto have coauthored would provide funds under the ORAP bill to get money for the State Historical Society to purchase the Haese Historical Site at Forest Junction.

Hephner also explain his bill calling for quarterly real estate taxes. The taxes would be paid in January, April, July and December.

The CCCA will discuss the bill, a copy of which will be supplied them by Hephner and decide whether or not they will give it their support.

New London Talks Continue

Teachers Return Contracts Despite Contract Differences

NEW LONDON — Only five contracts were not returned by the Tuesday deadline for teacher contracts according to H. James Ramsdell, superintendent.

Ramsdell said 112 out of 117 district teachers returned contracts. The number of teachers not returning is about normal or under that of previous years.

The New London Education Association)NLEA) welfare committee and board of education did not reach formal agreement on the 1969-70 contract in a last-ditch bargaining effort last Friday.

A welfare committee press release this week stated, "A majority of the teachers present at the NLEA meeting Monday voted to indicate their intention to return to New London next year which, according to state statutes, must be done by Tuesday.

Express Confidence

Although agreement has not yet been reached on all items, teachers present at the meeting at Washington Junior High School expressed confidence that continued meetings with the board of education could bring settlement of those issues still unresolved."

"Although the major issue of salary is still not one of the settled issues, it is not the issue on which the NLEA and board remain the greatest distance apart," the welfare committee release stated. "To date this issue involves disagreement primarily in the areas of percentage of the increments going to experienced teachers."

Four Per Cent

In the NLEA's most recent proposal a straight four per cent increment on a cumulative basis is being sought. The board has proposed three per cent cumulative for bachelor's degrees and four per cent for master's.

The view, as expressed by the NLEA negotiating team, is that their salary request is in line with settlements reached in communities employing similar numbers of teachers and in communities having similar equalized valuation.

"An additional area of disagreement is the request by the teachers for a neutral third party to arbitrate grievances between the teachers and board of education. In the event a grievance cannot be settled by moving through the present levels. The board is now considered the final step in the grievance procedure," the NLEA release states.

Only Alternative

"At present the only alternative open to teachers in the event an issue is not resolved is to petition the courts for settlement. The teachers feel that such action is not only lengthy but also because of cost prohibitive to many teachers."

Other areas still unresolved according to the committee include the payment for non-teaching duties such as ticket taking at sports events and acceptance of the school calendar for 1969-70.

The NLEA has asked that school be dismissed at noon the Hospital Seeks $864,000 Grant At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Community Hospital board took action Monday to complete application forms for a federal grant totaling an estimated $864,000 to aid hospital expansion and remodeling.

The board is planning an addition and remodeling project which may cost more than $2 million.

A federal grant under the Hill-Burton Act will provide funds to aid the construction.

The board also accepted the resignation of Charles Binder as a director and named William Martens to fill the unexpired post. Binder served as a director for 27 years.

Supervisors Deal Crippling Blow to Safety Building

Council Reorganizes

Clintonville Goals Outlined

CLINTONVILLE — Mayor Frank Sinkewicz outlined some of his goals for the year Tuesday at the council's organizational meeting.

He had previously given most of the goals last January.

Sinkewicz listed the following objectives: The first phase of the relocation of State 22 around the business loop; Redevelopment of the area at W. 12th and S. Main streets, or the proposed shopping center; encouragement of the redevelopment in other downtown areas; Acquisition by the redevelopment authority, on a timely basis, of properties that might be needed to implement comprehensive planning. . .this may have to do with parking or streets or other facilities; Public housing for the elderly. (At this point, the housing authority has received almost 80 applications for housing in the proposed project, which is for 60 units, Sinkewicz stated).

Other goals include encouragment of housing for those of low income. Such efforts are being made by private enterprise. This has to do with construction of homes that can be owned by those of low income who can qualify according to salary and assets with a down payment and such monthly payments as would allow them to own their homes. The initial number was for 25 such units and there probably will be 30 more.

(A report stated that the realty firm handling applications for this type of housing has received 15 requests.)

Sinkewicz said that housing of all types is urgently needed since between 65 and 70 per cent of those employed in the city commute, some as far as 60 miles, on a daily basis. He said that he was sure that if housing was provided, more people would live in Clintonville.

Hospital Facilities

Regarding new hospital facilities, he said that the council indicated its approval by action taken at a recent meeting. It appears to be a certainty now, he added.

This year, Sinkewicz said, a preliminary study for a community center should be promoted. Previously, the estimated cost given for such a study was $3,000, which cost would be a part of the final architectural fee.

Ordinances, floodplain zoning, sub-division and extra-territorial zoning, should be done.

Industrial development should be encouraged at the airport. Sinkewicz said that to invite industry, it might be advantageous to make site improvements at this time and provide access to those areas.

Brief recommendations include implementation of the city's street plans by extensions such as west to First Street, and First Street to the rear of the cemetery property; River landscaping with walkways as indicated in the comprehensive planning; Pursue the Auto Street crossing; Continue the parking study in several areas; Seal coating some of the streets; Explore Main Street beautification near the park board and the possibility of adding to Buchholtz Park; and Study recommendations in connection with slough area.

Agreement To Proceed Is Tabled

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County supervisors dealt a crippling blow this Thursday to the proposed joint city-county safety building.

By a 38-4 vote, they moved to table their March 11 agreement with the City of Appleton to proceed on a joint venture. On March 11, they, along with Appleton"s city council, had agreed to authorize the special joint committee to hire architects and secure necessary information on costs and plans.

However, supervisors voted Wednesday afternoon in a surprise move to reconsider their March 11 decision. Discussion continued Thursday morning, and included a plea for support from Appleton Ald. John Ayers (12th).

Not Killed

Supervisors, however, did not kill the proposed joint venture outright.

They agreed to set up a committee to seek options on the 16 pieces of property north of the courthouse, where the proposed safety building would be built. They approved $25 for each option and $1,500 to match the city's allocation for appraisals of the properties.

Supervisors opposed to proceeding had contended the price would be too high for the 16 properties

Corporation Counsel, A. W. Ponath, suggested a committee be set up to approach the property owners for options.

"This will save time and money for the county by having the proper committee, he said.

A committee including Ponath, a representative from the city and the county, and a real estate broker will be named, it was agreed.

Supv. George Kroes, Town of Vandenbroek, who had opposed a large expenditure, commented, "That's going to cost us only a few bucks." He said he favored it.

Ayers told the county board that an alternative to the county buying the safety building and the city leasing space could be followed. This, he said, would be a "50-50 proposition" where each would pay the same portion as they anticipated using. He suggested the city would want 30 to 40 per cent of the building and the county 60 to 70 per cent.

Apparent Problems

He said the joint arrangement would be "beneficial to both the county and the city," and blamed poor communications for many of the apparent problems.

After voting to reconsider their joint agreement Wednesday afternoon, the county board engaged in a lively discussion, with the opponents calling for killing the project before too much money is spent.

Other supervisors suggested there should be more study, and the special joint committee should report before the board acted to kill the joint agreement.

At day's end, the reconsideration had been left up in the air, and the future of the approximately $2 million building was uncertain. Its future still is uncertain.

The move to reconsider the decision of the joint city council-county board March 11 came when an executive committee resolution to transfer $2,400 from contingencies to a "special budget fund" to hire appraisals of the proposed safety building site was introduced

Pat Aegerter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aegerter, Weyauwega, has been named Jaycee Sweetheart. She will compete in the Waupaca County Fair Queen Contest and participate in other civic functions throughout the year.

Conditions Hazardous

Village Sidewalks Are Requested in Hilbert Petition

HILBERT—A request that the village adopt an ordinance making sidewalks mandatory as a safety measure, signed by 23 residents, was read Thursday at the village board meeting.

The letter stated that "we think the idea of having a sidewalk on the west side of Eighth Street with a crosswalk is very good, but we recommend that in the adoption of this ordinance that sidewalks are necessary on both sides of all streets."

It also was stated "the conditions at the present time on Calumet Street are very hazardous. Cars are parked on both sides of the street so school children and pedestrians must walk down the middle of the street. Similar conditions exist at all three schools". The petitioners asked that action be taken before school resumes next fall. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fochs, Mrs. Donald Gast and Mrs. Leander Roehrig were present to support the rqeuest.

President Orville F. Manz said officials would approach residents on the streets named and let them know of the proposal then a public hearing would be conducted.

Fochs argued that it would be hard to "enforce something where you've got to pick and choose" he felt it should be for all lots having curbing. It also was noted that all older properties in the village have sidewalks and the problems were in the more recently developed areas.

According to officials installation of sidewalks had come before the board previously and the property owners in the new divisions disapproved. "We hate to be the ones to say you have to do it" Manz said, to which one of the proponents asked "What's going to happen when the first child gets hit"?

Board members also pointed out that sidewalks had to be paid for and maintained by the property owner and this would mean shoveling snow.

The street committee was ordered to contact property owners conderned in the recommendation and action would be taken at the next meeting.

Old Dream Coming True In Brillion

BRILLION — This small community's ambitious, long-awaited dream is about to become a reality as formal ground breaking ceremonies for the new Community Center are scheduled next Thursday.

The new recreation center, which will feature a seven-lane Olympic swimming pool along with a youth center, several community rooms and a kitchen, has been planned since late 1966, when a citizens advisory committee revealed the need for such facilities.

The building will be constructed of rough-textured concrete. A large lounge and lobby area will serve as a focal point for the meeting rooms, office space, multi-purpose room and youth center as well as the pool area.

The complex is estimated to cost in excess of $600,000, and will be located on Center Street in the middle of the downtwon area and close to other community facilities

The building was designed by Nichols and Barone, Green Bay architects, and has won a national award for design excellence.

Chlorination Equipment Ordered

Street Work Bids Accepted at Chilton

CHILTON — Bids for street work and chlorination equipment were accepted Tuesday by the city council.

Bloy Construction Company, Appleton, was awarded the contract for 2,350 lineal feet of gutter at $2.18 a foot on a low bid of $5,123 for the project.

Jim Ecker, Stockbridge, was awarded the crushed stone contract calling for 4,000 cubic yards at $1.80 per yard, or a total of $7,200.

Construction of the chlorination facilities at the water plant will be done by low bidder Mike Wallander, Inc., Manitowoc. Total cost is $10,748.

Chlorinator Equipment

Contractor for the chlorinator equipment is Wallace & Tiernan, Bellvue, N.J., at a cost of $1,915.

Installation of the chlorination equipment is awaiting state approval.

A petition signed by some 22 property owners on Water Street asking for curb and gutter was discussed. Since this street is the site of an interceptor sewer to be installed as soon as funding is approved, it was agreed to authorize Walter Muehl to do the necessary engineering for curb, gutter and bridge work on Water and Spring streets. Plans for the interceptor sewer have been submitted for state approval. The city is awaiting funding on this project.

License Application

Application for a fermented malt license was turned over to committee for council approval. The application was from Harold Sipple, Hilbert, who wants to establish a pizza restaurant in downtown Chilton.

City Atty. William Engler Jr., reported that all papers required for condemnation proceedings on part of the Standard Oil Company land on Main and Madison streets have been filed. Engler said, "Standard Oil is not objecting to the taking, however, they are objecting to the jurisdictional offer of $1,000 that the city has made."

Problems of "open sewers" in the 2nd Ward were brought to the attention of the council by freshman Ald. H. S. Kalinka. Specimens of the open sewer water were shown to the council by Kalinka. Oscar Eggers of the Division of Health, District 3, Fond du Lac, will be asked to investigate.

Youth Center

Reports of noise and disturbances by young people outside of the youth center were made by Mayor Harry Thompson, who said he had numerous complaints last weekend from persons living near the Masonic Temple which is used for the center. The matter was turned over to the recreation committee which is expected to meet with the council very soon to iron out these problems.

The council also approved the purchase of a chain saw for the fire department at a cost of $460. This money had been allotted in the budget. Replacement of a 1½" nozzle also was authorized.

Walter Muehl, director of public works, was authorized to proceed with installation of stub mains on Douglas and Adams streets.

In other action the council:

—Authorized Chief of Police Dan Albedyll to attend chief of police school at Milwaukee May 6 and 7 and also an attorney general's law enforcement conference at Madison May 26 and 27.

—Heard a letter from Mrs. Barbara Kelley, director of the Manitowoc Library, commending the city library on its tremendous amount of referral service.

—Tabled action on purchase of the Masonic Temple for youth center.

Bergstrom Paper Plans Merger of New York Firms

NEENAH — Bergstrom Paper Company officials today announced preliminary agreement to merge Tab Imprints Corporation and Integrated Business Systems Corporation, both of New York City.

The proposed acquisition, an exchange of shares of the two corporations simultaneously for Bergstrom common shares, will be presented for action by Bergstrom directors at their meeting April 21. The merger is subject to approval of directors of all three companies, and the New York firms are expected to take action about the same time.

Integrated Business Systems is a sales-service organization, distributing business forms mainly in metropolitan New York, and Tab Imprints manufactures and markets continuous forms for businesses in the same area. Sales of the two companies are projected at $1,750,000 for 1969.

Annual Brillion Address

Wolf Urges Support Of Local Government

BRILLION — Local government should be "revitalized and reinforced by the citizenry it was created to serve," Mayor Clarence Wolf stresses in his state of the city address at a city council organizational meeting here Tuesday.

Standing firm on viewpoints he has voiced many times in the past, Wolf said, "the state and federal governments are continually saying that they are giving local municipalities help in the form of aids. I say to them that they are only returning to the local citizens a very small portion which they initially took from them. . .after they have taken the large slice."

Wolf believes that the concept of "home rule that served so well in the past is still the answer, and the decisions should not originate in Madison or Washington. There is a negative image being created that is particularly unfortunate because it is completely unnecessary and superficial. Home rule can be flexible. . .adapted to today's needs. . .and can ride the crest of tomorrow."

Aggressive Steps

The city council was urged to take "aggressive, affirmative steps" to alert the public to Brillion's needs. The city needs "objectivity of purpose, and determination of proposed policy," he said.

The mayor stressed the need for a "successful growth of Brillion" through "striving for unity" and "decisions must represent the interests of the large segment of the city."

Wolf voiced optimism concerning Brillion's future industrial and community growth and then outlined his 1969 progress report, patterned largely after recommendations made during the year by the Citizens Advisory Committee.

The 12 goals are:

—Promote Brillion, and get more people to live here.

—Orderly annexations.

—Encourage housing development.

—Analyze commercial needs

Urban Renewal Funds

—Work on the planning application for urban renewal funds.

—Urge betterment of area existing highways and be active in the planning of the new Interstate highway.

—Intracity transportation.

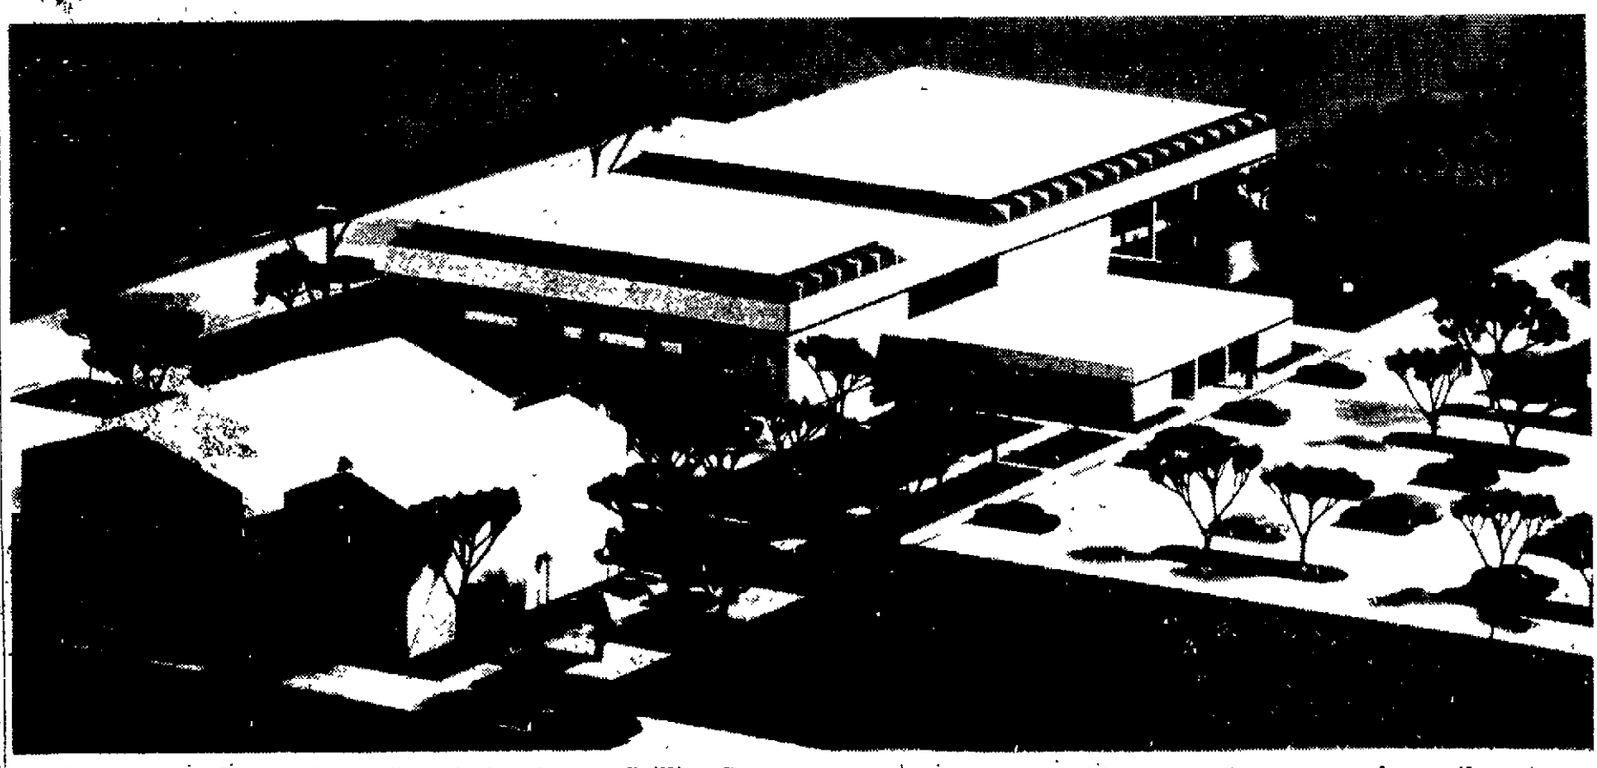

—Completion of the community building and swimming pool by spring of 1970.

—Seek a recreation director who will plan programs for all age groups.

—Brillion [illegible] project.

—Park [illegible] and construction of sewer, water, curb and gutter, sidewalks and streets.

Wolf praised city officials, citizens, industry and business, and local organizations for their cooperation and help during the year

This Is an Architect's Conception of what the new Brillion Community Center will look like when construction is completed. Ground breaking for the recreation complex, which will include an olympic pool in addition to meeting rooms and a youth center, are scheduled for April 24 at the Center Street site.

Hilbert Boy Scouting Award Winners Challenged to Lead

HILBERT — "Everyone is a 'copycat' in life. Young Scouts are going to copy you, and if scouting fails, it is going to be your fault." The Rev. John Schmitt offered this challenge to five members of Troop 79, when they received the Ad-Altare-Dei Catholic Scout award Sunday at St. Mary Church.

Father Schmitt noted that it was the first time in village history that the award had been given and that the five youths qualified through a year of church connected activities.

Receiving the awards were Michael Novak, Mark Mauthe, Ross Suttner, Patrick Gast and Paul Pethan.

The award, a gold cross with the words Ad-Altare-Dei, "I will go to the altar of God", was pinned on each boy's uniform by his mother during the 8 a.m. mass

Leadership Obligation

Father Schmitt said, "It is not only an honor, but an obligation to be a leader, to be admired and be worthwhile to copy." The pastor admonished the boys never to ridicule another religion. "Their members, too, will one day give an account of their stewardship. He challenged them, "to live, love, then others can love you."

William Steffens Kaukauna, representing the Fox Valley Boy Scout Council, addressed the boys during the mass saying, "I have faith in you today because you have leadership in this community and these boys have taken advantage of that leadership." He noted that the award is given for activiites outside of the scouting program.

After mass, the Scouts and their parents and friends were honored at a fellowship hour during which Scoutmaster Clem Palmbach paid tribute to Father Schmitt for encouraging the boys in their efforts.

Mrs. Donald Gast, mother of one of the Scouts, made a decorated cake in the form of the award for the special occasion.

Towns Might be Included

Waupaca Area Fund Drive to be Explored

WAUPACA — The need and desirability of a Waupaca area United Fund, to include the towns of Dayton, Farmington, Waupaca and Lind, will be explored at a special meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Waupaca Armory.

"Some elected town officials and a number of citizens have expressed the possibility of creating a larger fund raising organization and including in it some agencies which now conduct separate fund solicitations," Vern Hanke, president of the Waupaca United Fund, said Thursday.

"When our board of directors sat down to discuss this, it was pointed out that a mail campaign initiated in the Chain O' Lakes area several years ago has been increasingly successful," he added.

Services Reach Out

"This tells us that there are a number of residents in the immediate sphere of Waupaca who do feel that they are already a part of the local United Fund. That's as it should be, because the agencies within the United Fund do not restrict their services to residents of the City of Waupaca," he continued.

"We would like to extend agency service to reach every man, woman and child who desires it."

"The 1968 campaign for $11,000 to operate local agencies during 1969 did include support from a number of people outside the city," Dr Jack Brueckner, who heads the fund drive this fall for services in 1970, cited.

"There has been the history of this kind of sharing during the 10 years the "chest" has been in operation," Mel Mather, a charter board member, said. "Now let's get together and share and share alike."

The board of directors making a study for the proposed wide-area United Fund are Gene Spindt, Richard Penn, Ron Nelson and Dr. Brueckner.

Chilton Told Of Toll-Free Phone Plans

Telephone Company To Add Service With New Holstein

CHILTON — Toll-free telephone service between here and New Holstein is expected to be provided by March of 1970, according to Lowell Boehm, general manager of General Telephone Company, in his report to the Chamber of Commerce.

The firm expects to take a survey of Chilton and New Holstein areas next month to determine if this service is desired. The service would raise the residence phone rate 10 cents a month and the business phones 50 cents per month.

The directors went on record in favor of the service and urged Chilton citizens to vote for the toll-free service.

James Bloomer was elected a director to fill the vacancy on the board created by the resignation of James Davis, who has moved to Wheeling, Ill.

The annual scholarship banquet will be held at St. Martin's Lutheran Church on May 14, it was reported by John Suttner. William Hertel is banquet committee chairman.

Chamber president William Kartheiser was selected by the city council to serve as Chilton's civic representative on a committee which is fighting to have the new Milwaukee-Green Bay expressway located in this area.

Lorge Will Speak At New London Law Day Program

NEW LONDON — Washington Junior High School citizenship classes will observe "Law Day" May 1 at the school auditorium with a program "Legislative Function" presented by Sen. Gerald D. Lorge, Rep.-Bear Creek.

Previously tours were made to observe the assembly and Senate in sessions, however, class sizes and bus schedules do not permit such tours on a class basis.

Canners Limit Corn Contracts

Producers Seek Alternate Crops For Acreage Reduced Because of Bumper Crop Surplus Production

With warehouse still buldging with sweet corn, many Fox Valley area canning companies are cutting back the cash crop' acreage this year.

Reduction in the acreage firms will process range between 10 and 20 per cent.

Behind the cutback are bumper crops the past two years. "Nationwide we have about 10 million cases more of sweet corn than we should have," said Donald Bonk, head of the Chilton Canning Co.

The Chilton plant is cutting "about 20 per cent" in its acreage contracts because of the surpluses, Bonk said.

Eugene Appleton, manager of Stokley Van Camp, Inc., Appleton, said canning companies wound up with surpluses because of high yeilds. The company doesn't buy a specific tonnage. It contracts acreage and if yield is higher than anticipated, the surplus results.

Carl Hanamann, a filed man for the Fox Valley Canning Company, Hortonville, a subsidiary of Larsen Company, Green Bay, said the plant has cut contracts "about 10 per cent."

Because of the cut in sweet corn acreage, farmers who rely on cash crops are searching for alternates. And in some instances they are hampered because of chemical treatment for weed control carried out a year ago.

Triazine herbicides, used by many sweet corn growers, have left residues in some fields hindering production of alternates crops.

Herbicide Carryover

Dr. Homer M. LeBaron, of Geigy Chemical Corporation, said "prevention of reduction of carryover injury to sensitive rotational crops must be considered as a companion problem to weed control," when such herbicides are used.

Field corn would be an alternative since it could be grown on land treated with traizine.

Henry Malchow, Winnebago County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service agent, said many farmers with treated land might plant field corn.

Program Affected

However, production of feed corn would keep farmers from participating in federal feed grain corn diversion projects.

Malchow said farmers have agreed to divert corn and barley production on 14,373 acres from 834 farms in the county. He said participation in the program would have been 10 per cent higher if sweet corn crops had been contracted at a normal rate.

Winnebago County farmers could depress feed corn prices in the area because of excessive production, he said.

Little Storage

Many farmers geared to cash-crop production no longer raise dairy cattle and may lack proper machinery and storage areas for feed grain, he said.

Joe Reickert, Outagamie County ASCS agent, said Outagamie County feed grain sign-up programs have not been affected by the contract cut-back.

In the county 1,423 farms are committed to divert 20,193 acres from corn and barley production. Because of herbicide treated fields, "We may have more than usual dropping out of the program," said Reickert.

He said farmers using light applications of herbicide on fields may be able to grow snap beans and navy beans.

Acreage Diverted

"We anticipated greater diverted acreage," said Lowell Feathers, Waupaca County ASCS office manager. He said 11,117 farms are signed in

Project Chances Good

State Conservation Board May Okay Planning for Bear Creek Watershed

Chances are good that priority planning for the Bear Creek watershed will be approved Tuesday by the state soil conservation board.

Approval would provide federal funds for planning under Public Law 566 designed to aid flood control and water management.

After planning, the project will be placed on a priority list to await final federal approval and financing.

Public Law 566 provides funds for flood control construction and for 50 per cent of work funds aiding drainage, recreation, and fish and wildlife.

The soil conservation board has approved the watershed's preliminary application. The original proposal was signed by 16 landowners from an area about three miles northwest of Appleton.

The board considers watershed protection, such as streambank improvement and erosion control, and water management measures for farm use high on the list of priorities. Planning for recreation, fish and wildlife benefits, water storage also are considered.

An average of $1 million is spent annually in the state for such watershed projects.

The Bear Creek development would aid flood control and water management in 40,480 acres in Outagamie County. This includes 310 farms and 700 acres of residential development.

The communities of Greenville, Mackville, Center Valley, and Stephensville are in the watershed. Drainage is impaired in an estimated 22,800 acres.

Vern Geiger, Outagamie County soil conservationist, said an estimated 45 miles of channels in the area need improvement.

Broiler Council

Poultrymen Protest 'Skinless Chickendogs'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Broiler Council says the public and poultrymen alike will be skinned by an Agriculture Department proposal to permit sale of chickendogs, sausages with up to 15 per cent poultry content.

Charging discrimination and creating "an illusion," the poultry growers organ declared in a statement, "we believe that what's fair for the cow is fair for the chicken."

The regulation, scheduled to take effect 45 days from April 9, would permit hot dogs and other sausages to be called "all-meat," without other labelling, if they contain only "muscle tissue" from cattle, hogs, lambs chickens or turkeys.

That is where the discrimination comes in, the council charges, saying the government doesn't mean lean meat, otherwise why would they permit certain red meat items in an "all meat, frank having up to 70 per cent fat."

That part of the regulation, claims the council, would require removal of chicken skins, which when combined with chicken meat "enjoys widespread consumer favor."

Egg Yield to Stay Below Level of '68

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egg production is likely to continue below last year's levels through spring and early summer, but broiler output should remain above that of 1968, the Agriculture Department predicts.

Reflecting increased pullet starts in the last half of 1968, the laying flock started building up, the rate of increase slowed down in February and March. Late surveys indicate that enough pullets probably will be added in the next few months to bring the laying flock up to last year's number by late summer and to exceed 1968 levels in the fall.

Broiler meat output in the first three months of this year was more than six per cent above the 1968 first quarter. Volume through the summer is expected to remain well above year earlier marks.

Farmers Face Problem as Rendering Plant Closes

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — The Zimmerman Rendering Plant has closed posing problems for Calumet County farmers who must dispose of dead animals.

The plant was operated since 1940 by Arthur Zimmerman until his death. For the past 15 years William Kohl, Sheboygan, has managed the plant.

With the death of Zimmerman, the company no longer will operate, mainly due to inadequacies of the plant. Competition from larger plants in surrounding areas have made it difficult for the small businesses to survive.

Many local butchers have discontinued their own butchering because of new federal meat inspection laws which further limit the business of the Zimmermann plant.

The plant is located behind an old rock quarry south of Chilton. It was originally owned by Robert Kuehne of Seymour in 1920. A fire destroyed the building in the early 1930's. It was rebuilt by Kuehne and later sold to an Elmer Enz, Denmark, who operated the plant for about two years. Zimmerman took over the plant in 1940 and operated it until his death last year.

The plant employed about 10 people up until it was closed when just five employes remained. One of the oldest employes is Jim Cullen Jr., route 4, Chilton, who had been with the company for 19½ years.

With the closing of the plant, farmers were faced with the problem of disposing of their dead animals. According to law all dead animals must be disposed of within 24 hours from April through November and within 48 hours during December through March.

Zimmerman would pick up large dead animals. Smaller animals were accepted if the owners delivered them. The plant also serviced about 100 mink ranchers in the area.

Local mink ranchers will still pick up some dead animals but will not accept them if they have had medication.

The Green Bay Soap Company will take over disposal of animals for farms in the area covered by the Zimmerman plant, according to Edward Meyer Jr., general manager of the firm.

Meyer said the firm will probably provide service to farmers in "all of the county."

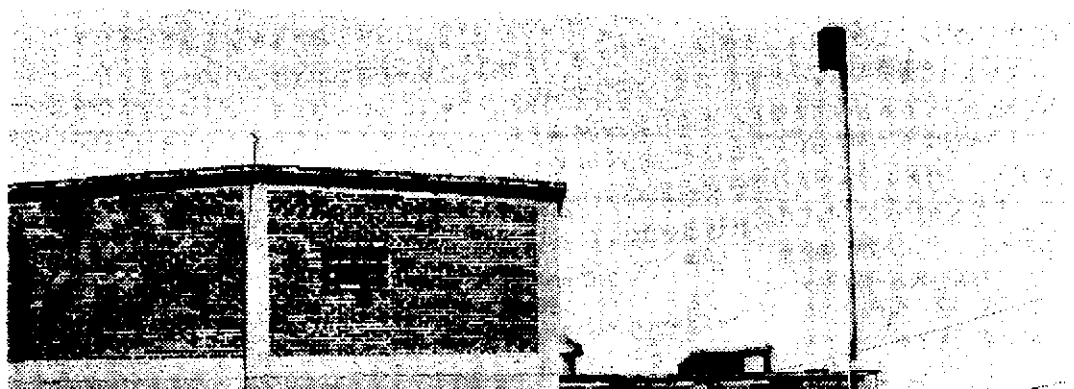

Donald Liebmann, manager of the Wisconsin Rendering Plant, Appleton, said the company has all the business "we can handle" and will probably limit Calumet County operations.

Jim Cullens, will work for the Green Bay company and will pick up the dead animals in the areas if notified at his home in Hayton.

The Green Bay plant is a $3 million dollar operation and operate 24 hours a day. It handles about 30,000 pounds of butcher scraps and animal scraps per hour. They export much of the fat by-product. They also manufacture the pulp from the animals for commercial feed.

Hides are sold to tanneries but that market is limited due to the many synthetics on the market.

Disposition of the Chilton plant, which processed 3,500 carcasses of calves, pigs and cows annually, has not been determined.

Closing of the Zimmerman Rendering Company, Chilton, has posed problems for Calumet County Farmers who must dispose of dead animals. A Green Bay firm is seeking to extend its operations into the area to service the farmers. The fate of the Zimmerman Company building is undecided. (Connors Photo)

Spring Is the Season To Prune Apple Trees

BY V. W. PEROUTKY
Winnebago Agricultural Agent

OSHKOSH — Now is a good time to start pruning apple trees.

Pruning is best done before buds break, but can be done any time. Cuts of over an inch or so in diameter should be covered with a dressing compound available at most garden centers. House paint can be used as a substitute for dressing compound.

Four steps to apple tree pruning are; first, cut off water sprouts and suckers from the trunk and lower limbs, leave only those which are to remain for a future limb, then remove all dead, weak or crossing limbs, leave no stubs. Next take out limbs which go downward. Such limbs reflect weakness and little if any fruiting. Where a tree is too high for convenient spraying and picking, select one or two tallest limbs, make a smooth cut at an angle, remove where they originate, most likely in the crown of the tree, leave no stub, put on the dressing compound.

If you remove a large limb or two, eliminate other pruning.

Growing the Dawn Redwood tree may be an interesting experiment. The Forest Research Station, Washington, D.C., planted Redwood seed from California 25 years ago. The natural Redwood forests are west of the Rockies, in California and presumably some grow along the Pacific coast in Canada.

Richard Ruthven, Neenah, has said he may plant one. A seedling may have more opportunity to adjust itself than would a larger tree.

Most local nurseries can provide homeowners in suburban or shoreland areas with windbreak as well as gamefood plantings. These plantings, of 25 to 50 in number would be bare root nursery stock; trees would be a foot to two feet tall.

The shrub and tree packet, available through our office, is only for field planting, an off road ditchbank, woodlot boundary, or a back corner in a field.

Calumet Panel Examines Use Of Food Stamps

County May Start Federal Program For Needy Families

The Calumet County Technical Action Panel is considering feasibility of a federal Food Stamp Program in the county.

Calumet county now is one of four state counties which do not participate in food programs.

There are two basic federal food programs. One is the Food Stamp Program and the other the Surplus Commodity Program.

In the Food Stamp Program, a needy person or family buys stamps to be used to purchase food produced in the United States Stamps may not be used to buy pet food, tobacco or alcoholic beverages. Purchases are made at local retail food dealers who have been authorized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture Consumer and Marketing Service

The amount of food obtained with stamps exceeds normal payment for food.

The program is a joint effort of the State Department of Health and Social Services and the United States Department of Agriculture Its basic purposes are to help low-income families get more food and a better diet for better health; and to make better and greater use of agricultural abundance.

Florence Woelfel, director of the Calumet County Department of Social Services feels that the program has a place in Calumet County The eligibility to buy food stamps would be determined by her office primarily at state expense

Technical Action Panel members are Bruno Zucho Zucollo, soil conservationist; Armin Schwalenberg, manager of federal farm programs; and Orrin Meyer, county agricultural agent.

Beautification Is Planned for the river bank north of the Lawe Street Bridge in Kaukauna. Part of the river bank has been filled and partially seeded with help of the Kaukauna Jaycees. Labeling May Be Life Saving

State Act Requires Caution Notices on Household Chemicals

Warning labels may save your life

Label such as "Danger," "Caution," "Warning," "Keep Out of Reach of Children," "Extremely Flammable," "Keep Away From Camp Fire," and "Vapors Harmful," can prevent a serious accident according to Charles Ahlgrim, administrative assistant of the state Department of Agriculture Food Division.

According to Ahlgrim, the Hazardous Substance Labeling Act, Administered by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, requires appropriate labeling of substances which may be injurious because of toxic or other harmful properties.

Cautionary labeling is designed to alert buyers and parents to the fact that some useful household products can cause substantial personal injury if improperly used.

In pointing out the dangers of hazardous substances, Ahlgrim states that color, curiosity and harmful chemicals can be a dangerous combination for children. The colorful packages and attractive household items, so often taken for granted by the adult world, often prove irresistible to young children and could lead to a family tragedy.

Beetles Carry Fungus

Farmers Can Help Curb Elm Disease in Cities

Farmers and other persons living in rural areas can do a lot to help control the spread of Dutch elm disease in cities and towns.

Gayle Worf, University Extension plant pathologist, urges rural residents to cut down dead or dying elm trees. Dead trees or branches should be burned completely, buried under a foot of soil or ground into wood chips. He explains that elm bark beetles which spread the disease fungus find diseased trees attractive homes.

Destroying the trees destroys the disease-carrying beetles and makes control more effective in urban areas. Root graft barriers are not normally used to control the disease in the open country.

While destroying trees in the rural areas can greatly aid control in the cities, there also are benefits for the rural property owner. Diseased elms become brittle and may cause damage or injury to people, animals or nearby buildings. The appearance of the countryside is also improved.

Worf says the disease is now most widespread in the southern half of the state, but it is making inroads into the remaining elm populations of the north.

DDT is no longer recommended as a control for elm bark beetles, says Worf. However, communities not surrounded by infected elms can maintain fairly effective control by promptly removing and destroying dead and dying elms, using root graft barriers, and making sure all elm firewood is burned before early spring.

UW Discovery

Soil Molds Can Destroy Larvae of Mosquitos

University of Wisconsin scientists have found a group of molds in the soil that have the ability to kill mosquito larvae.

The research was done by bacteriologist V. K. Shah, entomologist Fumio Matsumura and the late Stanley G. Knight, a bacteriologist. The toxic material is from 24 soil samples and is effective in killing the larvae of the yellow fever mosquito. Aedes aeqypti. A preliminary test showed that one of the toxins killed 93 per cent of the larvae in two hours and 100 per cent in 24 hours using one per cent of the solution. Some of the materials do not kill the larvae but have an inhibiting effect on their growth.

One side discovery was a material that stimulated growth rather than having a killing effect on the larvae. The scientists do not know if this is a new growth hormone or not.

The two most potent substances from the fungus cultures have been identified as coming from the fungus Aspergillus niger. These are common soil molds and relatives of bread mold Toxins of low potency will probably be eliminated, but the two most potent ones are being studied further to identify their character and to find out more about their properties and toxicity toward other ecosystems.

Production of the toxic material from the mold is rather critical. The scientists found that none of the toxic material was produced until three days after incubation, and the maximum amount was produced by the sixth day. Further incubation lowered the yield of the toxin.

The Joint Finance Committee Budget Cuts

As the Legislature's joint finance committee wields its ax on the state budget, there is a numbing feeling that it is chopping off state services indiscriminately.

Like the man who cut off his leg to lose weight.

Admittedly, the state budget must be reduced. Taxpayers have given ample proof that they will not stand the weight of the full tax increase proposed by Governor Knowles.

Unfortunately though, reducing the budget, like reducing the man, ought to be a patient, laborious chore.

The most clumsy practitioners on the powerful committee seem to go about their work with a cynical glee. Some of their statements over the past several weeks have been snide and sanguinary. Meanwhile, the majority of the members show an honest desire to cope with the problem in a more logical way.

Their logic leaves them, however, when they single out for amputation the new and improved services in the state budget.

It takes severe cutting in this area to offset the amorphous growth of costs required to sustain the existing bulk of state services.

By the joint finance committee's philosophy, nearly all of the newest and most creative efforts of state government to respond to a fast changing society are mutilated. And the programs of the past grow more corpulent through inattention.

Perhaps the governor himself in his budget message set the legislative committee off on its unfortunate bent by emphasizing the overbearing burden of "built-in costs" to maintain present state services, and minimizing the new ones.

It is the responsibility first of the governor, and second of the Legislature to carefully probe the massive state bureaucracy, paring out its nonproductive parts and making room in the budget for productive new ideas.

If such discriminating surgery on the budget is held to be politically unwise by the governor and the lawmakers, then state government will not be lithe enough to respond to the many challenges that face it.

'Why Aren't We Exposing Obscenity Like All the Other Magazines?'

The Communists Prepare to Gather

Nikita Khrushchev's dream of a conference of world Communist parties, which he first proposed back in 1964, actually may convene next June in Moscow. But there is little evidence that it will accomplish the purpose of the Soviets — to read Peking out of the party and to condemn the Chinese heresy.

Rumania in particular has refused to go along with the Russian denunciations of China and trade between China and many Eastern European nations has been increasing every year. Since the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia last August, many Eastern Europeans have expressed alarm and dissent over the action and the Soviet interpretation of "limited sovereignty." Political relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union are almost as low as when Tito broke with Stalin and successfully defied the Kremlin to do anything about it. The Russians recently have been stirring up Bulgarian claims to part of Yugoslavia which have not improved things much or cooled tempers and fears. The Russian press continues to berate Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania while a Yugoslavian leader was quoted as saying that "we see the Russian leadership as weak and divided and hence liable to irrationality. Such a situation would be bad enough in a small power, but in a superpower it is dangerous for everyone."

Other Communist parties in countries not controlled by them have been vehement in opposing the Russian action in Czechoslovakia. It seems hardly likely they will be very enthusiastic about denouncing Peking. At the 50th anniversary celebration of the Communist International, no mention was made of China — and the only leading European Communist party leader to show up was East Germany's Walter Ulbricht who depends heavily upon the Russians for his position of power.

It could be that the June conference, even though held behind closed doors and reported only by the Communist press, could reveal the splits among Communists that would be more damaging to the ideology than even the Chinese defection.

The Start of Something Big?

Approval has been general for a "Teen-Age Crusade for Decency in Entertainment" which recently drew 30,000 young and old people to a rally in Miami's Orange Bowl Stadium. Reacting to an alleged act of indecent exposure at a concert last month, teens organizing the rally included talks on God, parents, patriotism, brotherhood and sex on the program to show their ideals of decency.

It is noteworthy that youth initiated the effort. Young people have been criticized for rejecting the hypocrisy of the adult world but in effect falling prey to the same hypocrisy by having nothing better to offer. It is easy to criticize, but to sweat out an alternative and then run the risk of having that alternative fail takes maturity. The rally was a start in this direction. But we must ask, what happens now?

If the "Crusade" becomes a one-shot effort against a trend in entertainment to which teens object, then they have in effect forfeited their right to protest such indecency. Words are plentiful and easy; actions all too often are few and very hard. Attending a rally is a rather easy way of standing up for what one believes. Using one's economic power to boycott indecent entertainment — even when many other teens are being part of the crowd and supporting such entertainment — is the start of a different story.

The rally at Miami reminds us in some ways of a political convention. Many fine-sounding things were said and undoubtedly meant, but whether they have any effect will depend on how much young people are willing to risk for their beliefs. That risk will include the chance of failure, the chance of ridicule, the chance of a collapsed dream. But if teen-agers are to become mature men and women, they must start to take risks — for good.

Shell Spirals Reveal Our Past

There have been suggestions, most notably from Colonel Bernt Balchen, a pilot especially interested in the Arctic, that a new ice age may be on the way. Colonel Balchen bases the belief on what he feels to be the thinning of the Polar ice cap and the possibility that it might disappear. The subsequent moist winds would mean heavy snowfalls in the north and the development of ice sheets.

But the theory is disputed by Dr. David Clark of the University of Wisconsin and his main evidence comes from a tiny shelled creature, Globigerina pachyderma.

A peculiarity in Globigerina's development is that in very cold water the shell spirals to the left while in slightly warmer water it spirals to the right. If during the recurrent ice ages, the Arctic Ocean became open and therefore warmer, there should have been deposits of right spiralling shells in the sediment from those eras. Dr. Clark examined sediment dating back as far as 4 million years and his conclusion was that the ocean had been covered with ice for at least 1.5 million years. Some of the shells did show slightly less leaning to the left so the water might have been just a little bit warmer. The sediment tested also was comparatively light in shells, sand and other coarse materials which scientists believe would have been deposited if there had been open water and ice sheets melting in the areas.

There is a fascination to such studies. Merely by the spiral of a tiny shell can secrets of prehistorical eras be revealed.

Heaviest thunder storm of the season last Sunday night, accompanied with much rain.

If we lived on Appleton Street, we should start a subscription to have the Baptist Church (on its present site) and the Episcopal Church (on present site of Bohl and Maeser's Shoe Store) painted. They look very shabby.

Thoughts About Harvard

College Dissenters Afraid of Life; Want to Live in Anarchy

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The college hippies who took over the Harvard Yard are, by and large, an arrogant crowd. They seem to regard youth itself as some kind of an achievement, something of which they can be proud and should be praised.

Here and elsewhere, look at our youth in their uniform of conformity following a life of drift and words. What can you feel, except pity? Surely, nobody with any experience in life could feel anything else for such waste, for such tragic blindness to the only values in life that can conceivably bring happiness, security and any real sense of contribution.

They say that "bad laws" ought to be broken and that the violator should decide which laws are bad. They even expect you to take such convenient nonsense seriously. Is the dissenting youth or any other citizen who wants to call a law unjust or immoral entitled to live by his own view? If so, by what authority? The name of this, of course, is anarchy.

They show no conscience when it comes to clubbing policemen, throwing urine bags at the dean or president, destroying property and imposing by violence anti-academic conditions on our universities. Yet they talk about being "an aristocracy of conscience" (whatever that means) and about the autonomy of the individual.

Throughout all time there have been people who serve their own convenience, or cowardice, or selfishness, or something by dressing up these shabby weaknesses in the clothes of a higher cause. Yet it should be obvious that no democratic society can accommodate such claims and no other society would care enough about the rights of a nonconformist to consider it.

What a really fraudulent bunch of so-called thinkers they are — and so are their buddy-buddy professors who join them.

They talk about our country as if this greatest nation in the world were a substandard orphanage. Being sick themselves, their premise is that American society is sick to the core. What core? They are the core of nothing. Their essential immaturity shows up on all sides. I do not know what goes on in their heads, but certainly it is not thinking.

They are merely being used by those whose program is not to compose but to annihilate; not to reconcile but to crush; not to build but to destroy.

REDS WOULD SHOOT THEM

This column mentioned not long ago seeing a militant clique at the University of Miami which, borrowing the vicious nonsense from the degenerate Zero Dimension Group in Japan, boasted that it can reach the true nature of things through pornography. Nearly all these destroyers were on the campus at the taxpayers' expense. Don't the university authorities have some duty to throw them out?

At Berkeley, California, I saw the "soul" brothers of these Harvard Yard and Miami hippies run up the flags of the Soviet Union, Castro's Cuba, Red China and North Vietnam. What nation is it that is protecting them? Under the flags of those nations they would be shot dead, and on the spot.

You always have more respect for the other fellow once you have tried to do his job. Whose job have they tried to do? Mere complaining is the world's greatest unskilled occupation. The reaction is inescapable; deep in their hearts they're really afraid — afraid — to compete. They're afraid to compete in life; they're even afraid to compete in college. Have you noticed how few go out for any kind of competitive athletics?

What they should be taught to remember about education and its institutions in general is the primary meaning of the word "education." It is "to draw out." A fundamental principle of education should be to teach the meaning of excellence, the first-rate; to instruct the student that it is his business to learn what is first rate and pursue it — not only in the job or profession by which he earns his living but in all the great fields of life and, above all, in living.

It is hard to tell who is more to blame for this mess in Harvard Yard and elsewhere —the tragic students' or their twisted buddy-buddy faculty members who are failing to teach them to think.

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — The courting couple left their old age home to seek permission of the bride's mother for their marriage. Mrs. J. Blake, 101, agreed that her daughter, Mrs. Susan van Reenen, 72, should marry Gysbert Kloppers, 71.

"We have not set a date for our marriage, but we felt it would be the right thing to get my future mother-in-law's blessing," said Kloppers.

Both have been married before and have 35 grandchildren between them.

Budget Hearings at Madison Aren't as Serious as They Seem

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — There is an atmosphere of panic and bitterness and recrimination in the budget deliberations at the Capitol that subsequent events will almost surely show was not justified.

The climate of desperation is being created in part by the media and especially those with statehouse representatives whose acquaintance with the legislative appropriation process is limited.

Hence the editorial style of some of the dispatches about what the legislative finance committee has "chopped" or "hacked" or "slashed" from "the budget."

The committee has, indeed, somethimes shown an appearance of casualness, almost of glee, as if it were spanking a delinquent group of boys sent before it for discipline. Sometimes it has shown an undignified anger. Yet it is entitled to an accurate representation of its views and its acts, and it has not been getting it.

TRYING TO HOLD LINE

First is the carelessness in the use of language in many of the news accounts. The committee is dealing with budget "requests." But it is almost invariably described as "cutting the budget." With only a few exceptions, it is trying to hold the line on public expenditures.

It is being pictured as harsh and unfeeling and worse. Yet it is probably doing its pruning with the same motives that the administrators had when they presented their requests. It is asking for steeper reductions in proposed spending than it probably hopes to achieve. It believes that through such tactics it can achieve some slowdown in the fast-rising curve of public costs, even as the department chiefs in the first instance asked for more than they knew they would get, in the hope that they could settle for something approximating what they wanted.

The higher education budget who works in higher education is one example. Everybody will get more pay. There will be some expansion of services, although perhaps not as generous as has become the custom during the budget deliberations of the last decade.

CATCH $80 MILLION ERROR

In some instances, perhaps, the indignation of the committee members has some justification, considered from the neutral sidelines. How could an error of some $80 millions in the school aid budget request be justified under any circumstances? What would happen to the finance officer of a branch office of a comparably large corporation if such a miscalculation had been found in his operating funds proposal? Budget making in a private corporation may be a useful comparison, in fact.

It is true that the objective of the corporation is profit for its stockholders. The objective of the state is the social welfare of its citizens.

But in each case a division chief is not given the right to make the decisions. That is left to the board of directors, and in the state government the directors are the legislators.

RESPECTIVE DUTIES CITED

Gov. Knowles, as he has talked with friends and associates recently, recognizes the division of authority. The law gives him the responsibility of presenting a budget — a law, incidentally, that was written by the legislature. But the final power of taxation of the people reposes in the legislative branch. When it is wrong, the people can respond at the polls.

Some critics claim that the present finance committee is not representative, that it is more conservative than the state it represents. If so, the legislature can demonstrate the fact by amending the finance committee's recommendations and almost surely will do so in some respects.

On some topics the committee has comported itself as an Indian giver, in the old fashioned slang.

An example is the authorization of new institutions by a preceding legislature — containing many of the same men who are sitting today — and the refusal to fund them for their intended service by the present committee. Of all the positions taken by this controversial group thiis is perhaps the least likely to stand up when the general appropriation bill some months hence is finally acted upon.

True 'Power' Requires Ability to Alter Course

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Most of us, when we think at all about "power," think about it the way a child does. To a child, "power" consists in having your own way, or in getting whatever you want when you want it.

But this is a very shallow and unsophisticated way of looking at it. Unfortunately, many adults in positions of both private and public authority continue to regard power in the same false light.

The ability to get what you want when you want it is part of the pathology of power, not of its normal nature. The essential character of true power is the ability to reach a particular goal, as Dr. Karl Deutsch points out, "with the least loss of ability to choose a different behavior or to seek a different goal."

Once we begin to understand this, our whole concept of "power" undergoes a maturing and vitalizing change. For instance, let us look at the most dramatic exhibition of power in the 20th Century — the rise of Naziism and Hitler's increasing power in the decade following 1933, which threatened to engulf all Europe.

Actually, Naziism was doomed because once it had started on its path, there was not turning back, no way to go but more conquest and invasion, more militarization and oppression.

The path that Hitler deliberately chose was one that relinquished the ability to choose a different behavior or seek a different goal. He was relentlessly driven by the dynamics of his own policy, and became in a real sense impotent to change either his direction or his aims, even after his general staff knew that the Nazi adventure could only end badly.

Biological systems are the same as social systems. The dinosaur was the most "powerful" beast on Earth, but it could not adapt its behavior to changing conditions, and so its very strength condemned it to extinction, like a runaway locomotive that can only continue on the same track until it smashes up of its own heedless velocity.

True "power," then, must include a large element of flexibility. It must leave many options open, it must be willing to compromise, to adjust, even to defelct its aim of getting what it wants is not the best thing for it at the time. In this extended sense, "power" is appetite controlled by will, and will directed by reason.

When we lose our ability to choose a different behavior, we are then powerless — like the madman who can only go on from one killing to another, or the nation from one conquest to another. Only those free enough to change are powerful enough to achieve what is best for them.

Forestry Camp Planned for 20 State Youths

Trees for Tomorrow Workshop Includes Lectures, Field Trips

Twenty high school boys in Wisconsin will be able to view the training and work of professional foresters at a two-week Forestry Career Workshop to be Aug. 10-23, according to Gordon Cunningham, University Extension forester.

The workshop will be held at Trees for Tomorrow Camp near Eagle River.

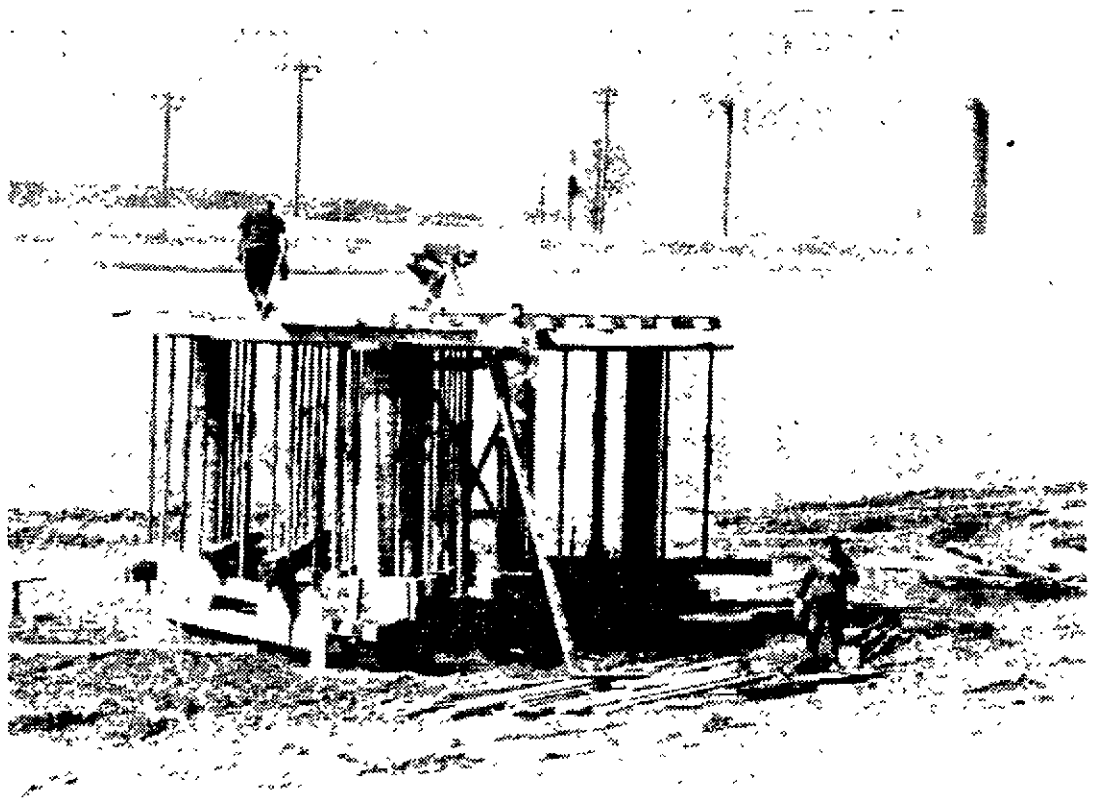

Participants in the workshop will hear specialists lecture and demonstrate on the science and management of forest resources and interrelations of forests, soil, water and wildlife. The Wisconsin participants will be joined by high school boys from Michigan and Minnesota.

According to Cunningham, the workshop should be meaningful for boys who are seriously considering a career in forestry. Applicants must have completed their junior year, and should rank in the upper 25 per cent of the junior class.

Scholarships are available to cover part of participants expenses, according to Cunningham.

The workshop is sponsored by the University of Michigan School of Natural Resources, Uninversity of Minnesota School of Forestry, the University of Wisconsin School of Natural Resources, and Trees for Tomorrow, Inc., Merrill, Wis.

More information is available from Cunningham at the Department of Forestry, Russell Laboratories, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

Costs Reduced

Members of Midwest Breeders View Benefits of Minnesota Plant

SHAWANO — A new $400,000 Midwest Breeders artificial insemination center was described Saturday at the cooperatives annual meeting.

Leonard Peck, cooperation president, said the Stewartville-Rochester plant "will reduce distribution costs and provide facilities for expanding sire proving programs."

The facility was completed in October. It includes a 276 by 74 foot sire barn capable of housing 100 sires.

Center Purpose

The center replaces more limited facilities at Anoka, Minn., which were being affected by suburban expansion in the Minneapolis, St. Paul, area.

Peck said the facility will "develop among members a strong sense of member-owner-user conscientiousness and support."

The cooperative has 40,000 members. Most products and services are provided in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, and Missouri.

Effect Traumatic

Kenneth E. Wallin, manager of the cooperative said recent declines in dairy cattle population have "had a traumatic effect upon the cattle breeding industry and individual businesses."

He said the cooperative, in Minnesota and Wisconsin, is in an area "where animal agriculture is of highly significant economic importance." Growth in numbers of other livestock provides areas for possible future development of the cooperative, he said.

Wallin said a realignment of cooperative systems will allow distribution to Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri from the new plant.

The plant here will distribute to Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. Administrative management and data processing equipmet facilities also are at Shawano.

Organizations Decline

Wallin said the number of organizations offering stud services has declined from 96 to 32 since 1953. He said the decline was caused by "failures, mergers, consolidations and acquisitions."

Kenneth Skogg, Randall, Minn., was elected to the regional director's board to succeed Allen Rice, Frazee, Minn., as region 6 director.

Okay Sought For Watershed At Black Creek

Fox Valley farmers, town supervisors, agriculture, forestry and game management agents and representatives from the Fox Valley Council of Government and Northwest Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission examined watershed problems in a two-day tour during July, 1968.

The study revealed problems including present outlets which are to shallow to permit proper drainage. Fields in the area need tiling and drainage outlets. Crop production is limited severely by flooding, Geiger said.

Roads have been eroded and damaged each year by flooding where outlets are inadequate to handle spring run-off according to the men.

An increasing number of homes in the area, built on poorly drained soils, contribute to pollution. The Appleton city dump, located on the east end of the watershed, is believed to contribute to pollution.

About 550 acres of woodland are affected and trees are dying in the Town of Greenville swamp. Fish carried onto fields by floods die as waters recede said Geiger.

The plan involves not only drainage but improved water management in the area. Stream development could increase recreational facilities in the area said Geiger.

Better outlets would assist in establishment of effective sanitary and water systems for urban parts of the watershed. Wildlife areas and pollution abatement would be provided.

Improvement was attempted by joint action of landowners through a court-administered legal watershed drainage but failed because of high expense for acreage involved.

C. J. Barber, watershed engineer for the soil conservation board at the University of Wisconsin, said the study will include "not only the area that's being flooded but the area which needs to be protected against drainage."

Geiger said during the plan should include improvement of tributaries as well as the main channel to produce workable results.

Barber said drainage adjacent to a main channel is usually easy to achieve but drainage from tributaries is a more difficult task.

Food Stamp Program Aids 89,000 Needy Persons in Wisconsin

More than 89,000 low-income persons in Wisconsin received food assistance from the U. S. Department of Agriculture during February, according to Dennis M. Doyle, Midwest district director of Consumer Food Programs.

The total included 45,180 persons in 48 Commodity Distribution Program projects and 44,186 in 33 Food Stamp Program areas. New food stamp areas include Iowa, LaCrosse and Marquette counties.

Wisconsin participants in the stamp plan received about $797,000 worth of coupons during February of which about $267,000 were bonus coupons. The average bonus per person was $6.03.

'Deals' Promoted

State Investigates Sales of Franchises

Sales of franchises and distributorships in Wisconsin are presently under investigation, the trade Division of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture says.

Trade division investigators say "fabulous" business opportunities are being promoted and offered to anyone who can pay the price. Investments are going as high as $20,000.

According to investigators, prospects are led to believe they have an unlimited opportunity to earn commissions on product sales, plus commissions on product sales of sub-dealers. Investors also are told it is a simple matter to get others interested in buying a distributorship, the sale of which might provide additional cash by means of a finder's fee.

C. L. Jackson, Trade Division administrator, says prospective buyers of franchises or distributorships should question the products real sales potential to consumers. Those buying distributorships could end up with a wholesale quantity of unsold merchandise. "The real danger of some plans," Jackson warns, "is that more emphasis is placed on sales of distributorships rather than sales of product."

Jackson also suggested prospective buyers examine if the product sell in the area. The number of distributorships are being sold in the area; ability to sell the product and advertising provided also should be examined. If a prospect does not obtain satisfactory answers he should go slow in investing says Jackson.

"Persons having questions concerning the purchase of a franchise or distributorship should contact a better business bureau, chamber of commerce or the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture in Madison," he said.

Present investigations by the trade division will help ascertain whether certain franchise and distributorship sales are in violation of present law or are unfair trade practices which should be regulated by the enactment of new state regulations.

Sales Double

Vegetable Raising Can be Profitable if Well-Managed

STEVENS POINT — Vegetable production can be a profitable investment for Wisconsin farmers if good management practices are followed.

University Extension horticulturist John A. Schoenemann explained why to participants here Tuesday at the Agricultural Credit Conference sponsored by the Wisconsin Bankers Association Total sales of vegetables in Wisconsin more than doubled from $40 million in 1955 to over $81 million in 1967. Today, most vegetables are grown in the central, southeastern, northwest and the northeastern regions of the state.

Expanded Industry

The impetus for an expanded vegetable crop sector came from two developments, said Schoenemann. One is our continuously improving varieties and farm technology. The other is a steady increase in population, so that more vegetable crops are sold particularly for canning and frozen processing.

The snap bean industry has benefited greatly from the development of the mechanical snap bean harvester and improvements in varieties and cultural practices. This has resulted in concentration of acreage, larger production units and fewer individual producers, Schoenemann said. Snap bean production in the state now is about five times larger than it was in 1955

On a dollar volume basis, potatoes are the most important single vegetable crop in Wisconsin, said Schoenemann. This is mainly due to the increased demand for Russet Burbank potatoes and high quality varieties for processing Potato production sold nationally for processing approaches 50 per cent of the total crop Because of the increased demand, Wisconsin needs to strengthen its position in potato processing, said Schoenemann.

Position Improved

In snap bean production, Wisconsin has considerably improved its competitive position among the nation's leading states. This has been due largely to high yields, lower per unit costs, efficient management, and product quality, Schoenemann said.

Trends strongly indicate a most promising future of vegetable production. Changes in the market sector and in the processing industry will help make vegetable growing a profitable venture.

Population increases and urbanization will boost demands for vegetables and other food crops. It is also very likely that processing facilities for major vegetables will increase. Schoenemann said

Cash Crops

At present, most of the peas and sweet corn for processing are raised mainly on livestock and dairy farms as cash crops. In a few years, production of much of these crops for processing will probably move to more specialized vegetable farms, said Schoenemann.

Furthermore, increased specialization in vegetable growing will enable general yield increases, improved production efficiency, and fewer individual producers.

As a result, financial decision-making and investment per farm enterprise will become more crucial in the years ahead Schoenemann said.

Turkey Crop Hits 10-Year Low in 1968

Both production and value of Wisconsin's 1968 turkey crop were the lowest since 1958, the Wisconsin Statistical Reporting Service reports.

Turkey production was 3,997,000 birds in 1968, 21 per cent below 1967 Prices to producers averaged 20.1 cents per pound, slightly more than in 1967, but the 1968 turkey crop of $14,361,000 was 15 per cent below 1967.

Wisconsin turkey production has dropped sharply from the all-time high recorded in 1961 That year 6,220,000 turkeys were raised valued at $16,505,000. Prices to farmers that year averaged 1½ cents per pound less than in 1968

Turkey production is expected to decline further this year, with early reports indicating that farmers intend to raise 10 per cent fewer birds than in 1968 Growers intend to reduce production of both light and heavy breed birds.

Nationally, turkey growers raised 15 per cent fewer birds in 1968 than in the previous year, but indicated a production increase of 3 per cent early this year.

Elderberry Bushes Can Provide Useful Fruit

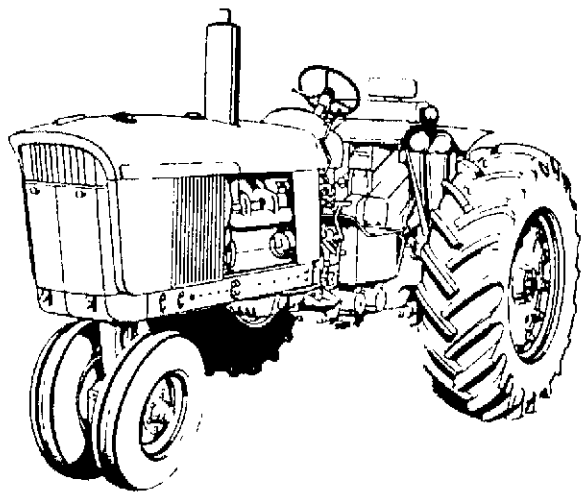

If you'd like to plant something different both from the standpoint of landscape as well as for food, what about elderberries?

We have two main types — the common and the redberried elder. The redberried blooms quire early and are not edible. The common elder blooms in early summer. It has white blossoms which turn to clusters or edible blue or purple berries

Berries are a good fruit, and good in juice and pies. Both the blossoms and berries have been used for making wine.

Four hybrid varieties are best suited here. They are Adams, Adams No. 2, Johns and New York 21 each grows to about five or six feet tall.

Picture Taking Okayed for PTA

A longstanding Appleton Board of Education position of opposing a picture-taking program in the schools was reversed this week.

The board agreed to let the Appleton Citywide PTA handle a picture program within the schools on two conditions—the teachers not be involved and no undue pressure be put on parents to buy the pictures.

It was these two objections that caused the board to reject a proposal made a year ago by George Miotke, Citywide PTA president. His revised proposal was acceptable.

Not Board Sponsored

Charles Buchanan, board president, noted it was hoped this would not be construed as a board-sponsored function, since the board was only allowing the PTA to use school buildings to take the photos.

The board appeared still reluctant until Kenneth Sager, board vice president, noted that Miotke's plan had apparently met the board's past objections. "W eexpect support from the PTA; maybe we ought to support them," he said.

Miotke assured the program would be handled "exclusively through the PTA organizations," including setting up the pictures and money collection.

Parental Favor

He said parents overwhelmingly favor the program.

As Miotke explained it, the PTA will send home sheets with the youngsters explaining the program. The PTA will prevent any financial hardship on parents, he said.

In other business, the board agreed to allow 24 Xavier High School boys to attend certain industrial arts courses in the two high schools. The request came from Xavier principal Brother Paul Ostendorf.

The 16 seniors and eight juniors will be transported by Xavier and retain Xavier High status.

Earlier Approval

The board some time ago had approved in principal allowing Xavier students this privilege and only directed the administration to complete arrangements with Xavier.

The board also:

—Approved a study of the junior high interscholastic athletic program which board member Ronald Roberts said is not up to par. He urged that William Pickett, director of physical education, head the study, with former coaches, Ade Dillon and Claude Radtke, on the committee.

He suggested the junior high program is not coordinated adequately with the senior high program to provide continuity and top efficiency. He also questioned policy of not using the best performing junior high boys, particularly ninth graders, in senior high competition.

Girls' Athletics

Roberts noted that interscholastic girls athletics also is on the rise and should be considered here.

—Approved the $1,721 bid of Gibson Co. Inc., Appleton for a vanett-type school bus for the McKinley Elementary School orthopedic pupils.

—Authorized Buchanan to meet with City Finance Director David Champion and the city council's finance committee to revise and simplify the board of education's budget. Buchanan said the present budget "is 10 times as long as the budget of the average city in our state."

Propose Hiking Mobile Home Fees

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — There are probably about 26,000 mobile homes in the state, says the State Department of Transportation in an advisory fiscal note to the legislature on a bill that would increase the highway registration fees for such homes.

The bill would increase the mobile homes fees payable to the state from $5 to $10 and from $10 to $20, according to their length, and would also authorize local units of government to replace the "parking fees" they are now permitted to levy upon mobile home parks with the regular property tax levied in the community.

Failure to Use Safety Gear Would be Factor In Awards for Injuries

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A legislative bill by Sen. Raymond Heinzen of Marshfield would appeal to the financial interest of automobile and motorcycle drivers and riders to persuade them to use safety belts and safety helmets while driving or riding.

The bill would provide that failure to use such equipment, when it is available to the driver or rider, would be taken into account in the determination of damages in any civil action arising out of an accident in this state.

Branding of Anti-Freeze Solutions Being Urged

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The branding of anti-freeze solutions used in the cooling systems of internal combustion engines to prevent the freezing of the cooling liquids is proposed in a bill introduced into the legislature at the request of Gov. Knowles. The bill would require manufacturers of such solutions to comply with the hazardous substances labeling provisions already contained in state law.

Panel Opposes Plan To Exempt Used Cars From State Sales Tax

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature's joint survey committee on tax exemptions has filed an adverse report on a bill proposing to remove used motor vehicles from the list of articles taxed under the state's 3 per cent sales tax law.

Such a measure, if written into law, would cost the state nearly $8 million a year, which would require the enactment of replacement revenue laws, as it noted that the measure does not provide for a substitute revenue source, the committee said.

To Show Inadequacies

LWV Planning Tours Of Outagamie's Jail

To show citizens the inadequate facilities of the Outagamie County Jail, the League of Women Voters of Appleton will conduct tours of the jail on April 30.

Sheriff Calvin Spice, who has long assailed the conditions in the jail, has approved the tours, and will personally conduct citizens through the jail.

The league has addressed invitations to over 200 community leaders in the county, expressing its concern about the inaction of the county board on jail improvements.

The league also is urging members of the public to attend.

Condemned by State

"Approximately six years ago the jail was condemned by the state as inadequate to house prisoners of any kind," the league invitations state. "Yet the facility is still in use.

"All persons, including juveniles, who are arrested by the county or referred to them, are taken to this jail. The League of Women Voters is concerned that no concrete action has yet been taken by the county board."

Since the state first ordered jail improvements in 1960, the county board has tossed around several plans for either remodeling the present cells on the fourth floor of the courthouse or building a new jail. None of the plans has passed the board. Meanwhile, the state has threatened several times to close down the jail.

A joint committee of county board supervisors and Appleton aldermen has now been authorized to proceed with specific plans for a city-county safety building which would include a new jail.

The committee is working on specific cost figures for land acquisition and financing.

By mid-June the city council and county board must approve architectural plans for building and take steps to purchase the land, or the county will again be in violation of a state order.

The state Department of Health and Social Services has threatened to close the jail if these conditions are not met.

The League of Women Voters has long been interested in the problem of holding juveniles in detention in the same jail facility with adult prisoners. An exhaustive study made by a citizens committee established by the league in 1964 recommended modern new juvenile detention facilities.

Sheriff's Report

Sheriff Spice said he supports the league's efforts to expose the jail's shortcomings to the public.

Groups of no more than 10 people will tour the jail facilities every half hour from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m.

Interested citizens are asked to contact Mrs. Jerold Winzenz, 65 Bellaire Court, first vice president of the league, to make reservations.

Spice said he would arrange for additional tours on other days if the citizens demand it.

To Your Good Health

High Blood Pressure Is Possible at Any Age

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 42, and 5 feet 2, and weight 140 pounds. I have a history of nervous trouble. For years I took medicine for my nerves, but three years ago I quit on my own.

A new doctor took over two years ago and says I have high blood pressure, 150-100, and am to take a reserpine pill every morning. I feel I am very young for something like this. Please help me. I take no other medication. — Mrs. R. A.

Dr. Thosteson

Best way I can help you is to suggest that you pay some attention to what your doctor tells you, and stop trying to fool yourself with this "too young" business.

In fact, I don't know what you really mean by saying you are "very young something like this." You have blood pressure. So why argue with the facts?

Why not argue, as well, that you were "too young" to have "nervous trouble," and too young to be overweight? For 140 pounds at your height is far too much.

Your blood pressure is not hopelessly high, but from the little you have told me, I would predict that, with your weight and nervous attitude, your pressure will continue to rise until it reaches dangerous levels, unless you control it.

Reserpine is a very useful drug — a tranquilizer — which not only is effective in controlling blood pressure but is very helpful in easing emotional tensions.

The time to do something about blood pressure is when you first know it is higher than it should be. If you wait until your pressure has gone higher, it can be too late; too much damage may already have been done.

Therefore the only way I can help you is to urge you to look facts in the face. Admit that your pressure is too high. Take the medicine your doctor prescribes.

And then do some of the things that he can't do for you, and you will have to accept as your own responsibility. For one thing, start getting rid of that excess weight, which is part of the cause of your pressure.

For another, start examining your "nervous trouble." Do you sit around and worry about yourself, instead of finding constructive things to keep you engrossed? Maybe helping other folks? Or getting into some civic or church or other project?

Forgive me for talking like a Dutch uncle. But when somebody has a problem and asks for help, but refuses to accept the doctor's instructions and refuses to accept the facts of life, there isn't much else to do except try to jar that person into accepting reality. (The early treatment of high blood pressure will forestall or even prevent its possible ravaging effect on the arteries and heart.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is too much tenderizer harmful? If it tenderizes meat, why doesn't it eat up the body, too? — M. L.

No, it's not harmful. Two reasons. First, it "tenderizes" by loosening muscle fibers. It does not bother the tissues of your digestive tract. (Tissues can be quite different in their reactions. Salt on your food helps the flavor, although much less salt in your eye would sting. There are many examples.)

Second, the tenderizer is destroyed by the heat of cooking, so it doesn't reach your stomach.

Teacher Talks Go On in Kaukauna

KIMBERLY — Members of the Kimberly Education Association (KEA) and bargaining committee of the school board met with a mediator on a new contract Tuesday night, but no concrete results were achieved.

The KEA offered to take a board proposal before a full meeting of the teachers and both sides agreed not to release details of the offer until after full KEA membership were given a chance to study the matter.

A progress report may be available later this week, according to Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools.

Oshkosh Worker Suffers Facial Cuts in Mishap

KAUKAUNA — Gordon Turnmeyer, 35, 416 W. Ninth St., Oshkosh, suffered severe facial lacerations and abrasions when he jumped or was toppled from a truck while working on demolition of the Grandview Hotel about 10:58 a.m. Tuesday.

Martin Leads Further Slashing by Committee

MADISON (AP) — A group of budget minded Republican members of the Joint Finance Committee, headed by Assemblyman David Martin of Neenah, proposed Thursday to cut $44.7 million from the $213.5 million request for state building projects next year.

The plan would slash nearly $40 million from the $104.9 million requested by the Building Commission for the University of Wisconsin.

Several committee members, including Assemblyman Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield, indicated the cuts do not go far enough. He was particularly concerned about a planned $120 million expansion of Wisconsin's medical school and claims by the school's administration that more land is needed for expansion of other facilities.

"It should be either the land or the medical center," he said. "Plans for expansion of other buildings run counter to the claim by the medical school that it can't expand on its present site."

The cuts suggested by Martin represent "preferential treatment for the state universities system," said Sen. Henry Dorman, D-Racine.

"Definite Undertones"

Its request was cut from $55 million to $52.8 million.

"There are definitely undertones in this move," Dorman said, referring to legislative reaction to disruptions at Wisconsin.

Projects to be cut at Wisconsin include a $7.8 million expansion of Memorial Library and a $1.5 million Great Lakes Center at Milwaukee.

Martin, who was head of the Building Commission's sub-committee for state universities, denied any political motive was involved in his decision.

"We've got the high interest rate to consider and the possibility of flooding the labor market, in addition to a desire to build the facilities needed," he said.

The Joint Finance Committee came under attack in the Senate Thursday.

"Far rightists are ruining everything in the state capital," asserted Sen. Martin J. Schreiber, D-Milwaukee. "These people on the Joint Finance Committee make Scrooge look like Tiny Tim."

The committee's budget cuts are going to be disasterous, he said, criticizing the legislators for "resounding silence which in effect condones the action."

It is to early "to come to conclusions" about the committee's actions, said Sen. Ernest Keppler, R-Sheboygan. "There's a taxpayers' revolt, let's face the fact."

The Senate killed a bill which would prohibit former supreme court and circuit court judges from serving as temporary circuit judges.

Senators also passed several minor bills, including an Assembly measure to enact a Wisconsin code of military justice for military forces not in federal service.

Bitter debate broke out in the Assembly over two bills to make it easier for students to live off campus at state universities.

The first bill would prohibit universities from requiring persons who have completed their first year and have parental consent, or are 21, married and commuting to live in college-owned housing.

The second would allow the university to lease property from private owners.

They were referred to the Joint Finance Committee.

"I have a distinct impression these bills have a common denominator," said Assemblyman Edward Nager, D-Madison, the bills' chief critic. "That is to put more and more student housing in the hands of private developers and take more and more away from the state.

Bills were introduced to: Make Afro-American history and Indian history required courses in public schools; Tighten open housing requirements for one-family dwellings and prohibit fradulent or misleading advertising and sales practices by automobile tire dealers.

Legion Votes To Sponsor Child at Camp

LITTLE CHUTE — Members of the American Legion Monday night voted to donate $150 to the Legion Auxiliary child welfare program, and to send a local crippled child to Camp Waubeek and supply him with spending money.

They also decided to take a one-year leave of absence from the American Legion Junior Baseball League because of lack of players and interest shown in last year's program.

Discussion was held on establishing a $400 scholarship for high school seniors, but action on the proposal was delayed for further study.

Citations were presented to five local police officers for meritorious service to the community. The group decided to seek the 9th District bowling tournament for the village in 1970.

James Larson, district commander, presented pins to Harry Samuels, membership chairman, and commander Norbert Demerath for the post's 100 per cent membership achievement. Candidates named for post commander, to be elected at the May meeting, were Samuels and O'Neil Rochon.

A story appearing in the April 11 edition of The Post-Crescent listed the Streck auto as striking the DeGroot car.

Calumet County traffic police explained that the mixup occurred inadvertantly while transferring the information to the accident report.

$18.7 Million Suggested for UWGB Projects

Martin Outlines Construction Funding To Finance Panel

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — An $18.7 million building program for the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay has been proposed to the legislature's joint committee on finance.

The programs, outlined Thursday by Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, contain more than $5.7 million in cuts from the recommendations of the State Building Commission.

Martin made the recommendations as a subcommittee of one after several of his fellow finance committee members asked him for his suggestions because he also serves on the building commission.

Martin's recommendations for the entire state building program for 1969-71 of which the proposed UWGB package is a part, total $168.7 million.

Included in the Martin suggestion, which he termed the maximum which will be allowed by the finance committee, is a UW building program topping $71.9 million, including $38.1 million for the new branch campuses in Brown and Kenosha counties.

Cut $33 Million

The UW program under Martin's recommendation which will be acted on next week is a cutback of more than $32.9 million from the commission proposal.

The state university system, Martin suggested, should receive more than $52.8 million in new building projects, a cutback of only $2.2 million.

Cut immediately from the Green Bay building program by the finance committee was a proposed land acquisition program for the coming two years totaling $50,000.

Martin had already trimmed that proposal from the $200,000 level recommended by the commission.

Assemblyman Russell Olson, R-Bassett, objected to spending for land. He had opposed the original requirement in the law creating the Green Bay and Parkside campuses that counties contribute the land for the schools, he said.

UWGB Outlined

But the section was written despite his objections. The same policy should be continued for new lands needs for the campuses, he said.

The UWGB building program as recommended by Martin contains:

— A $6,830,000 library learning center

— A $5,490,000 communication buildings, which underwent a $2 million cut in Martin's proposal

— A $4,430,000 heating, chilling and electrical plant representing a cutback of $1,410,000

— Site development work totaling $1,440,000

— Start-up equipment totalling $389,000

— Space conversion funds for remodeling totaling $200,400

Ratio Questioned

A Democratic member of the committee, Sen. Henry Dorman of Racine observed that Martin's proposal abandons the concept of "parity" in cutbacks between educational systems in higher educational building, said Dorman. Program cutbacks for the UW and state university systems had maintained a two to one ratio in the three steps of approval before they reached Martin.

Martin's cutbacks represent a 16-1 ratio in favor of the state universities, said Dorman. Martin replied that his proposals are based on studeis of the urgency of building needs, compared to the increase in cost to the state of borrowing money for building.

'1,000 Island' Park Planning To Proceed

Outagamie Board Wants Development As Wildlife Area

Outagamie County supervisors rounded out a three-day April reorganizational session Thursday afternoon by giving the go-ahead on plans and cost estimates for the so-called 1,000 Island Park site near Kaukauna.

Supv. G. Allen Buboiz, Appleton, said that the 242-acre site located on the Fox River will be developed mainly as a wildlife area. The park will become the second in the county's parklands.

The county board parks and recreation committee has worked with the City of Kaukauna, which asked the county to assist in planning the site. The Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission will prepare the plans and cost estimates.

Top Priority

Bubolz, parks committee chairman, said that the site is the top priority of his committee's long-range park planning. The other county park is Plamann, north of Appleton.

In other business, the board authorized the county hospital trustees to convert the station-wagon to an emergency vehicle; approved making Kelso Road, which links U. S. 41 and County Trunk OO part of the county trunk system and asking the state to build a service road parallel to 41 from OO to McCarthy's Crossing in the Town of Kaukauna within two years, and went on record against the state raising the septic tank installation fee and hiring 12 sanitarians to assist counties.

Royalton Woman Injured in Crash

Mrs. Burton Phillips, Royalton, was taken to New London Community Hospital about 5:15 p.m. Thursday after she suffered a head cut in a one-car accident at Outagamie County Trunks O and A, five and a half miles north of Appleton.

County police said that a car, driven by her husband, was westbound on O and slid through the intersection into a ditch striking a power pole after the left front brake locked as Phillips was stopping for a stop sign.

Police said there was about $500 damage to the auto. The pole was broken off.

'The Saint' Starts Its 4th Season

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channel-5 — In the history of the medium, no TV series has so successfully filled the rerun season's substitute role as The Saint, which starts its fourth season tonight. Roger Moore, whose image with the ladies may have changed after his recent marriage, remains the epitome of the impossibly impeccable private detective. In this somewhat complicated plot, he finds himself caught between four deadly hoods and a fifth, the most dangerous of all even though he's dead.

* * *

6:30-7:30 Channel-11 — Remember the beautifully nostalgic refrain of "Hello, Young Lovers" from "The King and I?" You'll hardly recognize it when Tom Jones and company give it their contemporary treatment on This Is Tom Jones. Tom's guests include chanteuse Mireille Mathieu and Pat Paulsen take care of the comedy and guitarist Manitas de Plata and the rock group, The Who, are featured.

* * *

6:30-7:30 Channel 2 — The Wild Wild West hits a low mark in imagination with this episode, even though the series has been generally creative. This one has the boys in a mining town that is literally owned, citizenry included, by a mining syndicate. They are after the syndicate's accountant and when they pick him up, they find themselves being chased by the entire population of the place.

* * *

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — You may think The High Chaparral is taking too much time establishing its plot tonight, but actually plot construction here takes second place to character study. Ed Begley stars as a rancher who raised three gun-toting sons and also has two adopted sons, Samuel and Joe Butler. Sam, the Chaparral foreman, vows to kill one of his foster brothers, after the young gunnie kills Sam's daughter.

7:30-8 Channel 2 — (You should be as tired of reading this Gomer Pyle USMC preview, as we are printing it, the result of a triple schedule preemption.) Sgt. Carter gets an unusual camouflage job on a mobile command post during maneuvers on Gomer Pyle USMC. It occurs following Gomer's assignment to guard the post and his subsequent meeting with a group of hippies.

* * *

7:30-9 Channel 5 — The Name of the Game has the happy combination of a good script and excellent cast. Tony Franciosa is the rotating regular and John Saxon the guest star. The latter plays a combat photographer whose uncontrollable temper gets him charged with the murder of an airline stewardess. The two have been close friends and despite Franciosa's tendency to believe the charge, he agrees to help his buddy.

* * *

8-10 Channel 2 — "Fort Bravo" on The Friday Night Movies, has William Holden in the type of role for which he has few peers. He plays the hard-as-nails military man of the Civil War who is more feared than he is respected. His hardness is a veneer, however, though it is a foot thick.

9-10 Channel 11 — Judd for the Defense has been characterized by the excellence of its scripts as with this one delving into the ways of modern witchcraft. Judd's defendant is an ex-boxer who took a poke at the female leader of a witch cult and has been charged with assault

Derald DeYoung in Faculty Concert

DeYoung, an instructor in music, will be assisted by pianist Allan Jacobson, violist Kenneth Byler and cellist Frances Clarke Rehl, all members of the faculty.

The program will be highlighted by DeYoung's transcription of the "Sonata XI for Flute," by George Frederick Handel, and by the "Serenade No. 6 for Trombone, Viola and Cello" (1950), by Vincent Persichetti.

Also to be performed are "Concerto for Trombone and Piano" (1963), by Roger Boutry; "Concerto for Trombone" (1953), by Kazimierz Serocki; "Berceuse-Cradle Song," by Gabriel Faure; and "Sonatina" (1968), by Halsey Stevens.

Milwaukee Rep Troupe Brilliant in 'Godot'

Performance Sparkles, Direction Superb; Play to be Repeated Monday in Green Bay

Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

Since Eugene Lesser's direction is as inventive as Samuel Beckett's script is perceptive, the Milwaukee Repertory Theater's traveling production of "Waiting for Godot" is an unalloyed joy.

The five-member company opened its University System tour Tuesday evening in the Fine Arts Room of the UW-GB Fox Valley Campus. It will resume its schedule next Monday, with a performance at the University campus, Green Bay.

Despite the last-minute substitution of Jeff Chandler (not. one hastens to note, the silver-haired film star, but a notably gifted member of the MRT company), Tuesday's opening was crisply-paced and confidently-acted, with a kind of bravura polish that the audience (and this reviewer) loved.

Wait and Wait

Heading the cast, as a pair of hoboes who wait endlessly for Godot, are Michael Tucker and Ron Van Lieu. Loose-limbed and rubber-faced, Tucker brings to his interpretation of "Gogo" much of the universal appeal of a Danny Kaye, while Van Lieu plays "Didi" with all of the aplomb of an experienced burlesque comedian.

Providing excellent support for the principals are Ronald Steelman, as the slave-driving fat cat, Pozzo, and Jeff Chandler as his quivering foil, Lucky. Chandler, in particular, brought out the very essence of the pathetic Lucky; his long, incomprehensible monologue was brilliantly delivered.

Judy Mueller rounds out the cast as A Boy, and though she delivers her lines clearly and precisely, it would take an extremely obtuse spectator to be persuaded that she is what she claims to be.

Throughout, Eugene Lesser's firm directorial hand is much in evidence. Some of his touches — in particular, the Mae West-W.C. Fields and Amos 'n' Andy routines — are masterful.

William James Wall's scenery and costumes suit the script neatly, and William Mintzer's lighting is, as might be expected, unobtrusively right.

Playgoers who weren't able to attend Tuesday's performance would be well advised to plan on catching up with this outstanding company at Green Bay next week. They won't regret the effort. It's at 8 p.m. Monday in the drama room of the Deckner Avenue campus.

'Deserter U.S.A.' In Sweden Stars U.S.A. Deserters

STOCKHOLM (AP) — "Deserter U.S.A.," a low-budget film starring American military deserters and draft resisters in Sweden, opened Wednesday. The show was interrupted briefly by an apparent bomb scare.

Soon after the movie started, the audience was asked to leave while the hall was searched for "some dangerous material." Nothing was found and the show went on.

The film deals with the motives and living conditions of young Americans who fled to Sweden because of their opposition to the Vietnam war. There are about 300 American defectors and draft resisters living in this country. Most of the actors perform under assumed names.
